HOOVER TAKES BUSINESS HELM

Today

Cheaper Money.
A Wave of Hysteria.
Bank Stocks.
Vicious Rumors.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MONEY was cheaper yesterday for all purposes, real business or Wall street bargain buying.

Wise bankers will pass on to industry and business the benefit of the federal reserve discount cut.

IN OCTOBER this country sold to other countries merchandise amounting to $530,000,000, a record for the year, and for eight years, excepting two months in 1928.

Business is good, money is cheap.

Then, what is the matter with us? Two things—a period of reckless gambling and a wave of hysteria.

THE former Kaiser is said to have consulted a fortune teller, Peter Johanssen, whom he asked whether he would die a natural death. He is said to resent the seer's statement that he would live and die in exile.

WILLIAM HOHENZOLLERN is not a fool and the story is probably false. But earlier emperors, including Alexander the Great, have listened to fortune tellers. Keppler was obliged to tell fortunes by the stars for his emperor, to keep the imperial interest alive and get money for astronomical work.

CARL B. EIELSON, brave, skilful Scandinavian pilot, flew to the Arctic regions, brought back six passengers from an ice-bound ship and has gone back for more.

IN AMERICA the O'Connor Trans-Atlantic Airways Company will build a hydroplane to carry 75 passengers to Europe in 30 hours. The plane will be built to stand rough water.

That's the day's air news.

JAMES BREEN, first assistant corporation counsel in Chicago, attending to his duty, annoyed some advocates of direct action. An exploding bomb yesterday blew him and his wife out of bed. It was placed on the front porch, woke and disturbed patients in a nearby hospital, caused $5,000 damage, injured no one.

That is the racketeers' news. Use of and application of a "pineapple" or bomb, costs very little.

STRANGEST among the developments of the late Wall Street cyclone was the drop in prices of bank stocks.

Banks ALWAYS make money. The people have no intention of getting along without credit or without money. When times are good, they USE a great deal of it. When times are bad, they NEED a great deal of it.

YET the most brilliant and successful banks in New York saw their stocks dwindle in value, in the recent panic of fear, to an extent that exceeded the drop in any other line of stocks on the list.

RECORDS show that since September the greatest banks in New York have averaged a drop of 52 per cent in the quoted prices of their stocks. This applies to the greatest banks in the world, banks whose stocks will have an ultimate value difficult to exaggerate.

AND this drop in the price of stocks came in the face of a banking condition not merely absolutely sound, but extraordinarily prosperous and "liquid."

The writer is able to state positively that throughout the whole "cyclone" only two big banks in New York borrowed from the Federal Reserve, and they are not among the biggest.

Two of the biggest banks in the way of prosperity, the First National and the National City Bank, throughout that "cyclone" maintained a condition of "liquidity" exceeding 65 per cent of their deposits. And what is true of them is true of many others.

AND in the face of this condition vicious rumors were circulated, rumors attacking credit institutions that are, necessarily, the cornerstones of the nation's financial security.

THERE should be some way of reaching and silencing financial scandal mongers, as vicious and harmful in a period of financial stress as the wreckers of old days that killed passengers and stole their goods as they came ashore from a sinking ship.

THIS is written by one who did not sell a share of anything in the hubbub, one whose withers are unwrung, as he took his own advice, "don't gamble."

OTHER countries are puzzled by extraordinary accumulations of gold in the bank of France. The French have more gold than any country in the world except this country and are rapidly approaching us in gold reserves.

THERE is nothing puzzling about it. The French are marvellously thrifty. Their government is intelligent and determined. What they want they mean to have, and they usually get it.

POLICEMAN'S FIRE MISSES SUPERIOR

Poor Aim Saves Lieutenant's Life When Squad Storms Barricade; Patrolman Held

The unsteady aim of Patrolman Clurg J. Shelton, 26, crack marksman of the police bureau, probably saved the life of a fellow officer, Lieut. John P. Joyce, early today.

Shelton fired one shot that missed Joyce by inches when he and other officers invaded the home of Patrolman Walter Shelton, his brother, at 818 Western avenue, where the crack-shot policeman had barricaded himself.

Shelton, crazed by liquor, it was testified in North Side Police Court, barricaded himself in a room on the third floor of the house and threatened to shoot anyone trying to enter. His brother telephoned North Side Police Station, and Lieut. Joyce with Patrolmen Earl Wright and Harry Bush started to the house. Before they arrived, Shelton pulled a nearby police box, and Capt. Anthony Bloch and Patrolman Henry Owczarzak responded with riot guns and tear bombs.

Shelton was coming downstairs when Lieut. Joyce and the two patrolmen arrived, and when Joyce started up to meet him the other fired at him with a revolver, police said. The bullet went wild.

Shelton was subdued and taken to Allegheny General Hospital, where 14 sitches were taken in his head. Later he was sent to North Side Station where he was charged with being a suspicious person. He has been a member of the police department five years.

Shelton was held for court charged with pointing and discharging firearms.

PITT PICKED TO DEFEAT TARTANS

By JESS CARVER

For the sixteenth time since 1906, the football varsities of Pitt and Carnegie Tech, feverish rivals of long standing for city gridiron honors, will fight it out in the Stadium this afternoon. Pitt, undefeated and untied in seven games this season, rules a favorite over the wearers of the Plaid, defending the mythical city championship.

Because Carnegie's record so far is spotted with one defeat and one tie, the Panthers have been established almost red-hot choices by the more rabid enthusiasts. Those who know, from past experience, of the degree of fight and spirit capable of being aroused in the breasts of the Men of Tech, are more conservative in their calculations regarding the outcome of today's struggle.

In the 16 games that have been played since the rivals opened gridiron relations back in '06, the Panthers have emerged victorious no less than 11 times. Tech has won four, all since 1923. The Skibos took last year's thriller by a 6-0 count.

55,000 EXPECTED

Given a continued good break in the weather there is a chance that today's turnout may rival the record-breaking horde of 66,000 on hand for the Tech-Notre Dame struggle earlier in the year. The advance sale, a trustworthy barometer for determining the actual day-of-the-game crowd indicates that there will be at least 55,000 on hand by kick-off time.

Waynesburg, Duke, West Virginia, Nebraska, Allegheny, Ohio State and Washington and Jefferson have fallen before the Panthers so far. Except for a few minutes

WILLOCK, BRIDE IN HIDING

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(INS.)—Surprised and discomforted by the barrage of publicity that has followed their marriage, William Willock, Jr., heir to $120,000,000, and his pretty young bride, Adelaide Ingebretsen Willock, have fled to a new honeymoon abode, and were inaccessible today. The bride, up to 10 days ago when she married Willock, was a chambermaid at the palatial Willock estate at Syosset, L. I.

They had been honeymooning in an $8 a week room over a store in Oyster Bay. But, what with the ubiquitous reporters and photographers keeping them from the solitude they sought, and the newspapers carrying stories of their romance in no little detail, they decided to pack up and leave. And they did.

So when the bride's mother-in-law, the gracious, blue-blooded Mrs. Alice Jones Willock, finally decided to

HOPE FOR WAR SECRETARY DIM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Only slight hope for the recovery of Secretary Good was held out today by his staff of physicians, who described his condition as extremely critical.

Whether the War Department chief would be able to recover appeared, they said, to depend upon considerations outside of their control.

All that medical science could provide, they added, had been done for him and it was a question of standing by to see what the next few hours would develop in his condition. His temperature, respiration and pulse were high and he was fighting hard against sepsis.

President Hoover, who paid a visit last night to the bedside of his close friend and associate, was keeping in close touch with Walter Reed Hospital from where the discouraging reports were being relayed to his office in the White House at frequent intervals.

The President's visit to the War secretary's bedside was both unexpected and dramatic. Following the 8:45 bulletin, the President suddenly ordered his auto and sped to Walter Reed. When he entered the sick room, Secretary Wilbur, Col. Keller and Dr. Boone were present. Wan and listless, Good was propped slightly in bed.

"How are you, my good friend?" queried the President gently as he strode across the room with hand outstretched.

Good smiled feebly and answered in a voice too faint for the doctors to catch as they retired from the room.

AGENTS GUARD BREWERY

Prohibition agents today are guarding the plant of the Greensburg Beverage Company, at Greensburg, Pa., seized by the government last night.

Alleged sale of "wort," a malt extract, was given as the cause of the seizure. Some of the product, agents said, was seized in the plant and at other places. An investigation is under way. The plant, it was said, does not have a government license.

Police Arresting Drivers Of Uninspected Cars

Driving home his newly purchased used car at 9 a. m., Michael Lagarski, 1024 Bingham street, attained the distinction of being the first motorist summoned for violation of the inspection law.

Traffic Officer David Walsh, of Fifth avenue and Grant street, stopped Lagarski, interrogated him and presented the new car owner with a summons. The car, minus inspection certificate, had just been purchased from a used car dealer, Lagarski said.

Although scores of highway patrolmen and city traffic police checked the main traffic streams for violators of the new inspection law, few arrests were made today as almost all machines bore inspection stickers.

The second man to fall into the hands of the city police was Edward Dowell, an employe of a Freedom garage. He said he told his "boss" that he would probably be stopped when he left the garage.

WALL STREET OPTIMISTIC

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(INS.)—There being no session of the New York Stock Exchange today, brokers and their over-worked employes enjoyed another welcome respite. They were at their offices, however, catching up on accumulated tasks.

Throughout Wall street there was a distinct feeling of relief and optimism — in sharp contrast to the situation a week and two weeks ago. The rally in prices yesterday and the day before has had the effect of bringing about a decided change of aspect. Pessimism has given away to optimism and the general belief is that the situation as regards the stock market will continue to show a steady, if gradual, improvement.

President Hoover's action in calling a "prosperity" conference of the nation's leading business men at Washington next week was also regarded as another important factor tending to create additional confidence in the future.

The leading bankers, who have been watching the trend of the stock market with concern, now feel that the situation is almost normal. The bankers met late yesterday at the offices of J. P. Morgan and Company and compared notes. They were unanimous on one point: that the situation is brighter at present than at any time in the last three weeks. The conviction was general that the storm has blown over.

U. S. LEADERS EXPRESS FAITH

Industrial, Financial, Rail Heads View White House Confab as Trade Stimulus

By WILLIAM FLYTHE

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—President Hoover's call for a business conference at the White House was today given general approval by industrial, financial and railroad heads of the United States.

They all expressed confidence that the conference will result in keeping industry at a high level.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, said:

Willard Confident

"If President Hoover has decided to confer with representative businessmen and industrialists of the nation for the purpose of correcting whatever may have caused the recent stock market upheaval I am convinced that the plan is a wise one."

Patrick E. Crowley, president of the New York Central Lines, said:

"I am not informed as to the purpose of the President's conference. However, I see nothing on the economic horizon that is not bright. The outlook for the railroads, generally speaking, is good, and they can look toward next year with great confidence."

Leaders Invited

The President has invited to the conference the heads of most of the large railroads in the United States, representatives of the great banking interests and builders. Those to be here will include John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Henry Ford, J. Pierpont Morgan, or a representative of his firm; Thomas W. Lamont, Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, and many others.

The President made it plain that this was to be a preliminary conference looking to the advancement of great construction projects and the stimulation of international trade.

Consulted Mellon

The President, it was learned, has been planning this conference since the stock market showed its first depression.

Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and Alexander J. Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, formerly of the great harvesting machine interests, have been among his chief consultants. Henry J. Pierce, of the electric power interests, was called in yesterday and will be a member of the conference next week. The industrial and financial leaders will meet with the President, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary of Commerce Lamont, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, Secretary of Labor Davis, Gov. Roy O. Young, of the Federal Reserve Board, members of the Federal Reserve Board and a number of the governmental experts.

'PROSPERITY PARLEY' CALLED

President Acts to Assure Continued Good Times by Development of Building

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—President Hoover has assumed command of a distinct governmental effort to keep American business on an even and prosperous keel until it can work itself free from the shoals into which it floundered by over-indulgence in stock speculation.

Recognizing the dangers inherent in the situation caused by the prolonged collapse of securities' prices, Mr. Hoover on Wednesday demonstrated his faith in the basic soundness of the country's business structure by committing his administration to immediate reduction of personal and corporate taxes to the extent of $160,000,000.

More Trade Sought

Today he followed up this reassuring step by preparing for a general conference in Washington next week with some of the nation's leading industrialists, economists, agriculturists and business experts, at which definite corrective steps will be mapped out to carry the country over this difficult period.

Together the President and his conferees will canvass the situation, make certain specific recommendations, and again reassure hesitant credit that the business structure is still sound, weather-proof and needs only the sunshine of renewed confidence to withstand existing conditions.

It is Mr. Hoover's theory that the remedy for stale business is redoubled efforts to obtain more business, together with the psychology of confidence. He aims to stimulate the one and restore the other.

Fears Held Foolish

"In market booms," he said, in announcing his forthcoming conference, "we develop over-optimism with a corresponding reserve into over-pessimism. They are equally unjustified.

"Any lack of confidence in the economic future or the

CONSUMERS' PROTESTS FAIL

Agriculture Boosts Cause Dissatisfaction in Ranks Of Insurgents as Too Big

By WILLIAM S. NEAL,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The highest barriers ever erected by Congress for the benefit of American farmers were written into the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill today with completion of the chief agricultural sections by the Senate.

The Senate not only retained the major increases proposed for agriculbute by the House but adopted a score of amendments raising other House rates. In but few instances were spokesmen for the great consuming center successful in blocking boosts.

With the adoption of minor amendments today, the Senate was still confronted with the related agricultural schedules of tobacco and sugar. Neither was embraced in the original "farm bloc" program to boost the agricultural rates to a parity with industry in conformity with the special session call of President Hoover.

NEW RATES OPPOSED

Although "farm bloc" members proclaimed the result a sweeping victory for agriculture, there was some dissatisfaction even in the bloc's ranks over the boosts.

Senator Norbeck (Rep.), of South Dakota, declared that some agricultural rates had been lifted out of reason and Senator Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana, asserted "we have gone to the extreme in fixing rates."

At the same time Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, criticized the Senate by declaring "the great American consuming public hasn't got a chance on earth here."

Among the agricultural rates incorporated in the bill are: Wheat 42 cents, same as present law; oats increased 15 to 16 cents; corn, 15 to 25 cents; potatoes, 40 to 75 cents a hundredweight; fresh tomatoes, 1 to 3 cents a pound; canned tomatoes, 40 to 50 cents ad valorem; citrus products were raised all along the line, as were duties on fish.

Having obtained their demands on agricultural rates, insurgent Republicans generally were adopting the program laid down by Senator Simmons (Dem.), of North Carolina, of retaining the 1922 Fordney-Mccumber industrial rates as the basis of the new tariff bill.

SEEK COALITION PACT

As a result of the spread of this sentiment, the new group of "young guard" Republicans headed by Senator Vandenberg, (Rep.) of Michigan, was negotiating with insurgent leaders in the rather slim hope of passing the bill in the special session.

They agreed to yield to the coalition's demands if the coalition leaders agree to protect the industrial fabric of the nation against a low tariff assault. Vandenberg expressed optimism over the progress made, but said there was no thought of entering into a formal agreement.

Meantime insurgent leaders were still trying to find an escape from the threatened bitter fight over the sugar tariff. Although Senator Howell, (Rep.) of Nebraska, was engaged in promoting the plan of Senator Borah, (Rep.) of Idaho, to pay beet sugar producers a bounty and leave the present sugar tariff unchanged, some insurgents rebelled against it.

Spokesmen for the beet sugar interests also spurned the plan, and declared they would fight for a at increase in the sugar tariff.

Talk of adjourning the congress next week was silenced for the time being, by the militant attitude of the "young guard." There were indications though that the plea for early adjournment would be renewed next week, following final action on the agricultural schedule. The "young guard" meanwhile had a battle-cry of "stand by the president and pass the bill."

One of its members said: "If we have formed a bloc, it is the first time President Hoover has had one in congress."

RECOUNT BOARD MAKES REPORT

Recounting of the primary votes from 84 election districts is progressing, according to a report of the board made in a letter to James E. Routley, acting chief clerk of the County Commissioners.

The letter was delivered yesterday in response to a request for a report from the board made by a resolution of the commissioners November 7.

Of the 84 boxes brought before the board under the 1927 act, the report states that 29 have been completed and reports on them filed with the court; 61 have been recounted, and return sheets have been prepared on 54.

Detailed explanation of the duties of the board which "are very exacting, requiring an immense amount of work of high quality, involving almost untold detail," is made in the report.

The report concludes with the statement that "the members of the board submit that the requirements of the Act of 1927 have been complied with at as low an expense as any reasonable person, knowing these requirements, could deem desirable or proper."

Exhibit "A" attached to the report shows the cost of the board to November 16 is $11,260 for salaries to the three board members and the score of clerks engaged in the work.

INDICTED IN VOTE THEFT

A true bill charging robbery of two ballot boxes, has been returned by the county grand jury against George Rodosvich, accused of being the man who held up the polling place of the Twenty-first District of the Fourth Ward, Oakland, soon after the polls closed September 17, and made off with the ballot boxes before the votes had been counted. The boxes later were found in Schenley Park with the ballots scattered on the ground. M. J. Coyne was judge of the election board.

Rodosvich was arrested on the farm of "Happy" Butler, Oakland politican, where he was employed. He was identified by a scar on his neck, members of the election board having told that the robber had such a scar.

Weather Conditions.

A high pressure area, centered over Virginia, covers the upper Ohio Valley and Middle Atlantic states, and relatively high pressure overlies the West Gulf states, and the western high is still over the plateau section and Rocky Mountain states, but with diminished intensity. The disturbance that appeared over the Canadian Northwest yesterday morning is now centered north of the Great Lakes and relatively low barometer extends southward over the central valleys. There is considerable cloudiness over the Ohio Valley states and southward, and it is raining over Tennessee, Alabama and Western North Carolina and in Arkansas and Missouri. Temperatures are moderating over the West, but over the Ohio Valley and Middle Atlantic states it is cooler than yesterday morning.

REWARD SPURS BANDIT HUNT

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 16.—(INS.)—With a price of $70,000 on their heads, the seven armed bandits who terrorized and robbed 18 socially prominent guests in the mansion of John L. Carson, Jr., in a Buffalo suburb, kept one jump ahead of pursuers today as a fruitless search proceeded throughout the state.

Spurred to action by the reward offered by Frank B. Baird, uncle of Miss Eleanor Cameron, in whose honor the raided dinner party was being held, police throughout Upper New York state kept a 24-hour watch for the bandits. But the lack of adequate descriptions has made it difficult to trace them.

Baird offered a reward of $5,000 for the capture of the seven bandits alive or $10,000 each for their bodies. His niece, a resident of Waco, Texas, was among the victims of the bandits, who lined the guests along a wall and stripped them of their valuables. The total amount aggregated more than $400,000.

Three young men, each with a revolver, held up Reed Brothers' gas station in McMurray road, Bethel Township, last night and emptied the cash register of $42 before they escaped in an auto.

They locked the attendant, William Morrow, 42, in a rear room. He escaped 30 minutes later by forcing the door.

HOOVER CALLS PROSPERITY COUNCIL

basic strength of business in the United States is foolish. Our national capacity for hard work and intelligent cooperation is ample guaranty for the future."

Mr. Hoover wants to stimulate building activities throughout the country, both public and private, as one great step toward increased business. It is a theory which he has long held that a nation that is constantly erecting new buildings is a busy and prosperous nation, for the ramifications of the building industry extend into every line of industrial activity and benefits steel, cement, lumber and innumerable manufacturing industries, as well as labor.

Funds for Building

"One of the results of the speculative period through which we have passed," he said, "has been the diversion of capital into the security market, with consequent lagging of the construction work of the country. The postponement of construction during the past few months, including not only buildings, railways, merchant marine and public utilities, but also federal, state and municipal public works, provides a substantial reserve for prompt expanded action. The situation is further assured by the exceptionally strong cash position of the large manufacturing industries of the country."

In other words, according to Mr. Hoover, the country has for months been succumbing to the lure of easy money in Wall Street, and has sent its cash into that busy mart instead of using it in the localities in which it was made to stimulate local business activities.

He wants to co-ordinate this intended stimulation of construction activity with renewed efforts at foreign trade expansion, and encouragement of general business expansion.

More Parleys Coming

Methods by which this program can be carried out will be discussed by the President with the industrial leaders and economists whom he is summoning to the capital next week.

The conference was referred to by the President as "a preliminary conference"—indicating that in the near future he plans another and more extensive parley with the nation's business and industrial leaders, together with leading agriculturists.

It is familiar ground to Mr. Hoover. During his eight years as Secretary of Commerce he probably held more conferences with business men throughout the country than all of the rest of the cabinet put together.

BART DUGAN IN BRADDOCK GENERAL HOSPITAL

Dugan, 32, East Pittsburgh, as he appears in the hospital, where he will soon be discharged. He lives despite the bullet in his brain and surgeons cannot remove it.

R. J. SHEEHAN DIES IN HOME

Robert J. Sheehan, former member of the old Common Council, and station master at the Pittsburgh office of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railway for 20 years, is dead in his home at 385 Forty-fourth street.

He was born in the old Tenth Ward and had resided here all his life, having been especially known in the Bayardstown and Lawrenceville districts.

He was a member of St. Mary's Church, the Holy Name Society, Knights of Columbus, Knights of Equity and was a past president of the Catholic Total Abstinence Society of Old St. Patrick's Church. He was also a past president of the Veteran Employes' Association of the P. & W. Va.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Delia O'Connell Sheehan, he is survived by two sons, Robert, Jr., and Charles I. Sheehan; five daughters, Marie, Eleanor, Kathryn, Regina and Carmelita; his mother, and two brothers.

THIEVES HAUL SAFE AWAY

Thieves early today forced the front door of the North Side Floral Company, 802 East street, rifled the cash register of $180 and carted away a 500-pound safe containing two checks.

Patrolman Edward Rose, en route to work, discovered the theft and notified Max Barzen, one of the proprietors, who said that the safe contained no money.

SHOT IN BRAIN, RECOVERS

Bart Dugan, 32, of 800 Linden avenue, East Pittsburgh, former policeman, fireman and constable of the borough, and former sergeant of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company police, will live despite the bullet in his brain.

Braddock General Hospital authorities said today that he has recovered from the wound, inflicted in what, police say, was an attempt to end his life, on November 3.

He will be detained at the hospital for another week, and then be permitted to go home. In spite of the lead pellet that physicians cannot remove, his brain has regained all of its faculties, it was said.

Mrs. Elsie Dugan, his wife, told police he had been in ill health and that he had been despondent for some time. Now, hospital authorities declared, he shows no sign of despondency.

PULLED SWITCH HALTS TRAFFIC

East Liberty traffic was demoralized for a short time during the rush hour last night when the master switch, controlling the traffic lights was accidentally pulled out, causing the lights to remain fixed on red, green and yellow. Policemen, realizing the situation, opened the control boxes on the corners and turned the lights out altogether. They then directed traffic by whistle. No. 8 Engine House, where the master switch is located, was recently converted into a storage garage for city trucks, and it is believed that someone mistook the traffic switch for the building light switch. Traffic Lieut. Bert Jacks, of the East Liberty division, tried to enter the building, but found it locked. He then found a loose chair seat, with which he broke a window in the station and replaced the switch.

Ellsworth Child Run Down By Auto

U.S. ACCEPTS DATE FOR PARLEY

January 21 Agreeable Time, Britain Informed; Fifth Delegate Still in Doubt

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The State Department has informed Great Britain that January 21 will be acceptable to the United States for the inauguration of the London conference on naval arms limitation, revealing for the first time the exact date upon which the parley will convene.

This was done in response to requests from London, Tokio, Paris and Rome that the Washington government indicate whether this proposed date was suitable. Previous announcements had fixed the opening of the conference no more definitely than the third week in January.

FIFTH ENVOY IN DOUBT

The American delegation plans to arrive in London some three or four days before the conference begins, in order to orient itself and be ready to devote its attention solely to the work of the parley once it is under way. It will be preceded, however, by a large part of the American mission, including clerks, stenographers and staff members.

As yet there has been no indication of who the fifth member of the American commission will be. The leader of the delegation will be Secretary Stimson and its members, so far announced, Ambassador Dawes, and Senators Reed, of Pennsylvania, a Republican, and Robinson, of Arkansas, a Democrat.

JAPAN PESSIMISTIC

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(INS.)—Naval circles in Tokio are outspokenly pessimistic over the chances of success in the forthcoming five-power disarmament conference to be held here in January, according to reports from that city today.

While the Japanese government officially denies the truth of the assertion, it is stated in naval circles that Japan may withdraw from the conference unless her demand for a 70 per cent ratio and eight-inch gun cruisers is accepted in advance.

The chief difficulty apparently lies in the fact that Britain has agreed to give the United States superiority in eight-inch gun cruisers, which would mean that Japan's 70 per cent of Britian's total would be only 60 per cent of the American total in this respect.

Official circles here declare that preliminary talks on the subject between Premier MacDonald and Ambassador Matsudaira have not resulted in any attempts to reach a hard and fast agreement, and that therefore no crisis exists. The conferences thus far have been informally and of purely an explanatory nature.

2 PRISONS NIP ESCAPE PLOT

JOLIET, Ill., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Warned by a paroled convict that disgruntled prisoners at the new Stateville prison were plotting to shoot and dynamite their way out of the penitentiary, prison authorities today redoubled guards and took drastic steps to prevent a mutiny.

The penitentiary has experienced unrest for several months since the State Supreme Court decreed that robbers convicted under a former 10-year-to-life law must serve at least 10 years before being eligible for parole.

Prior to that decision such convicts were considered eligible to parole at the end of six years and three months.

CANON CITY, Col., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Discovery of an elaborate plot to effect a wholesale delivery of prisoners from the state prison here, and evidence that a guard probably aided prisoners in the October mutiny which cost 13 lives, today had led to solitary confinement of five convicts and institution of rigid precautionary measures.

After two days of thorough search of the penitentiary during which guards and prison officials unearthed a large number of makeshift weapons—daggers, clubs and blackjacks—the latest attempt to escape was brought to the attention of the warden by a convict "stool pigeon" who talked with a newspaperman.

Plane Engineer Killed in Crash

LINCOLN, Ill., Nov. 16.—(INS.)—Ernest Capen, engineer and test plane flyer of the Capen Aircraft Corporation here, was burned to death yesterday when a plane he was testing crashed north of this city. The plane went into a sideslip at a low altitude and burst into flame.

Mellon, Wilson, Smith Kin, Belief of Genealogist

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—That the ancestors of the late Woodrow Wilson, Andrew Mellon and Alfred E. Smith came from the same county in Ireland and that they probably were related is the conclusion of Miss Jean Stephenson, a Washington genealogist.

The Secretary of the Treasury and the former governor of New York State she believes to be descendants of the same ancient Irish family, the Mulvahills. The belief that the ancestors of Wilson were related to the others Miss Stephenson based "on the law of probability."

The county of West Meath, a short distance from Dublin, where the ancestors of all three lived, she described as having few contacts with the outside world at the time that the forefathers of the three men lived there.

Roaring for Victory, Pitt Students Rally at Fire

In the light of a roaring bonfire Pitt students gathered last night at Frick Acres to cheer and sing themselves voiceless for a victory over Carnegie Tech today.

Speeches by W. Don Harrison, director of athletics, and many others were scheduled but went unsaid, for it was worse than useless to attempt anything that called for the attention and silence of the students. Only when the school's band hit up "Hail To Pitt" did the crowd show any sign of organization. Cheer leaders sweated in the intense heat of the giant blaze, which threw flickering light on the circle of Pitties, but only succeeded in coaxing hoarse sounds from throats that had been yelling "beat Tech" too long.

When the Gold and Blue band departed to more peaceful and cooler regions, the pep meeting disbanded. A few lingered to watch the fire burn out, some turned their steps in the direction of Tech's campus, while many ended the evening by pulling street car trolleys from wire.

Co-eds were there in force, inspired with the "on Pitt" spirit.

NEW SERVICE TO START MONDAY

Western Pennsylvania Towns, Northwestern Ohio Linked; Through Rates Established

Through an agreement reached between the Harmony Short Line Motor Transportation Company and seven other bus companies, bus service will be extended to all parts of Western Pennsylvania and Northeastern Ohio, it was announced today. The new service starts Monday.

Through rates have been established from Pittsburgh to virtually every point on the lines of the systems. At the same time the Harmony Short Line Motor Transportation Company announced a through bus line from Pittsburgh to New Castle by way of Butler, with four trips daily to Pittsburgh and three trips daily from Pittsburgh to Butler without change. In addition the company will operate a trip from Butler to New Castle daily.

LINKS MANY FIRMS

The agreement just reached between the companies for a consolidation of bus service includes the Harmony Short Line Motor Transportation Company, the Welsh Bus Company, the Patterson Bus Company, Edwards Motor Transportation Company, West Ridge Transportation Company, L. and N. Transportation Company, Rural Valley Bus Company and the Penn Ohio Coach Company.

Through the agreement tickets will be sold in Pittsburgh to points as far as Erie and Cleveland. In addition there will be service from Pittsburgh to Kittanning and intermediate points, to Franklin, Oil City and Meadville, Reynoldsville, Brookville, Dubois, Punxsutawney, Clearfield, Tyrone, Titusville, Conneaut Lake, Cambridge Springs, Leechburg, Sharon, Youngstown, Girard, Niles, Warren and Akron.

The through rates are to be established Monday.

To meet the requirements of additional service, the Harmony Short Line Motor Transportation Company, this week placed in operation two additional buses.

MEXICAN JURY ACQUITS GIRL

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Bernice Rush, of Louisville, Ky., has been given a conditional acquittal by a Mexican criminal court jury on charges of murdering her common law husband, Genaro Benavente, but must await affirmation by a Superior Court before securing her freedom.

The jury before which she has been on trial at midnight last night returned a verdict of acquittal by a vote of six to three. The magistrate, as is mandatory under Mexican law, referred the case then for review to the Superior Court and held Miss Rush in custody.

If the Superior Court fails to affirm the acquittal the woman, believed to be the first woman to come to trial in Mexico on murder charges, will have to be tried again.

Miss Rush claimed she shot Benavente only after he deserted her and had mulcted her of her life savings.

emerge from her mansion and see how the other half of the family lived, she could not find her son or his attractive young wife. Modishly gowned she motored to Oyster Bay, but her son and his bride were no longer at their little room over the store.

Whether or not Mrs. Willock subsequently met her daughter-in-law is not known. One report this morning was that the bride was back at the Willock mansion at Syosset, and that preparations were underway for a honeymoon in keeping with the Willock millions.

It was said that young Willock and his bride plan to continue their honeymoon in the South.

The aristocratic Mrs. Willock, Sr., has forgiven all.

She will take the happy couple to her heart, even if her husband remains adamant.

"Do you love my boy?" she is reported to have asked her daughter-in-law before the girl and her young husband left their $8 a week room for an unannounced honeymoon retreat.

"With all my heart," the girl replied.

"I believe you, and that's all that really matters," the heiress to the Jones & Laughlin steel wealth sighed.

The elder Willock, who at first declared he would stand by his son but not by the girl, received a solemn call from the boy yesterday afternoon.

The only clue to the outcome of the conference was a subsequent remark by the young bride:

"William's father is not yet reconciled to our marriage. I do not know that he ever will be—only I hope so. I do not like to have people unhappy. I am going to be cool," she added wisely.

Mrs. George De Montford, owner of the rooming house where the bride and groom have put up, learned in her capacity of keeper of the back stairs that the Willocks, Jr., could return to the Syosset home tomorrow if they liked.

At a family conference Thursday, the boy's parents asked them to come home and live there, Mrs. De Montford said (and she had it from young Willock himself). The family would discharge or transfer all servants who were there when the bride was a maker of beds, if they would only come home. But the boy refused.

Young Willock has always been eccentric, it was learned, and lived, before his marriage, in bachelor quarters over his machine shop on the estate.

When he went to the house he always visited the kitchen first to learn if there were guests on hand. If there were, he beat a hasty retreat, it is said.

FORGIVEN AND HAPPY!

Willock, heir to Jones and Laughlin Pittsburgh steel millions, and his serving-girl bride, today happy in the knowledge that his mother, the former Miss Alice Jones, has forgiven him for marrying one of her maids. All that is necessary is for her to love him, Mrs. Willock said, though Mr. Willock has not capitulated.

Feasts to Follow Fasts for Fish In Park Ponds

Any fasting imposed on fish in Panther Hollow Lake, Schenley Park, and Carnegie Lake, Highland Park, is to be ended in feasting.

Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, made an inspection of the lakes yesterday with Andrew Stevens, chief clerk in the bureau of parks. Lang left orders that the fish have access to nourishing food.

Lang said he would not prescribe any menus until he received requested reports from those who know the kind and frequency of meals relished by fish.

Reports that the fish often went hungry were made to Council last Wednesday by Pat A. Flood, secretary of the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce.

TWO TAKEN FOR RIDE, ROBBED

Kidnaped in Pittsburgh and taken to Wilkinsburg where they were robbed, was the experience last night of E. S. Edmund, of 7929 Susquehanna street, and John MacWhiter, of 8605 Westmont road.

They appeared at Wilkinsburg Police Station and reported they had been accosted by two men at Hamilton avenue and Hale street, Pittsburgh, forced into an automobile at the point of guns, and taken to the end of Coal street, Wilkinsburg. Here the car was stopped, they said, and they were forced out, Edmund being robbed of a watch valued at $30 and $5 in cash. The thieves overlooked money in MacWhiter's clothing. Both men then were forced to take off their shoes which were taken by the thugs who jumped into their car and sped away.

FEDERAL JURY PROBE HALTS

A special investigation, just begun by the federal grand jury, was interrupted when a week-end recess was ordered yesterday. United States Attorney Louis E. Graham and others shrouded the investigation in mystery.

Attorney A. Stanley Thompson, of Washington, special assistant to the United States attorney general detailed here, began presenting the matter to the grand jury at noon yesterday.

Rumor said the matter under investigation pertained to the anti-trust laws and interstate litigation. It is believed this was the matter originally scheduled to be heard by the September grand jury at Erie and suddenly called off.

The jurors returned true bills, in which 45 men and women were charged with violating the national prohibition law. In 22 of the indictments the defendants were also charged with maintaining common nuisances on premises where the alleged liquor violations occurred. Thise named in the latter indictments, together with the premises, where the alleged offenses occurred, were as follows:

Girl in Hospital After Being Beaten

Jennie Zuckerman, 18, of 113 Grant street, was taken to Mercy Hospital last night after she was beaten and kicked, police said, by Eli Pieskie, 37, of 337 Third avenue, when she refused to permit him to use a rifle in her father's shooting gallery until the parent consented. When the girl ran from the gallery Pieskie was reported to have followed her to the street, where he knockd her down and kicked her. He was held in Central Police Station as a suspicious person.

Stimson's Goat, Cigaret Fiend, Goes to Grass

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Too many cigarets and too much city life have resulted in a rest cure down on the farm for William Hamilton Bones, Filipino goat jointly owned by Secretary Stimson and his military aide, Capt. Eugene A. Reigner.

For two tempestuous months, Wild William was with the active army, but now he crops the grass on the broad acres of Maj. Albert F. Drake, retired, at Ashton, Maryland.

Here's the tale as told in quartermasters stables No. 1, to which William Hamilton Bones was attached:

"Too many people around, wanting to play with him. They got him into the habit of being hungry for cigarets. He wouldn't touch one that had been lighted. Wanted 'em fresh from the package.

"He got so that at the first sniff of tobacco, he reared right up on his hind legs and let you know he aimed to eat the package right out of your pocket! He'd no place in the city. The country is where he belongs!"

"Glad he's gone," voted the veterinarians.

OPERA LEADER, BRIDE ARRIVE

Aldo Franchetti, conductor of the Pittsburgh Opera Company, is in Pittsburgh today spending his honeymoon directing the rehearsals of "La Traviata," the next production to be given by the company Monday night.

With him is his bride, the former Ethel Baird, beautiful Brooklyn soprano—his pupil for the past four years.

They arrived in Pittsburgh last night. Workmen this morning were still gathering up confetti and gay-colored streamers. The honeymooners were greeted by the very stirring and ironic "Anvil Chorus" from 60 voices.

They will remain here until Tuesday, when they leave for Boston, where Mrs. Franchetti will take parts—dual roles—in Hansel and Gretel to be played by the Boston Civic Opera, which her husband also directs.

And in February, when her husband's own opera is presented in Pittsburgh, for its initial appearance anywhere, she will likely take a role. She said so and said her husband said so.

The name of the opera is "Namiko San," built about a Japanese drama.

Following their arrival they went to dinner and started rehearsals immediately. Pina Garavelli, Metropolitan Grand Opera coloratura soprano; Dimitri Onofrei, Chicago; Edward Albano, Metropolitan, and Irene D'Emilio, o' Milan, Italy, will play leading roles.

Finland Court Demands Dry Law Repeal

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The Express today prints a dispatch from Stockholm saying that the Supreme Court of Finland in an official communication to the government has demanded annulment of the prohibition law on the ground that its experience with the law has done great evil throughout the country during the last decade.

The court proposes a new law which would restrict liquor sales without absolute prohibition.

TUNNEY INQUIRY KEPT SECRET

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 16.—(INS.)—The deposition hearing under way in the suit of John S. Fogarty against Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, was to continue the session here today.

Attorneys for both sides hoped to complete the hearing of witnesses in Fort Worth today and move on to Ponca City, Okla, to continue the depositions.

Witnesses for Fogarty, who is suing Tunney for $500,000 heart balm, testified at yesterday's hearing, held behind closed doors

Defense attorneys concluded their case early yesterday after questioning one witness, C. E. Russell.

CURE SEEKERS IGNORE COLD

MALDEN, Mass., Nov. 16.—(INS.)—Frigid temperatures today failed like the previous 12 hours of rain to prevent thousands of men, women and children from visiting the grave of the Rev. Patrick J. Power in Holy Cross Cemetery, where many miracle cures have been reported.

As the long lanes of devout filed through the cemetery gates way was made for the helpless brought on stretchers from ambulances and automobiles, for the blind on the arms of friends, for the paralyzed children in the arms of their parents, for the wheel chairs of those who could not walk and for others seriously afflicted.

More than 100 prayed under the mellow moon of early morning and after dawn the crowds began to gather. Many of those here in the cold today had walked ankle deep in mud and prayed beneath a beating rain.

A hundred thousand persons were expected to make pilgrimages to the grave over the week-end. Malden police and city officials made plans to handle the vast throngs. Traffic routes for automobiles were designated, and all policemen were ordered on special duty for Sunday and eight firemen volunteered to give their day off to do police duty. More wooden fences were put up around the grave, replacing ropes.

TEAMS PASS WELFARE QUOTA

With several thousand dollars to spare over its daily quota, the campaign total of the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh reached $363,266 today, toward the goal of $1,168,055 in the second annual canvass for 31 local philanthropies. The total reported for the day was $69,604.

"There must be no relaxation of effort over the week-end," Joseph Dilworth, general chairman of the campaign, told a group of several hundred workers who had brought in the returns. "Saturday is no half day when we are working for our less fortunate neighbors, the blind, the invalids and the waifs. Sunday is to be a day of reconsecration in our resolve to raise our funds on time."

WOMEN IN LEAD

In yesterday's returns the women's teams still were the leaders by a substantial margin. The employe teams, headed by F. J. Chesterman, showed increased returns with subscriptions amounting to $6,231. Team No. 3, Royal E. Cook, chairman, was represented at the meeting with 100 per cent attendance. Women's teams represented by a full attendance were No. 13, Mrs. W. B. Trainer, chairman, and No. 18, Mrs. S. W. Munnis, chairman.

Mrs. John M. Phillips, chairman of the allied territory campaign, announced that the canvass throughout the boroughs and townships would commence next week and would be carried on in a house-to-house solicitation. The suburban organization is complete, Mrs. Phillips said, and the first returns will be read at the luncheon meeting at the William Penn Hotel Monday.

MESSENGERS HELP

Western Union messenger boys have organized to help the Welfare Fund and are carrying on a canvass on their own account, it was reported to the headquarters of the employe division. In other establishments junior employes are aiding the canvass by contributing individually. Girl students in the Pennsylvania College for Women have organized a team.

Nearly one-third of the entire fund has been raised. With prompt returns continued next week, it was declared that the final goal would be reached November 22, the date scheduled for closing the campaign.

$6,900 GIVEN VET BY JURY

Charles Anderson, Negro, of Sharon, Pa., World War veteran, was awarded a verdict for $6,900 by a jury in Federal court, in an action he brought against the government to recover money on a $10,000 war risk insurance policy. The case was heard before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker.

It was the first trial on a large number of such actions instituted in the district court by war veterans who seek to recover on policies because of permanent disabilities and other causes. In the case of Anderson the jury deliberated one hour.

Anderson entered the military service on October 5, 1917, and remained until April 5, 1919, when, he said, he was honorably discharged because of disability, and has since suffered from pneumonia and other ailments.

The plaintiff declared that demands made on the United States Veterans' Bureau for monthly payments of $57.50 in accordance with his insurance contract, were refused. The government, represented by Assistant United States Attorney W. J. Aiken, denied he had made proof of disability to the veterans' bureau, but admitted that a disagreement existed between the plaintiff and the director of the bureau. The award is for that period between April 5, 1919, and April 11, 1929.

Wells Poison Water, Brothers Win $6,850

Verdicts of $5,000 in favor of George Schlichtkrull and $1,850 in favor of George, Andrew and Erick Schlichtkrull, brothers, of Pine township, in their suits against the Mellon-Pollock Oil Company, were found in Common Pleas Court before Judge James B. Drew after a trial lasting a week. They alleged that the drilling of a well on property adjacent to two farms of nine and seven acres owned by them resulted in pollution of springs and made the property useless for farming.

Daylight Delivery Of Milk Planned

Beginning December 1 daylight milk deliveries will be tried in Pittsburgh, George A. Farthing, secretary of the Reick-McJunkin Dairy Company, said today. Several other dairies will try the plan, Mr. Farthing said. About 300 men will be affected by the change and instead of starting at work at 11 p. m., as at present, they will begin at 7 a. m.

$10,745 Insurance Awarded to Widow

Mrs. Iva N. Seifris, of Mars, Pa., was awarded a verdict for $10,745 by a jury in Federal Court, against the New York Life Insurance Company, in an action she brought to recover on a policy held by her husband, Alois F. Seifris, who died August 4, 1928, five weeks after taking out the policy. The verdict includes $745 interest.

SERMONETTE

"A MAN OF INDEPENDENCE"

"But so did not I, because of the fear of God."—Nehemiah, 5:15.

By REV. D. C. BURNITE,

Pastor First English Lutheran Church, Sharpsburg

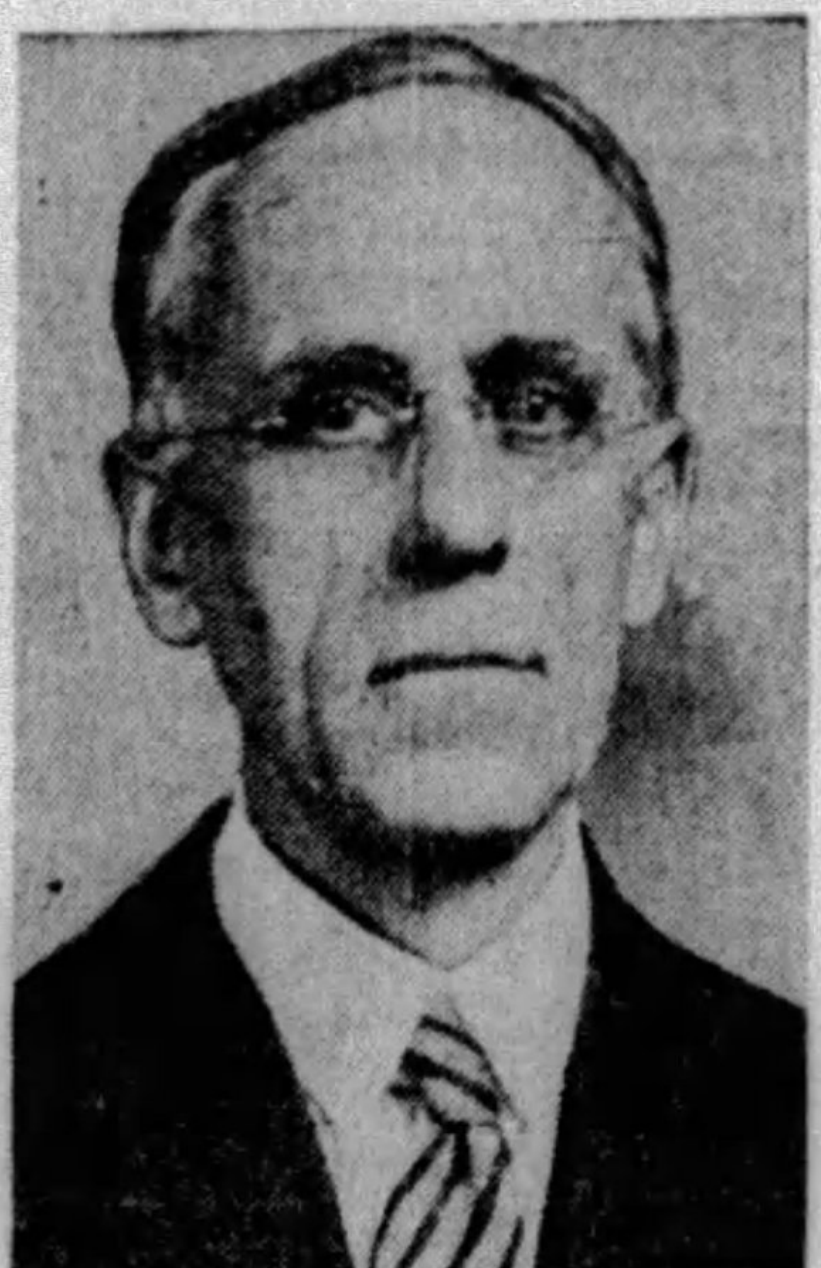
As the new governor of Jerusalem, Nehemiah faced the supreme test of his manhood. Former governors were outrageous grafters. While the famine-stricken populace starved, shameful extravagance marked the executive court, and at tremendous cost.

And who footed the bill? As usual, the people. A special tax was levied for this purpose, ludicrously called "the bread of the governor," though the bill-of-fare included more wine than it did bread. And as a result, the impoverished people's farms and vineyards largely passed into the hands of loan-sharks and their sons and daughters had to be sold into slavery.

Now everybody expected Nehemiah to fall into the beaten path of his predecessors; to likewise "eat, drink and be merry" at the cost of his people's sufferings. Officialdom would, of course, approve. Court hangers-on would be delighted. No one would condemn. Certainly he will follow suit.

But we guess wrong. Here was a magnificent exception to the common herd. Accounting to God for his stewardship, Nehemiah reported: "BUT SO DID NOT I." Compassionate and just, he abolished the "bread of the governor" tax, undertaking the upkeep of his household without it.

And dire consequences must have followed, reduction of court splendor, resentment of sycophants, loss of supporters and lessening of influence abroad. But all of this was neither here nor there to this man of faithfulness to his trust. Resolutely and unafraid he made his decision, "So will not I."



REV. D. C. BURNITE

This projects Nehemiah before us as A MAN OF INDEPENDENCE—as much a curio then as now. Would that we had more officials like him—or, indeed, men like him in any walk of life. Nehemiah did not ask, "What did the others do?" and then do the same; nor "What do people think I ought to do?" and then do that. He wasn't a mere cog in the machinery of society. He dared to be an odd cog.

Like any man of originality, exalted purpose and ordinary backbone, he stood on his own feet, saw with his own eyes, and thought with his own mind. He said, "I consulted with myself." At some time he had made a "declaration of independence" and now stood by it through thick or thin. Rather than the creation of his environment, he insisted upon being its master. He stood conspicuous as a man of justice and integrity, whom—twenty-five centuries later—we list in flaming letters among the truly great.

As then, so today, the truly great man is the MAN OF INDEPENDENCE, the man who, of those customary actions which violate the principles of noblest manhood, can declare, "So did not I!" "'So did not I' aim to match every shade of opinion or every variety of custom I found in the world about me. 'So did not I' act the jellyfish, spineless, flabby, swept whithersoever impinging currents of influence tended to carry me."

"Everybody does it!" How that appeals to the young. But what everybody does must be viewed with suspicion, because so often it is its appeal to the ignoble in human nature that makes the thing popular. So beware the popular—whether belief, ideal or mode of action. Declare your independence of it. Place it in the crucible of your own judgment. Try it by the touchstone of your own conscience. But, above all, refer it to that highest tribunal, God.

And here we strike upon the secret of Nehemiah's independence. He tells it thus: "So did not I, because of the fear of God." Nehemiah could be independent of men because he was dependent upon God. God was his supreme authority. True, he consulted with himself. But it was a God-enlightened and God-directed self. Therefore, his conquest in this greatest test upon his integrity.

Similar success for the man of today hangs upon this same thing, the place in thought and conduct he accords to God. Be conscious of God—a reality, actually present, observant, expectant, with high ideals for you and looking to you to reach them and hold to them—and conquest is assured.

Daniel Webster was asked, "What has been the secret of your success?" He replied, "My sense of responsibility to God." Pursue every exercise calculated to build up in you a strong sense of your responsibility to God—prayer, public worship, Word-study and emulation of the Divine Ideal, Jesus Christ—and the resultant consciousness will make moral victory a matter of perennial habit.

It will empower you to face a host of debasing enticements after the fashion of Fitz James in "The Lady of the Lake." Confronted by a band of fierce highland warriors, he backed up to a rock, brandished his sword and cried:

"Come one, come all! This rock shall fly
From its firm base as soon as I."

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

IF you'll excuse us for being personal we'll tell you that this is the last Sidewalks column by this writer. We want to write this paragraph to say one or two things that are on our chest. Our experience in writing this column, for example, gave us another chance to find out what swell guys reporters are—from the men on the "beats" to the men on general assignments. Many a sprightly item, for which we took credit, came from those anonymous reporters who often went out of their way to help out a lowly columnist. We thank them.

Havey J. Boyle.

No writer has any way to know the extent of his reading clientele. The number might be 10, 50, 100 or run into the thousands. Even when the number is very high the writer realizes that it is because of the paper he works on and the way his stuff is displayed that helps largely in winning an audience. But whatever the number that read our work here from time to time, we do know that for the most part they were kind, considerate. On days when the column must have seemed dull the readers were patient; when something struck their fancy they were ready to applaud.

STILL risking a too personal recital, we venture a looking-back. There were times when we thought it was the swellest job in the world—on those days when a readable column came without sweating—and there were days when we envied a ditch-digger. We suppose that's the way with a lot of jobs, but it is human to believe that one's own case is exceptional.

It was difficult for us to make the decision to leave. We have been in this building a long while. We know Dominick, the Italian, who does something about packing the waste-paper; we were at home in the composing room, the circulation department, the business office, and, the editorial room, of course, was as familiar as the living room at home. We seemed to get along well with everyone except the copy boys. They were about the only ones who seemed to resent the fact that we were writing a daily column.

SIDEWALKS
COPY BOY!

WE HAVE purposely avoided a display of anguished sentiment. It is not worldly or manly to be extra-sentimental, especially in a newspaper office where emotions are rigidly held in check. To touch only the borderland of sentiment is the proper cue. You will pardon us for saying then, that as we write this there is a heavy thumping in the region of the heart.

Because of the excellent consideration that we have received here, you will believe us sincere, we are certain, when we say we want what friends we have among the readers to continue to smile—or shed a tear over a human interest note—at what will follow in Sidewalks under its new conductor, William Pfarr. His following is bound to be big. He'll write a better column than we did.

Will Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 16.

The Senate is meeting at night, there was a lot of things they couldn't investigate in the daytime.

We are going to get lower taxes. Just think, too, lower taxes and not on a presidential election year.

Twenty thousand people in Missouri gathered to see 12 farmers in the world's championship corn husking. No wonder the farmer has nothing.

If he had been smart enough to put these on under the guise of college athletics, hired a coach and a stadium, why then the farmer would be sitting as pretty as Notre Dame.

Yours, WILL.

FANNIE BRICE SINGS IN RAIN AND GOES RIDING ON CAMEL'S BACK

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 16.

FANNIE BRICE rode a camel in a scene or two for her new outloud, "The Champ." Fannie had some "stills" taken of her on the camel. She selected for her theme song between camera clicks—"Singing in the Rain" . . .

Fannie Brice

Over on the Famous lot they're preparing to put "Come Out of the Kitchen" into production. This vehicle once served Ruth Chatterton as a stage play. With Ruth on the lot, her role is naturally given to someone else. Um, Nancy Carroll will traipse in it. Charles Ruggles comes out from New York to enact a featured role. Harry Green will make comics. Likewise Zasu Pitts. Wesley Ruggles—Charlie's brother—will direct.

Wilson Mizner was drinking the inevitable glass of iced coffee when Jack Holt dropped by the table and sat down to bide a wee. These two were friends years ago, in the days when the Klondike, up Alaska-ways, was in its heyday. Jack was a youthful civil engineer then. And participated in the making of history, even as Mr. Mizner did—and does.

Jack recollected the time that he met up with Wilson and his brother miles inland. They had just carved an oar from a gigantic tree, with which to steer their boat on the dangerous trip down a river thawed by spring and racing 20 or so miles an hour.

"Why, you old son-of-a-gun," chuckled Holt in retrospect. "Between the two of you you could hardly lift that oar, much less use it to steer."

Nevertheless, the Mizner boys covered the dangerous water route without a mishap.

Rumor Another Movie Romance

WHEN Babe Kane—no relation to Helen, but a snappy singer for a' that—went to the United Artists lot to play a part in Fannie Brice's picture, she met Director Thornton Freeland for the first time. T—his nickname—kinda liked Babe and Babe kinda liked T, and the two have been socializing together to the extent that it's a colyumnist's prerogative to initiate romance with a question mark.

Jack Holt.

Mrs Frank Fay (Barbara Stanwyck) fixed up one room in the family house especially for Frank.

"Uh, huh," says Frank, looking it over, "you're beginning to realize how lucky you are."

"Uh, huh," says Mrs Frank, boring him optically, "get out of here before I croak you."

Favorite Story Of Hollywood

EVELYN BRENT told it to me. It's the colony's favorite just now. Reason: Obvious!

About a chap who goes to the doctor to find out why he feels so terrible. The doc gives him a thorough going over and diagnoses diabetis.

Mary Brian.

"That's impossible," the patient cried. "I'm only 34. I'm too young to have diabetis."

"But you've got it, so keep to this diet."

The patient departed, mournful. He boarded a bus for home and kept mumbling repeatedly: "Diabetis at 34. Diabetis at 34. Oy!"

A man sitting next to him could stand it no longer. "Say what you yelling about? I bought General Motors at 110!"

Mary Brian and Gary Cooper will again be teamed in a picture. This time, "None But the Brave," a Civil War yarn. Listens like it has moments.

AUTO CRASHES INJURE FIVE

Five persons were injured, four seriously, in automobile accidents in the Pittsburgh district last night.

They were Mrs. Amelia Shotwell, 49, and her daughter, Esther, 17, of near Irwin; Mrs. Frances Schatzel, 30, of 142 Lanark street, and Isadore Kramer, 23, of 5839 Hobart street.

Mrs. Shotwell and her daughter were injured when their car, driven by the Rev. Edgar Shotwell, was crowded off the road by an automobile on the Lincoln highway, near Stewartsville, the driver of which sped on without stopping to aid the victims. In McKeesport Hospital it was said today that they were critically hurt. The Rev. Mr. Shotwell was scratched and bruised in the crash.

Mrs. Schatzel and Kramer were injured when a car driven by the woman's husband, Ernest Schatzel, collided wth one driven by Kramer at Gist street and the Boulevard of the Allies. At Mercy Hospital it was said they suffered internal injuries and fractured skulls.

Consistory Hears Big Business Expert

James A. Jackson, business specialist of the domestic commerce division, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce at Washington, addressed members of the St. Cyprian's Consistory in the Warren Baptist Church, Center avenue.

Mr. Jackson said that if unknowing people may be brought to appreciate the rewards of efficient business, the effort will have been worth while.

Aldine Ballroom To Feature Kee-No

Al Bonach of the Aldine Ballroom announces that a new dance, the Kee-No, will be a feature Thursday evening, November 21, to be introduced by Edward Prinz. There will be prizes. Jimmy Zimmerman and his orchestra will present the musical program.

'LETTY' PUTS LAUGHS IN STANLEY

By Clarence E. Grundish

Charlotte Greenwood came breezing into the Stanley yesterday for a week's engagement in the talk screen version of her stage success, "So Long, Letty." And is it a laugh? We'll say it is.

"I'm the girl Paul Revere rode to see," says Charlotte early in the picture. And from then on the wisecracks and the comedy situations play leap frog with each other. There is action, too. La Greenwood chases the elderly Claude Gillingwater all over the place. Around tables and chairs dodges Claude. Over tables and chairs scrambles Charlotte. What a comedienne she is! And what an acrobat!

OH YES, THE PLOT

But there's a lot more to the film than just a game of tag between Charlotte and Claude. For instance, there's a plot involving two wives, two husbands, a rich old gentleman who wants a grandniece—or grandnephew—and an endless amount of funny complications. Also there is incidental song and music with Comedienne Greenwood ever in prominence.

Bert Roach and Grant Withers carry the husband roles. Miss Greenwood is seen as the wife, Letty, who has a weakness for facial massages and for clown antics. Patsy Ruth Miller essays the other wife. And it is the abovementioned Mr. Gillingwater who does the rich old gentleman act. And we don't believe the movies make them any crankier—or funnier than he is.

MR. POWELL PRESENTS

The stage features Dick Powell's new revue, "Bubbles." Highlights include Cosci and Verdi, who mix comedy antics and violin music; Chilton and Thomas, a dance team that can dance, and the Luster Brothers, two fellows dressed as sailors, who put on an acrobatic display and exhibit a spoon that jumps about in a milk bottle.

The Stanley Rockets are present with some dance routines, putting on, as a feature, some tap dancing on their toes, which isn't as exciting or startling as Mr. Powell's introductory remarks would have us believe. Sylvia Froos makes her third-week appearance as personality girl and sings several numbers. Near the close of the revue, Mr. Powell gets the applause as he megaphones a couple melodies, concluding with "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles," which blows the show into a grand finale of dancing girls and scenic effects that carry out the bubble idea.

"Faust" furnishes the material for the David Broudy orchestral overture. At the organ Bernie Armstrong pumps out old and popular tunes to the accompaniment of modern, smart-alec words.

Schad Cuts Force, Blames Fund Lack

Lack of appropriation was given by George Schad, chairman of the Tax Assessment Board, as the reason for laying off between 30 and 40 employes of the board. He said the situation was temporary and denied that the workers had been suspended. Among those laid off was John Carson, who admitted that he placed 7,000 names in three assessment books which the Kline organization charged were fraudulent at the time of the primary election in September.

Heinroth Recital At Music Hall

Dr. Charles Heinroth will give his weekly organ recital in Carnegie Music Hall tonight. It will start at 8:15 o'clock. The program follows:

Academic Festival Overture	Brahms
Andante from Quartet in D Minor	Mozart
"Sportive Fauns"	D'Antalffy
Fantasy and Fugue on the Chorale, "Ad Nos, Ad Salutarem Undam"	Liszt
Adagio Espressivo from Second Symphony, Op. 61	Schumann
Carillon	Sowerby
Finale from Fifth Symphony	Beethoven
Allegro Maestoso Allegro Tempo Prima Presto.

Comedienne

ENGINEERS HIT BRIDGE PRIZE

Severe criticism of the action of the American Institute of Steel Construction in awarding the Sixth Street Bridge a bronze tablet for being the most beautiful bridge completed in North America in 1928 was made at yesterday's meeting of the Engineerrs' Society of Western Pennsylvania.

The comments which resulted from the reading of a paper by W. J. Watson, Cleveland engineer, now engaged in constructing the hangar for Zeppelins at Akron, was that most of Pittsburgh's bridges were monumental failures, architecturally speaking. The comment was aimed particularly at Point Bridge.

Much laughter followed statements regarding the Sixth, Seventh and Ninth Street bridges "having the appearance of suspension bridges, but in reality being of the cantilever type."

The Point Bridge, not especially named but understood to have been referred to, was pictured as "an abortive attempt to create a monstrous type of structure."

This last sally is a quotation from remarks made by Charles S. Davis, a Pittsburgh engineer, who in conjunction with Benno Janssen, built and designed the Washington Crossing Bridge.

World Fliers Halt At Butler Airport

William Brock and Edward F. Schlee, whose round-the-world flight aspirations ended abruptly in the Orient about a year ago, were visitors at the Pittsburgh-Butler airport yesterday in the new Brock trimotored plane recently built at Detroit. After refueling the ship at the Pittsburgh-Butler airport, the party left for Philadelphia.

Retreat League To Feast Tonight

The sixth annual banquet of the St. Paul's Laymen's Retreat League, will be held in Duquesne Council, Knights of Columbus, Oakland, tonight. Speakers will be Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, the Rt. Rev. Joseph Corrigan, of Philadelphia, and John A. Matthews, of Newark, N. J.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: Do you sanction Cinderella-Prince Charming marriages of the Willock-Ingebretsen type?

R. L. NOLIN, Liberty avenue, assistant manager: "I don't think marriages of this kind are right because it is difficult for two different types to acclimate themselves to new environment. When the affection of one or the other wear off, as it is bound to do in time, the marriage becomes unhappy and in nine cases out of ten ends up in the divorce courts. One or the other, as the case might be, is accustomed to luxury and the other is not. Figure it out."

R. L. Nolin

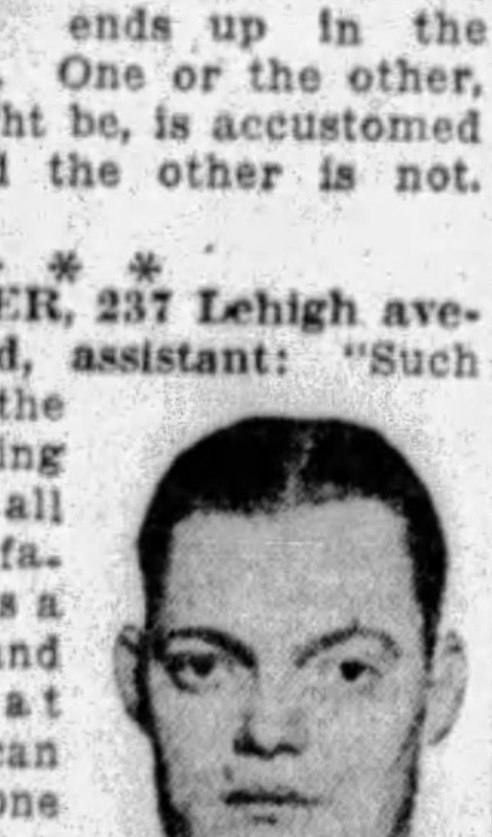
R. E. GAINER, 237 Lehigh avenue, East End, assistant: "Such matches are the result of passing fancies. In all probabilities familiarity breeds a love bond and while in that mood each can think of no one but the other. One is accustomed to higher living but after the first glow of the honeymoon has worn off will realize the mistake. Then there will be trouble, ending in the divorce courts. Only one in a hundred of such matches ends happily."



R. E. Gainer

SAM STASSMAN, 266 Dinwiddie street, bookkeeper: "Riches and poverty do not make much difference in cases of this kind if true affection and love is present. Despite these obstacles, if happiness can be found, then everything will turn out O. K. The fact that one of the contracting parties is a multimillionaire and the other a maid, doesn't make any difference. America is full of such romances."

Sam Stassman

MAX J. KLEBER, 1015 Liberty avenue, trunk manufacturer: "Cinderella and Prince Charming marriages should not be sanctioned by anyone at anytime. They always end unhappily. One is accustomed to luxury and the other to the simpler things of life. Neither is on the same level as the other. One will grow and progress in the social world, while the other, not born into such a life, will remain at a standstill. After the honeymoon is over they will take stock of each other and decide to end the matter in the courts."

Max J. Kleber

* * *

W. R. WALTER, 212 North avenue, North Side, clerk: "Such marriages ought not to be permitted. They never are permanent and neither do they end happily. If the man and woman were sure there was real love back of the match then they should go ahead and get married. Usually it's a case of simple infatuation that wears off soon, because 'all that glitters is not gold.' Where the man and woman are on a similar plane it's different. They approach marriage with an entirely different viewpoint."

W. R. Walter

JAMES C. MILLER, 31 East Orchard avenue, Bellevue, sales clerk: "There have been very few marriages of this type that have ended happily. Most of them end in divorce. One marries for love, usually, and the other for money. It ends up with no one getting either love or money. The breach between the classes is too great. I don't believe in such weddings."

James C. Miller

GUILD PLAY, NEW FILMS ON BILLS

The Four Marx Brothers, in their latest musical comedy hit, "Animal Crackers," enter their second and final week in the Alvin Monday night. There will be a matinee performance today and the regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees next week.

"Wings Over Europe," Theater Guild offering, will open in the Nixon Monday night.

Harland Tucker, who will play the leading male role in "The Humming Bird," next week's presentation of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt, is particularly well suited o this role, having written and originated this part while playing opposite the author of "The Humming Bird," Maude Fulton.

IN "THE LADY LIES"

Walter Huston, who plays the leading role in 'The Lady Lies," which comes to the Penn Monday, has a son 22 years of age. The son, John, who lives with his grandmother in Greensburg, Ind., is an aspiring writer.

Billie Dove is supported by Edmund Lowe, Cissy Fitzgerald and Peter Higgins, Pittsburgh tenor, in "The Painted Angel," her latest all-talking film, which opens in the Enright today. On the stage Jay Mills presents "Thanksgiving Frolic."

The all-talking screen version of Owen Wister's novel and play, "The Virginian," is being seen in the Grand for a second week.

160 IN CHORUS

The average chorus girl, who answers a call to a Hollywood picture studio, is twice as pretty and twice as shapely as the applicant for Broadway stage choruses, says Pearl Eaton, who trained the dancers for "Street Girl," opening a second week in the Sheridan Square today.

"Married in Hollywood," with a chorus of 160 persons and many stage and screen players in the lead roles, opens today on the Harris talk screen.

"Welcome Danger," Harold Lloyd's first talking comedy, will open on the Aldine screen Monday.

Every member of the "Whoopee" ensemble who will appear in the Academy next week with "Jazztime Revue," is from Pittsburgh.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Miss West's Engagement Announced

WASN'T it de-bunking old Samuel Butler who said that youth, like spring, was a much over-praised season of life? Although most of us still think both are nice, I do believe that spring's monopoly of Cupid's affairs is exaggerated. Every year fall brings a number of particularly interesting engagements.

This very afternoon of mid-November Mrs. Charles Howard West, of Forbes street, is giving a luncheon in the Fox Chapel Club for a few members of the younger set to announce the engagement of her daughter, Helen Rebecca.

Helen's fiance is well known here; his name is Alexander Logan Wilson, and he lives in New York, although he was formerly of Pittsburgh. His mother, Mrs. John Logan Wilson, resides in the King Edward Apartments.

During the past season Helen made her bow to the social world, and before that she went to Dobbs Ferry. Mr. Wilson is a Princeton man, class of 1923.

THERE'S much entertainment in the East these days in honor of Elizabeth James, daughter of the Philip L. Jameses, of New York, who will marry Reginald Rinehart Church, son of the Samuel Harden Churches, on Tuesday in the Central Presbyterian Church, of Gotham.

Tomorrow the Clement Meiers, of New York, will give a tea, and tomorrow night the Jameses will entertain with a dinner in the Villa Valle. Monday a tea for the bridesmaids will be given by Mrs. George P. Shutt, and Monday afternoon Julian Street and his daughter, Rosemarie, will give a tea after the rehearsal. And Monday night the Robert Montgomerys will entertain with a dinner in the Embassy Club.

Besides the Churches the junior Van Lear Shrivers, the junior George L. Craigs, Beverly Shriver, Clarke Miller and James McFarlane will attend the wedding.

AND I know of another betrothal of mid-November. The Clifton Henry Closes, of Beechwood boulevard, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Harrison Farnsworth Gleason, Jr., son of the Harrison Farnsworth Gleasons, of Aylesboro avenue. A spring wedding is being planned.

The Thomas Jefferson Danners, of Thomas boulevard, announced the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Wilson Danner, to Frank Scott Barnard, of Ray, Ariz., formerly of Pittsburgh, son of the Charles H. Barnards, of Aylesboro avenue, at a bridge last evening in their home.

Among the guests was Dorothy Godfrey Darling, daughter of the Harry E. Darlings, of St. John, New Brunswick, Can., who is a guest at the Danner home.

AT the dance her uncle, Charles Oliver, of Termon avenue, North Side, will give for her on November 29, Rebecca Doyle, debutante daughter of the Charles Layng Doyles, will share honors with Sara Ross, debutante daughter of Mrs. John H. Ross, of Madison, N. J.

I KNOW of still another girl who'll attend the Yale-Princeton game this afternoon—Margaret Reilly, daughter of the J. D. Reillys, of Marlborough street. She's a student at the Finch School in New York.

FROM South Orange, N. J., comes the news that the William Potter Wooldridges were attendants at the wedding on Monday evening of Dorothy La Belle Knoepke, daughter of the William G. Mennens, of South Orange, to Edwin S. Stengel, son of Mrs. J. A. Stengel, of Newark. The wedding took place in the First Presbyterian Church and was followed by a reception in the Hotel Suburban. The bridegroom is a brother of Mrs. Wooldridge, who was Berenice Stengel before her marriage to the son of the Norman S. Wooldridges, of Pittsburgh, in May.

MISS BERNICE BUTLER, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Butler, of Ellsworth avenue, will marry Raymond A. O'Connell, son of Mrs. P. J. O'Connell, of Hampton street, on Thanksgiving morning at 9:30 o'clock in the St. Paul's Cathedral. The Rev. C. A. Sanderbeck will officiate. Miss Butler will have Miss Agnes O'Connell, sister of her fiance, as her only attendant, and Joseph McGroarty will serve as best man.

MISS MARY LOUISE B. GARDNER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Jay Gardner, of Bellevue, became the bride of Alexander Vance Gilliland, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bald Gilliland, of Bellevue, at 8 o'clock Friday evening in the Bellevue Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Robert F. Galbreath solemnized the marriage.

The bride wore ivory satin cut in princess style and a veil of ivory tulle. A band of princess lace embroidered with pearls held the veil in place. The bridal bouquet was of bride's roses, lilies of the valley and Sweetheart roses. Miss Dorothy La Rue Gardner, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, wore a gown of pale green taffeta with a large bow of green, peach and brown taffeta at one side, featuring the short front and longer back. She carried yellow chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids were Miss Florence Gilliland, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Virginia Cullison, of Bellevue; Miss Margaret Mansfield and Miss Dorothy Mulvey, of Carnegie. Miss Gilliland and Miss Mansfield wore gowns of yellow taffeta, and the others wore peach taffeta fashioned like that of Miss Dorothy Gardner's. They all carried bronze chrysanthemums.

The best man was Russell Linkenheimer, of Pittsburgh, and the ushers were W. Jay Gardner, Jr., brother of the bride; Ray Alexander Gilliland, cousin of the bridegroom; Henry Earl Kirk and Henry Netting, of Bellevue.

The rehearsal dinner was given on Thursday evening by Miss Florence Gilliland, in the Keystone Athletic Club. There were many bridges and teas during the past week in honor of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilliland will live in Shiloh avenue, Bellevue, when they return from an eastern wedding trip.

MISS MIRIAM JANE ZAHNISER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Zahniser, of Roup avenue, has chosen November 27 as the date for her marriage to William Price Filbert, son of Mrs. Carrie H. Filbert, of Rosedale street. The wedding will talke place in the Fourth Presbyterian Church at 5:30 o'clock, with the Rev. Dr. Walter L. Ritter officiating. Miss Zhaniser has chosen her cousin, Miss Margaret F. Marshall, of Oakmont, as her only attendant, and John Filbert, the brother of the bridegroom, will serve as best man. After the ceremony a small reception and dinner will be held in the Zahniser home. Mr. and Mrs. Filbert will reside in Chicago.

A BENEFIT card party will be given in the Eudes Institute, formerly the East End Children's Home of the Good Shepherd, in Lincoln avenue. On November 23 a reception will be given at 1:30 o'clock and at 8 o'clock. Bridge, "500" and bingo will be features of the evening. Mrs. C. J. Sullivan will be the hostess, and her aides include Mrs. T. A. Ford and Mrs. Edward Horen.

MR. AND MRS. R. W. DAVIES, of Homestead, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marcella Lucille Davies, to Joseph O. Zilen, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Zilen, of Pittsburgh. No date has been named for the wedding.

"FLORIDA DAY" was observed yesterday by the Pittsburgh Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, at its November meeting in the Roosevelt Hotel. Mrs. Robert F. Metcalfe, a native daughter of Florida, read a paper descriptive of the state and its interesting history from the days of the Spanish settlements down to the present time. Although Florida is not well known for its battlefields, it was shown that it has a martial record and in the war between the states was the scene of important operations of the Northern and Southern armies.

Scandinavian Craft Art Blends Old With New

By PENELOPE REDD.

A COLLECTION of 500 or more craft items from Scandanavia, gathered by Ernestine Trostler, are on view at Kaufmann's through the next two weeks. The exhibition faithfully characterizes the range of the Scandanavian crafts from the gay trinket introducing the Swedish witch riding a pig to the silver ceremonial beaker of heirloom quality.

Penelope Redd.

Norway is largely represented by traditional, painted, wooden objects designed from bird and beast. Denmark has admirable pottery and pewter, Sweden has the major section.

Sweden owes its progress in the decorative arts to Artur Hazelius, who set about to preserve the primitive folk crafts more than 50 years ago. He sent out young students to assemble costumes and objects for a national folk museum. The Swedish government fosters the folk arts through a system of provincial stations where the peasant craft is sold.

THE old peasant crafts and the modern decorative arts are happily blended in the collection,

The weavings in the Kaufmann exhibition are of the same type made and used from mediaeval times onward as wall decorations. The silve. has a gothic quality, because of the adaptation of natural designs in which the sense of growth persists even in the alien material.

Orrefors glass, which received commendation at its first showing in America at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, is likewise included "Orre" is the woodcock used as a signature. The firm, originally an ordinary commercial plant, was reorganized about 15 years ago when two artists, Gate and Hald, were placed in charge. The engraved crystal glass, which they have perfected, is considered an important contribution to contemporary decorative art.

The gaiety of the old peasant crafts relieves the austerity of the modern decorative arts in an exhibition that should divert the many.

PROGRAM.

Overture "Oberon"	Weber
Symphony in B-flat major, No. 12	Haydn
Symphonic Dance in Basque style from the opera "The Basque Venus"	Wetzler
Second Concerto for Piano and Orchestra, in D Minor	Mozart
Mr. Gabrilowitsch (Conducted by Mr. Kolar)
Rumanian Rhapsody, in A major, Opp. 11	Enesco

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra gave a most happy program in Syria Mosque last evening. The large audience responded immediately and was not averse to listening with real satisfaction to some very new music, Ossip Gabrilowitsch conducted and appeared also as piano soloist.

It was all music which one could enjoy without fear of heresy. The conductor himself held to best classic traditions in his Weber and Haydn, and only let loose the full powers of his orchestra during the Symphonic Dance of Wetzler. How those forces have developed under Gabrilowitsch is astonishing, though his music is conceived still in the metallic tone of the keyboard rather than the flow from the mixture of voices in the orchestra.

Wetzler's music is somewhat of a surprise. Knowing his experience as conductor in the municipal opera house of Germany, one would least expect a score that savors of Paul Dukas and Debussy rather than of Strauss and Schoenberg. Built upon the dance rhythms of Spain and the Basque mountains, colored with the passion of Pierre Loti's "Ramuntscho," this music would have moved an audience of granite. Wetzler's dances are sinister love dances with flashing orchestration.

Of all the delightful music we have had in years nothing could approach the Mozart concerto as played by Gabrilowitsch. It surpassed our expectations, which were already high enough, and the orchestra, under Victor Kolar, seconded the soloist with its best. The limpid scale, the pearly outlines of the themes, the exquisite clarity of the pianist's fingers created arabesques of tone such as we are no longer accustomed to hear in this day of the new polyphony. It was only a foretaste of what we shall hear this afternoon, when Gabrilowitsch plays the Schumann Concerto.

The Fountain of the Acqua Paola	Griffes
Samoyedes	Vellones
Der Jongleur	Toch
Malaguena	Lecuona

Justin Sandridge, a young Negro pianist, gave a most refreshing recital in Carnegie Music Hall last night before a good sized audience. He is an American product of whom we may be proud, and another of his race to bring honor to music.

His program stood on a foundation of the romanticists, passed quickly through the epoch of impressionists, and gave us a taste of the modernists, whom most of us must know by name only.

His playing is healthy, never marred by fantastic touches, and when he uses rubato, and he does so quite generously, it is prompted by the best taste. His tone is large and brilliant, slightly cloudy in swift passages, which may be caused by over-pedaling. We should indeed welcome this player again.

Drama Talk, Recital at Congress

TWO events at the Congress of Clubs claimed a large share of interest yesterday. There was the drama department's special luncheon for Elmer Kenyon, honorary president of the Pittsburgh Drama League, who is spending the week in his home city and, at the close of this affair, the benefit musicale tea of the music department.

Mr. Kenyon, in his exceedingly interesting talk, discussed theater conditions generally, but spoke in particular of Richmond, where he said he found the women most intelligent on the subject, but deprived of the opportunity of going to the theater, since none is open in that city.

"Here in Pittsburgh," Mr. Kenyon observed, "where we have two first-class theaters open, we take them as a matter of course—and stay away."

He warned against this if the theater is to continue to live in Pittsburgh. He discussed Theater Guild plays, mentioning that "R. U. R." (Rossum's Universal Robots) is the play that gave to the world the word robot so much in use in this day of new electrical labor-saving devices. The word (pronounced rubbet) is derived from a Czecho-Slovakian word meaning "to work."

Mrs. Chester F. Johnston announced the regular departmental meeting November 25 when Florence Fisher Parry will discuss "The Psychology of Tears."

The musicale tea in the afternoon served to reintroduce to a Congress audience Frank Kennedy, pianist, and Robert Owrey, baritone, who gave a recital of artistry and merit. From old Italian melodies arranged by Respighi to the moderns, among them Granados' "The Lady and the Nightingale," Mr. Kennedy played with a fluent technique and musical comprehension. Mr. Owrey's rich voice and intelligent interpretations were equally appreciated, especially in Fay Foster's "My Menagerie."

Mrs. R. W. Johnston and Mrs. S. J. Corbett presided at the attractively decorated tea table.

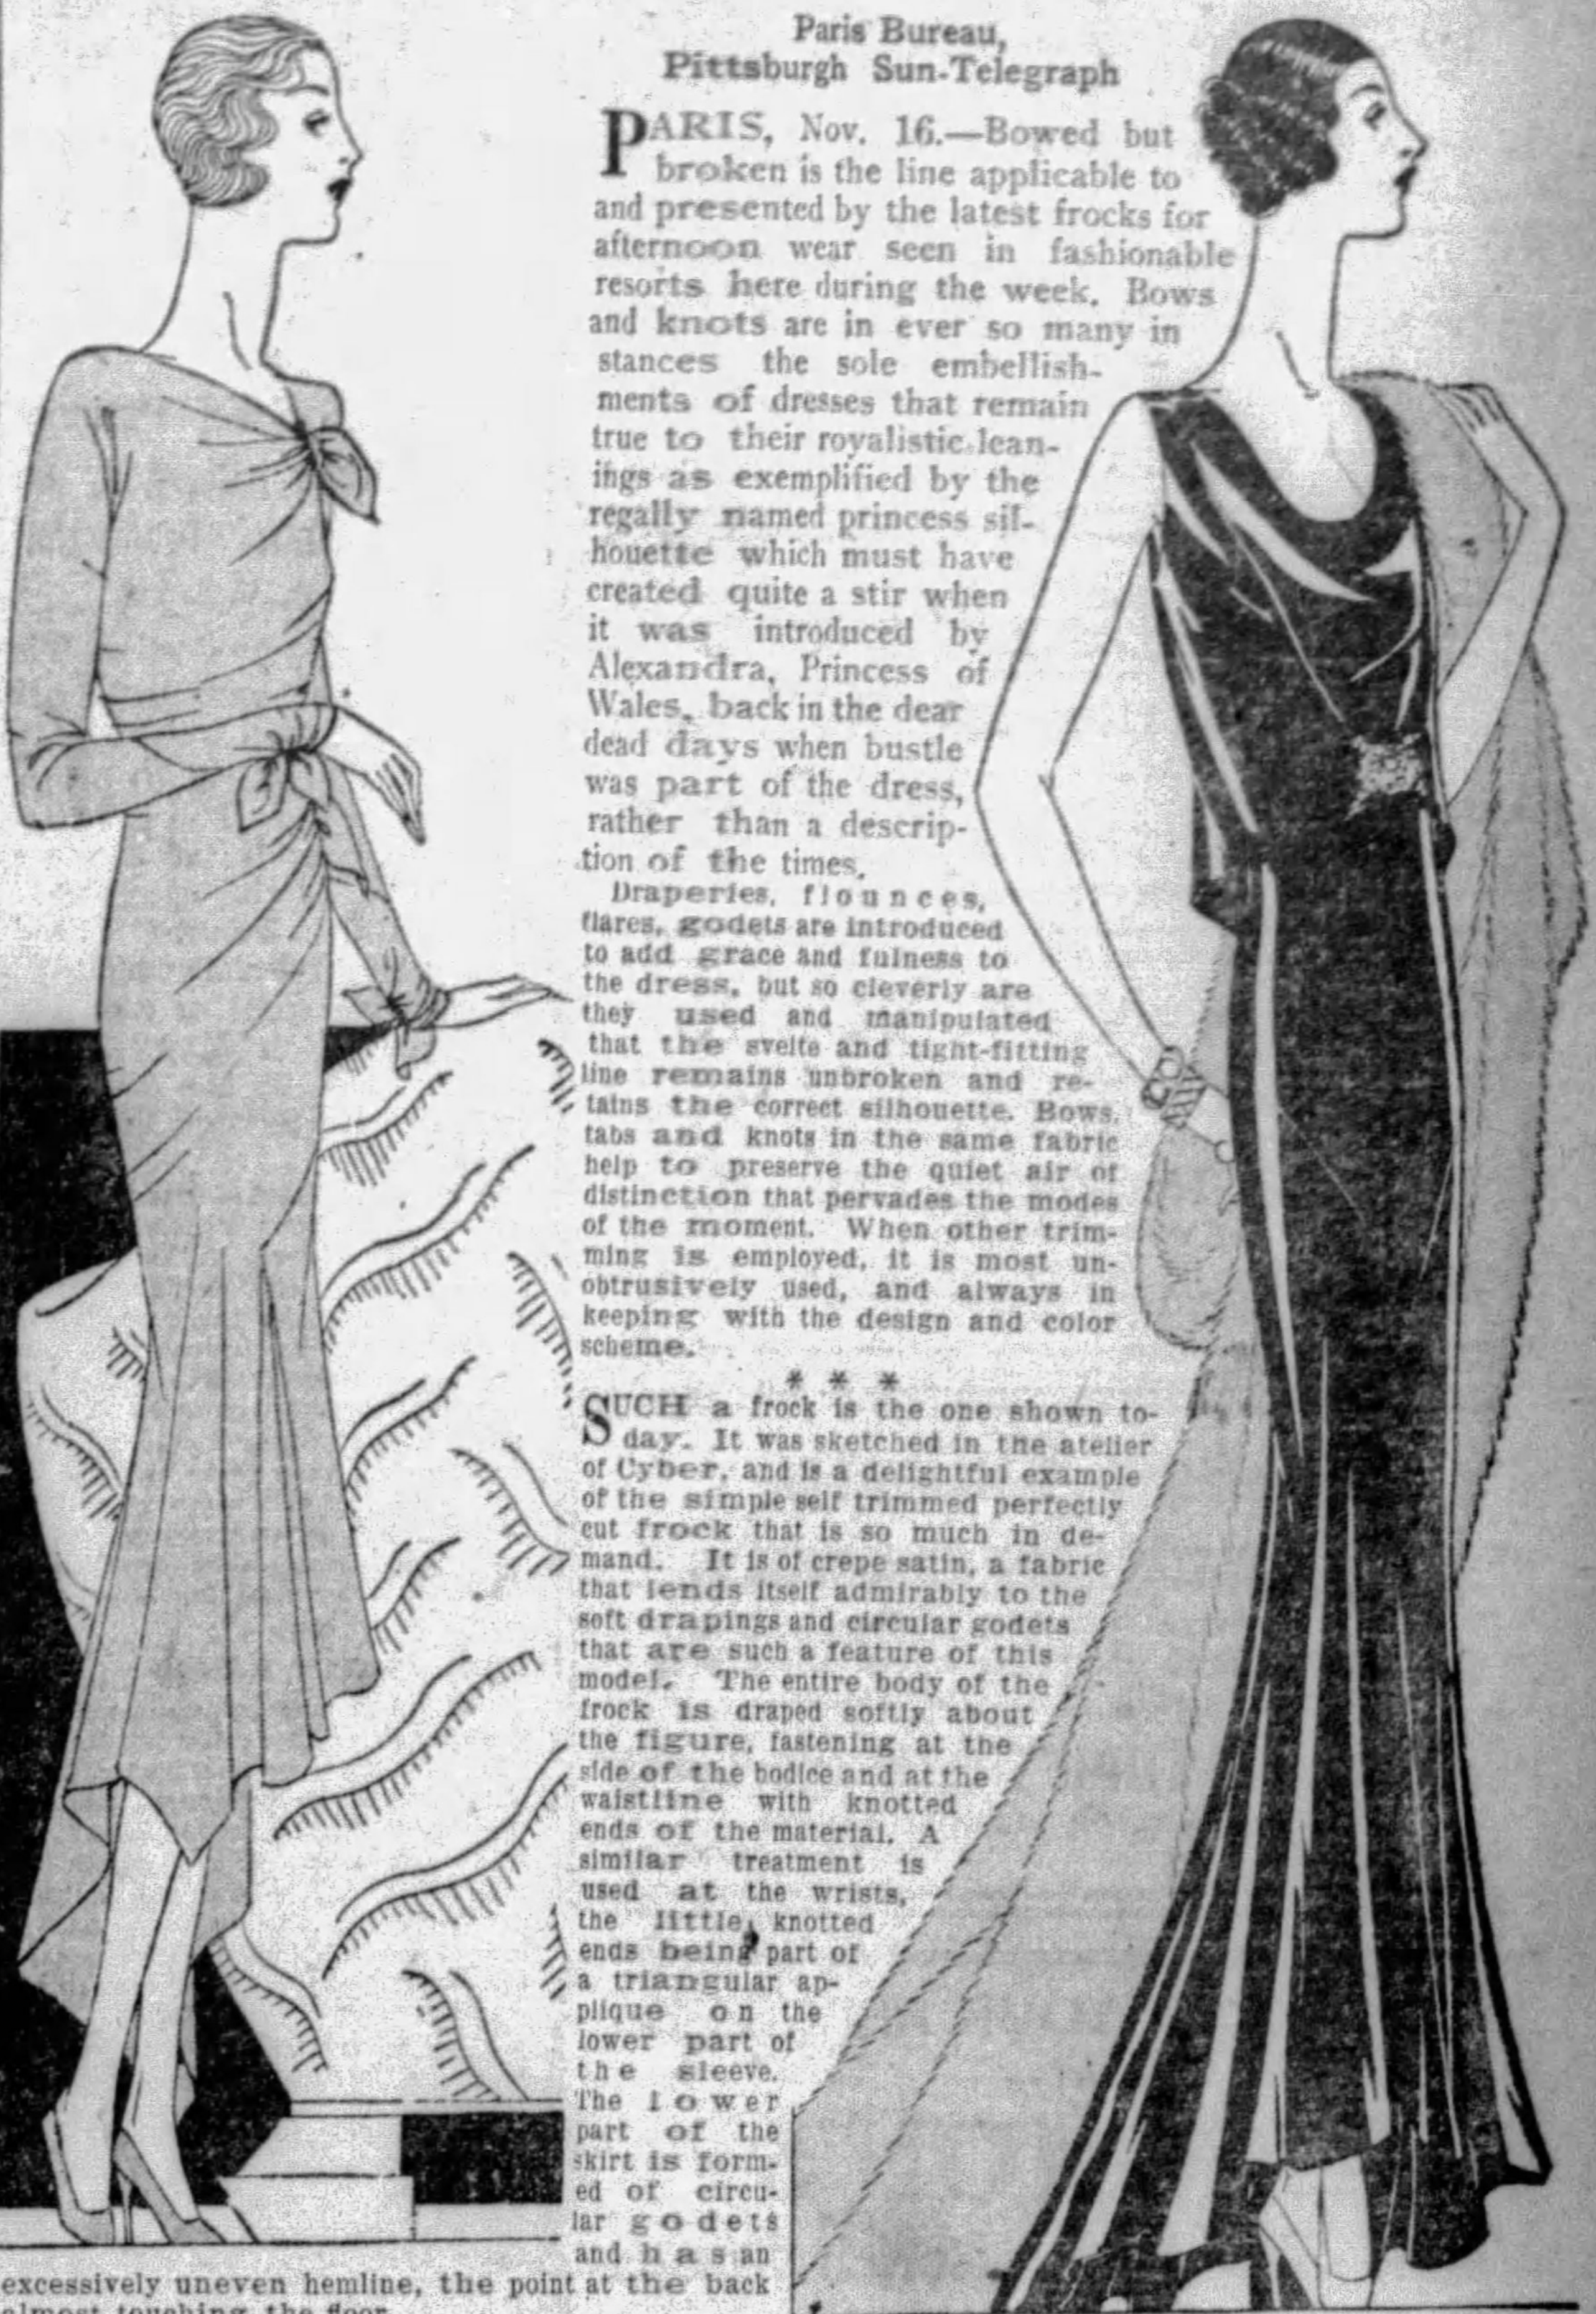
ATELIER INTRODUCES THE IRREGULAR TREND OF MODE

—Sketched in Paris—



Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Bowed but broken is the line applicable to and presented by the latest frocks for afternoon wear seen in fashionable resorts here during the week. Bows and knots are in ever so many instances the sole embellishments of dresses that remain true to their royalistic leanings as exemplified by the regally named princess silhouette which must have created quite a stir when it was introduced by Alexandra, Princess of Wales, back in the dear dead days when bustle was part of the dress, rather than a description of the times.

Draperies, flounces, flares, godets are introduced to add grace and fulness to the dress, but so cleverly are they used and manipulated that the svelte and tight-fitting line remains unbroken and retains the correct silhouette. Bows, tabs and knots in the same fabric help to preserve the quiet air of distinction that pervades the modes of the moment. When other trimming is employed, it is most unobtrusively used, and always in keeping with the design and color scheme.

SUCH a frock is the one shown today. It was sketched in the atelier of Cyber, and is a delightful example of the simple self trimmed perfectly cut frock that is so much in demand. It is of crepe satin, a fabric that lends itself admirably to the soft drapings and circular godets that are such a feature of this model. The entire body of the frock is draped softly about the figure, fastening at the side of the bodice and at the waistline with knotted ends of the material. A similar treatment is used at the wrists, the little knotted ends being part of a triangular applique on the lower part of the sleeve. The lower part of the skirt is formed of circular godets and has an excessively uneven hemline, the point at the back almost touching the floor.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY
'Public Improvements Promote Progress'
Convinced that public improvements exert an important influence upon the progress of any community, the Board of County Commissioners of Allegheny County on January 1, 1924, initiated a program of major public works, many of which are already effectively serving the citizens, while others of vital importance are being rapidly brought to completion.
ALLEGHENY RIVER BOULEVARD—It is quite probable that construction work will get under way before the end of this year. This new improvement will pass through a beautiful and rugged country, a distance of 4½ miles from Washington Boulevard, Pittsburgh, to Front Street, Verona, along the hillside on the south shore of the Allegheny River, involving many difficult engineering problems and hardships. A short cut will be provided for about 100,000 residents of the upper Allegheny Valley by this quick traveling thoroughfare, reducing the distance to Pittsburgh by 3½ miles. The estimated cost of this project is $3,120,000 and was approved by the People's Bond Issue in 1928.

WEEK'S INGOT OUTPUT AT 70%

Volume of Steel Business On Books Counted on To Sustain Production

By B. E. V. LUTY

Steel ingot production this week has been at about 70 per cent of capacity, representing a decrease of about 10 points in three weeks. This is a continuance, merely at a more rapid rate, of the decrease of the last five months. Peak production, officially reported at 99.59 per cent of capacity, was reached in May. There was no halt in the decrease, although it was slow until recently.

Summer production was phenomenally heavy and presumably on that account there was no autumn increase. While the declining stock market of the last three weeks has no doubt been an influence, it was only one factor. Decline in production was already established, and seasonable decrease in the last two months of a year is to be expected irrespective of other circumstances. October had an average rate of 85 per cent, presumably opening at close to 90 per cent and closing at about 80 per cent.

WIDE OUTPUT RANGE

There is a wide range in rates of production of the different finished steel products, on account of seasonal and other influences, such as the well-filled order books of the structural fabricating shops on the one hand and the extreme dullness in the automobile industry on the other. The sequence in activity from the highest to the lowest is approximately as follows: Shapes, rails, plates, bars, wire, pipe, sheets, tin plate, strips; but this sequence involves some estimates and is not necessarily precisely accurate. There is little difference between some of the items.

These variations make it that some steel districts are running better than others, on account of character of product, not on account of geography. The Chicago district is producing ingots at about 75 per cent, being strong on rails and structural shapes. The Pittsburgh district is producing at about 70 per cent, being strong on shapes and moderately strong on rails. The Youngstown district is at under 60 per cent on account of its running largely to sheets and pipe, while it makes no standard rails or heavy structural shapes. The Birmingham district is producing at about 70 per cent, while the Eastern mills show some wide ranges. Some of the small mills in the Pittsburgh district, making specialties, are at low rates.

To help sustain steel production in the next few months there is an important volume of business on books, in rails, fabricated structural steel and freight cars. In the last week the Chicago & Northwestern has bought 52,000 tons of rails, the Wabash 23,000 tons, the Western Pacific 15,000 tons and the Kansas City Southern 8,000 tons, bringing the season total to about 1,100,000 tons. The remaining annual buying will possibly total half a million tons or more.

FREIGHT CAR ORDERS

Structural fabricating shops are filled to normal full operation, at the rate of the last year, for four to six months. Lettings were exceptionally heavy up to September 1, and fairly heavy in September and October, while in this month to date they have been light.

Boston & Maine has ordered 1,500 freight cars in addition to 1,500 ordered about six weeks ago and the Union Tank Car Company has ordered 1,000, making about 22,550 freight cars ordered since October 1, while there is much inquiry out and in prospect. Car shops are likely to have approximately as heavy an operation in the next few months as they have had in the last six months, their most active period since 1926.

The automobile industry has no really good prospects for the nearby future. The two largest makers of low-priced cars will shortly bring out slightly changed models and are understood to be planning moderately heavy production, but they have been slow in buying steel, apparently waiting in hope of possible price concessions.

Contrary to some of the predictions made at the beginning of the year, automobile exports have not increased as much as the domestic trade. Comparing the first nine months last year and this, cars and trucks exported increased 18 per cent, while cars and trucks left for the domestic market increased 36 per cent. Total value of exports, cars and trucks, engines, parts for foreign assembly, parts for replacement, accessories and service appliances, increased 22 per cent. In the first nine months of last year 11 per cent of the cars and trucks made in the United States were exported, the proportion this year being 10 per cent. Thus export business is not large enough to help out greatly.

Increase Shown In Use of Rubber

Consumption of crude rubber of all classes by manufacturers in the United States in the month of October is estimated at 34,800 long tons, according to statistics compiled by the Rubber Manufacturers Association. This compares with an estimated consumption of 34,707 long tons for the month of September. Total consumption of crude rubber by American manufacturers for the first 10 months of this year is estimated at 418,614 long tons. Consumption during the first 10 months of 1928 was 372,646 long tons.

Consumption of reclaimed rubber is estimated at 18,024 long tons for October and 199,077 long tons for the 10-month period.

The association estimates total domestic stocks of crude rubber on hand and in transit overland on October 31 at 88,483 long tons compared with 84,362 long tons as of September 30. Crude rubber afloat for United States ports on October 31 is estimated at 49,835 long tons as against 49,480 long tons on September 30.

FEATURE OVER RADIO

Dewey Bergman's Orchestra will broadcast tonight and every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night at 6:30 from Webster Hall, over Station KQV. This is a request program made up of popular numbers which have been asked for by letter and telephone. Tonight Nick Carter, popular soloist and master of ceremonies of the band, will be featured.

Dewey Bergman's Orchestra might be called an "All-Star Cast." The band is composed of individual stars who have each had their following as outstanding members of other nationally popular musical organizations, and who have now been associated for better than four years. Nick Carter, soloist and popular local aviator, was formerly a member of Ross Gorman's Orchestra. Charlie Gosnell, who receives many requests for trumpet solos, has played with many bands, the most recent of which was Paul Specht's. Bunny Drowns, saxophonist, is a Pittsburgh boy who was with the original California Ramblers. Bruce Hudson, trumpet player, is a former University of Alabama musician recently associated with the Tracy-Brown Band.

George King, who excels on the trombone and the piano, played with Jean Goldkette, as did Lorin Parsons, violinist and leader. John Fansher, master of the stringed bass, has had many years of concert work on this instrument and on the tuba. Fansher, by the way, is former state tennis champion of Indiana. "Shooky," peppy trap drummer, played formerly with Abe Lyman's Orchestra, and Jimmie Jenkins, former saxophonist for Jean Goldkette, now writes the musical arrangements not only for the Bergman organization, but for some of the other leading bands throughout the country.

Dewey Bergman, himself, who plays the piano, at one time played with Cliff Edwards, who is now known as Ukelele Ike, and with Frisco the dancer. Edwards wanted Dewey to go with him as accompanist when he first appeared with the Ziegfield Follies. Mr. Bergman organized the original Ted Weems Band and later Earl Fuller's Original Recording Orchestra in the days when there were very few recording orchestras. He later played with Jean Goldkette's Orchestra, as did Jimmie, Lorin and George.

Last winter's social season found this orchestra extremely popular for private social functions throughout the country. They are already booked for many home, club and school dances this season. They always play for the Notre Dame-Tech football dances, several Penn State proms and intercollegiates.

'Frisco to Spend $14,000,000 On Plant

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 16.—J. M. Kern, president of St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad, announces orders have been placed for $14,000,000 of equipment. The orders call for 20 large Mikado freight engines, 10 all-steel 70-foot combination baggage and mail cars, 3,500 freight cars, three all-steel dining cars, and 10 all-steel baggage cars. Orders also will be placed for 175 miles of 110-pound rails, fastenings and anchor bars.

This $14,000,000 program has nothing to do with the regular 1930 improvement program.

CHAIN HAS 300 EMPLOYES

Employing over 300 people and operating six restaurants, the Gammon waffle shops and lunchrooms can be considered one of the big businesses of Pittsburgh.

Three of the six restaurants are located in the heart of the downtown district, at 403 Oliver avenue, 954 Liberty avenue and 100 Smithfield street. The other three locations are at 3703 Forbes street, 927 Wood street, Wilkinsburg, and 208-210 North Highland avenue.

Of the downtown locations, the Oliver avenue restaurant, with its upstairs dining room, is perhaps the most popular. The Highland avenue store, the newest addition to the Gammon chain, is one of the most attractive dining rooms in the city.

There are several unique features about the Gammon restaurants that make them distinctive. It is a well-known fact that they have no locks and are open for business 24 hours each day. Fast service is another characteristic.

All pastries are from company owned, electrically equipped bake shops and each of the stores is completely equipped with electric cooking devices. Batteries of individual electric percolators prepare the coffee that has made Gammon's famous.

Patrons can always be assured of fresh eggs at the Gammon establishments. Daily shipments of eggs and poultry are received from their farms at Mansfield, O. Only the best creamery butter is used and every precaution is taken in buying and handling foodstuffs to assure patrons of the very best.

Trade Bureau Sees Unsteady Condition

"While excitement in the stock and speculative commodity markets, with lower prices registered in both early in the week, was frequently cited as a cause for the slowing of trade and industry below last week and a week a year ago, there was fairly general agreement that unusually warm weather, with rain in wide areas, was a distinctly retarding element in retail and jobbing lines of distribution, especially in wearing apparel. Mention was also made of the fact that early trade in holiday lines was also affected.

"In this connection, sight should not be lost, as regards last year's comparisons, of the fact that business a year ago was surging forward in a very heavy volume. Toward the close of the week the speculative pressure had very perceptibly lightened, there was growing belief in the idea that a good deal of the more recent weakness was of an undiscriminating character, and there was a rather more marked tendency to look on the brighter side of things, pending a clearer view of the extent of the readjustment."

STEEL COMPANY MAKES NEW PRODUCT

Firthite, Hardest Metal Known, Sells for $1 a Gram to Tool Makers

Firth-Sterling Steel Company of McKeesport has announced a metal of diamond-like hardness known as Firthite. It is made under the Krupp-General Electric patent rights which were secured by the McKeesport concern as announced in the Sun-Telegraph some months ago.

The new material is a tungsten-carbide-cobalt composition which, when used in metal cutting tools, permits the operation of machines at several times the speed possible with super high-speed steels. While its use results in increased production on the ordinary shop equipment, the tungsten-carbide tools have a capacity far beyond even new machines. Machinery builders appreciate the need of new designs, and at the recent machinery exposition in Cleveland a large number of exhibits were equipped with tungsten-carbide tools.

DIAMOND HARDNESS

The remarkable hardness of Firthite makes it practical to machine hard metals that have heretofore presented such difficulties as to be classed as unmachinable. Steel can be machined in the hard condition after heat treatment. Hard abrasive materials that rub cutting edges off steel tools yield to tungsten-carbide, which is the hardest metallic composition known by man.

While Firthite looks like steel, its hardness makes it a good substitute for the commercial diamonds used in manufacturing processes as cutting tools, wire drawing dies, mining drills and for parts of surfaces requiring resistance to wear. Records are reported where wire has been drawn continuously week after week without appreciable wear on a tungsten-carbide die, whereas a steel die must be replaced almost daily.

LABORATORY METHOD

The new material is not made by ordinary steel mill methods, but on what may be called a laboratory basis, which includes the production of the basic metals tungsten and cobalt, since ordinary commercial qualities are not sufficiently pure. The heating operations are done in electrically heated, hydrogen furnaces and are called sintering rather than melting, which would be impractical, if desirable, because of the 5,400-degree melting point of the tungsten.

The price of Firthite is also new in steel mill products. It is sold at $1 a gram, or at the rate of over $900,000 a ton, a marked contrast to the product of neighboring Pittsburgh mills. Users of the new material go so far as to predict that its use may be a determining factor in bringing about the five-day week in certain shops.

Wm. Ford Elected to Oil Company Board

William Ford, chairman of the board of the Owens-Illinois Glass Company of Toledo, has been elected a director of the Bolsa Chica Oil Corporation at Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. Ford is not a stranger to the petroleum business as his glass company controls large natural gas properties in West Virginia. The Bolsa Chica Oil Corporation is one of the best-known independent oil companies in California. It is much in the limelight there, as it controls 3,400 acres in the great Kettleman Hills oil district. The company is producing oil in several other fields in California.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

Investors Seek Shock Proof Industries

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

STOCKS of companies in the shock-proof industries are likely to be in demand over the next few months. So long as there is uncertainty in the business outlook many investors will turn their attention to companies which are not in a position to be hurt by curtailment in the general volume of commercial activity.

First of all in this list are the five-and-ten-cent stores. Operators of this class of merchandising establishment went through the buyers' strike of 1920 and 1921 and continued to expand their sales volume and to add new units to their chains.

The explanation of the stability of sales of low-priced merchandise lies in the fact that many people who neglect the ten-cent stores in good times are influenced to search for bargains in them in periods of less general prosperity. Of course, in analyzing the position of the chains, it must be remembered that they are coming to the end of their period of maximum expansion and that competition between chains is keener than in the past. This does not make them any more vulnerable to depression, but merely indicates that future growth will be at a slower pace since new territories are becoming harder to find.

Mail Order Houses

THE leading mail order houses have branched out into chain store operation at a rapid rate during the past few years, but it is not so easy to predict their business volume in case of a drop in public buying. The mail order houses were hard hit in 1921, but this was due to their inability to move heavy inventories in a period of declining prices. At that time the mail order houses had no chain store branches to help them and their biggest customers, the farmers, were in a bad way. This year there is no evidence of inflation in commodity prices, so that the mail order houses should do fairly well regardless of general conditions.

While the chains handling higher priced articles, such as clothing, have not the long period of history behind them that the five and ten-cent stores have, it seems logical to assume that they would share in the same tendency towards economy which could be expected to help the lower priced stores.

We Must Eat

NO MATTER what the trend of business may be there can be only a minor variation in the volume of business done by the food companies. Most of the organizations of this type with securities in public hands are either producing or selling low priced brands which will always find a market. While a tendency towards economy might hurt the meat packers, it would probably help a company making bread or a breakfast food.

The chains of grocery stores with their low prices and the distribution of indispensible food commodities seem to be in a particularly strong position regardless of business conditions. The chain groceries might lose sales in some lines, but would gain them in others.

Outlook for Movies

STRANGE to say, parts of the amusement industry are not hurt when the more fundamental lines feel depression. The legitimate theaters are vulnerable to slumps, but the movies are either unharmed or else actually helped by poor employment conditions.

The explanation seems to be that, so long as the movie houses keep their prices down, they can get attendance on the days when Mr. Millworker is laid off. There are some things on which the American people will not try economize and the movies are one of them. There is no reason to believe that break in the market will unsettle business to such an extent that the power to purchase movie tickets would be affected.

Coal Output Shows No Change in Week

The production of bituminous coal continues at about the same rate as last week, with but little improvement in demand and prices showing little change. Western Pennsylvania grades of run-of-mine coal are quoted as follows, per net ton at mine: Steam coal, $1.25 to $1.75; coking coal, $1.50 to $1.75; gas coal, $1.65 to $1.75; steam slack, 80 to 90 cents, and gas slack $1 to $1.10.

No New Development In Bottle Business

The glass bottle industry presents the same picture this week that has been painted for some time past. Containers continue to be satisfactory from the standpoint of volume. Manufacturers and distributors of this kind of ware are experiencing no trouble keeping busy, but the profit secured is most disappointing because of price policies.

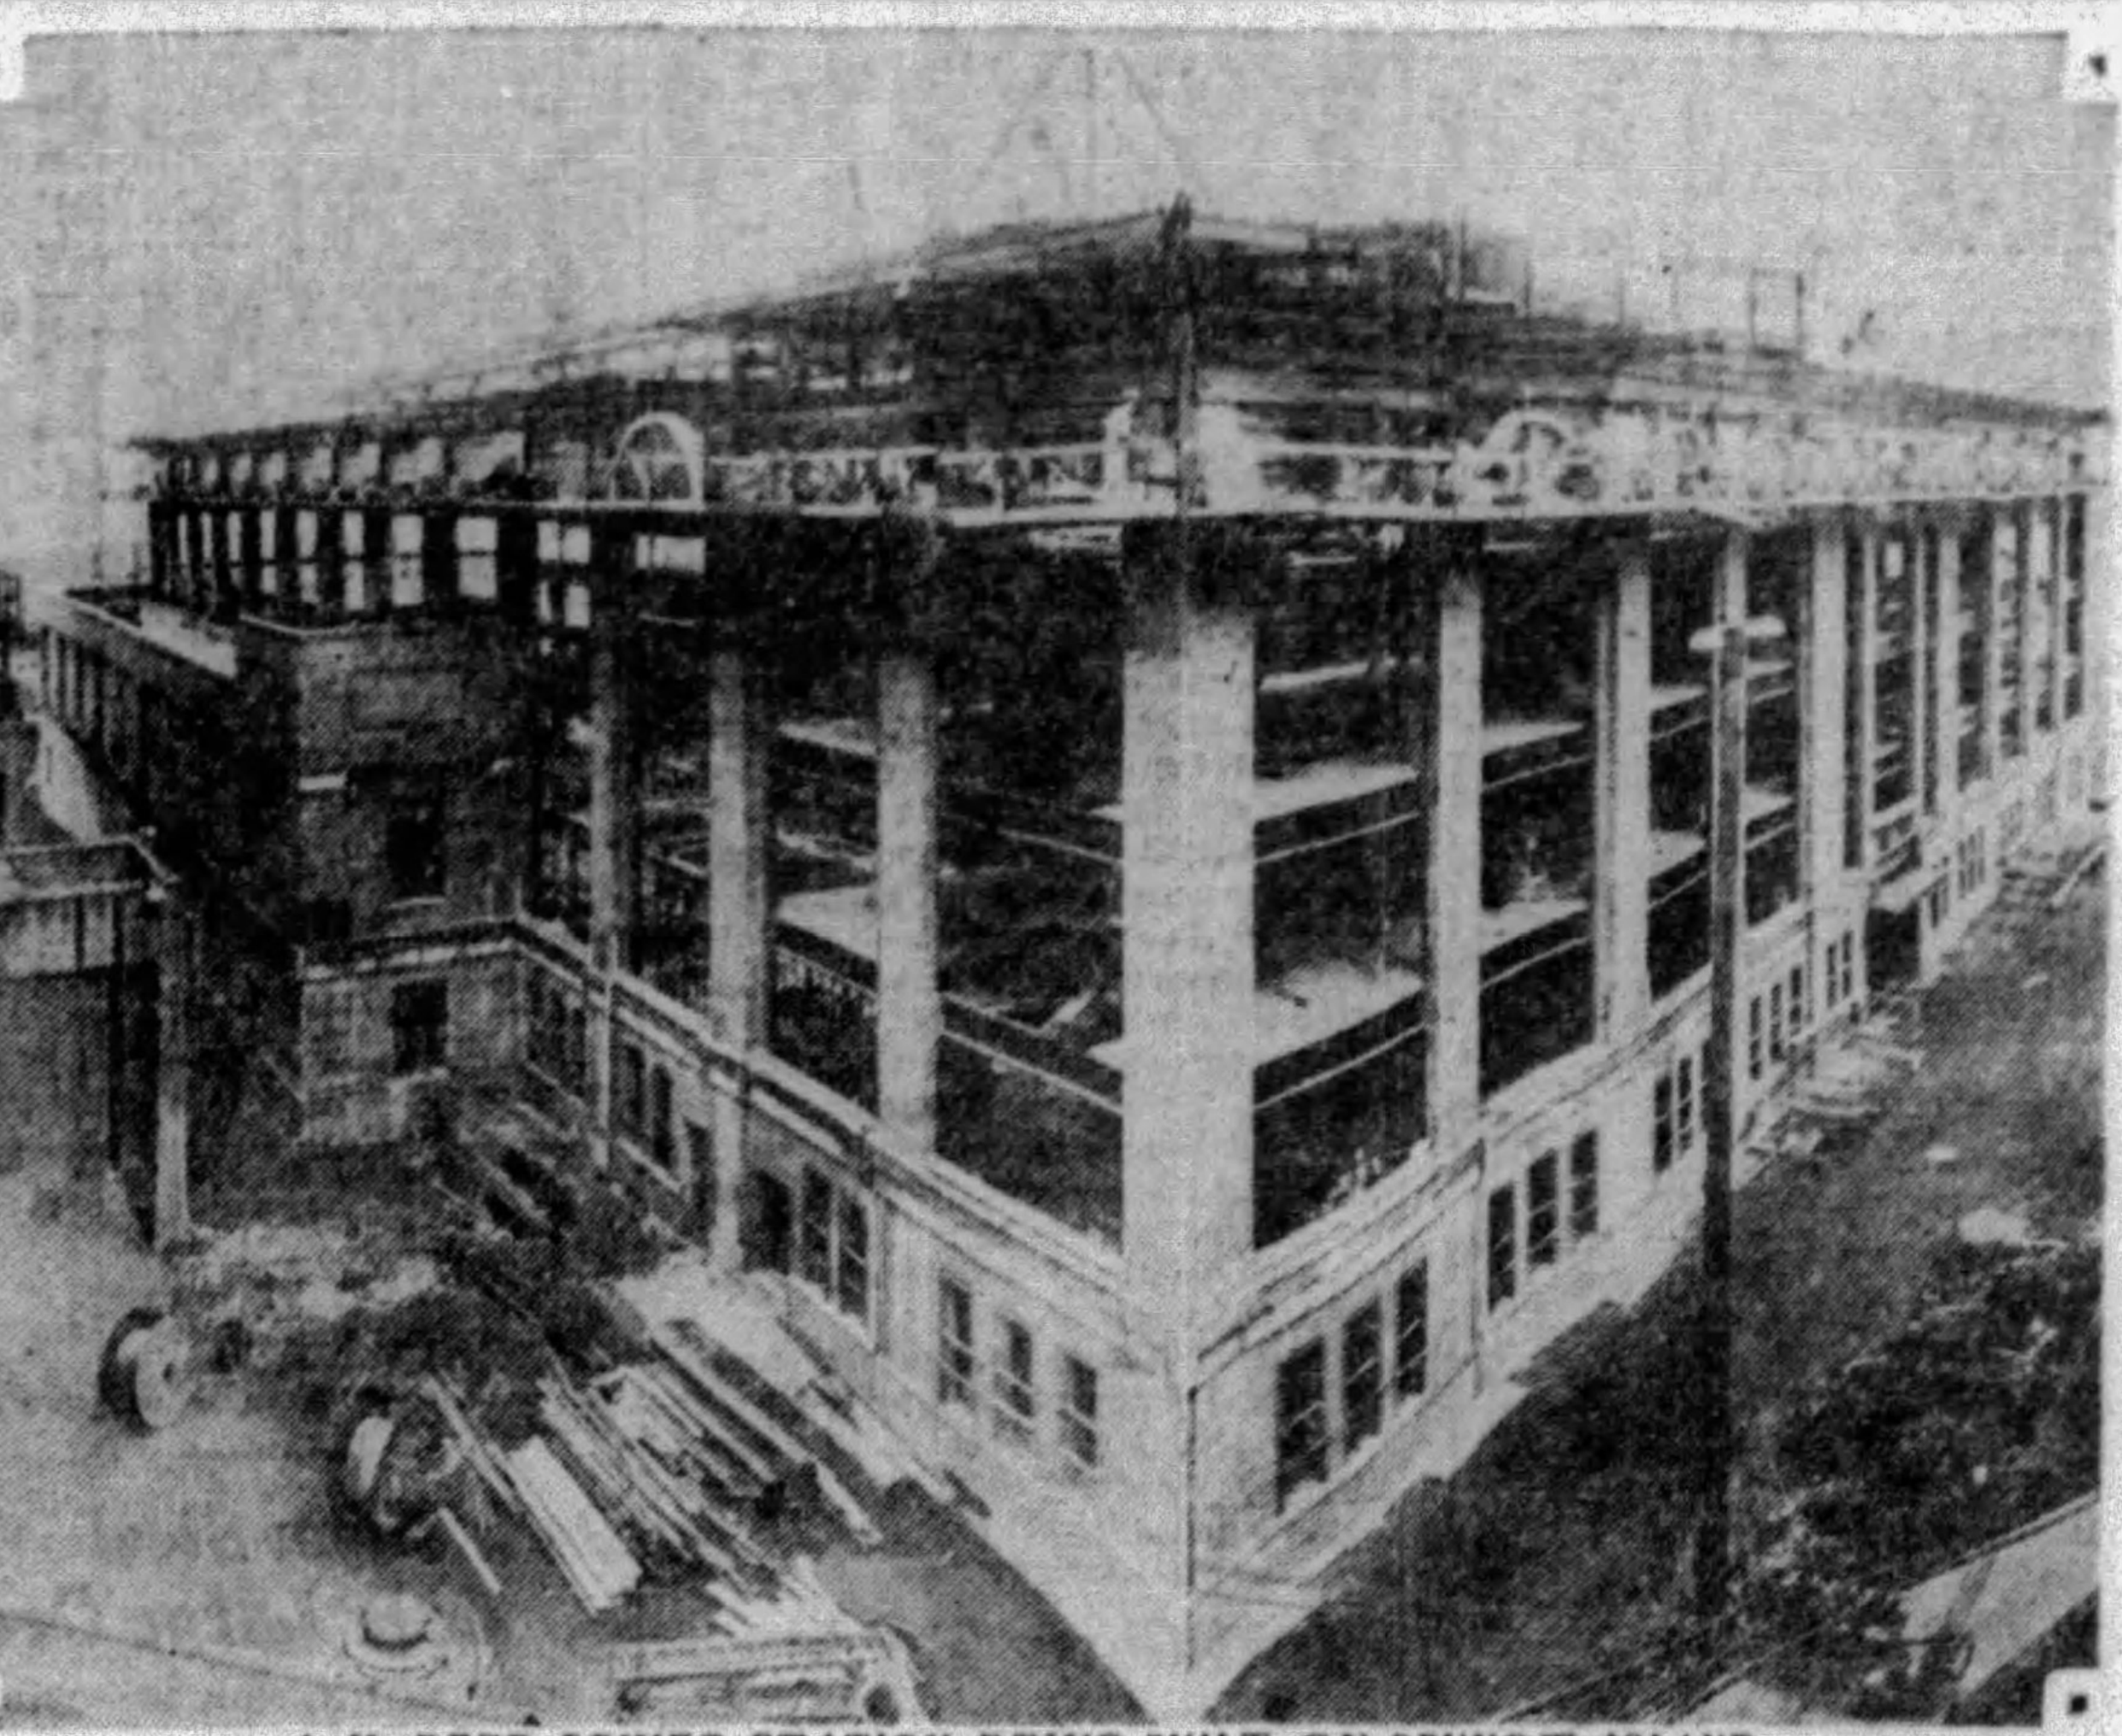
POWER PLANT NEARING COMPLETION



J. H. REED POWER STATION BEING BUILT ON BRUNOT ISLAND

POWER OUTPUT GAINS

Pittsburgh's citizens are becoming more and more electrically minded each year. Last year a new high mark was reached with an average use of 648 kilowatt hours for each residential user of electricity compared with only 524 kilowatt hours in 1924, an increase of about 25 per cent. It is estimated that the 1929 consumption will reach 685 kilowatt hours per customer. The average for the entire United States for 1928 was but 459 kilowatt hours a year. Industry has also shown a marked increase in use of power with an increase of 14 per cent since 1924.

Last year, in order to keep abreast of the increasing demand for electric power, it was decided to build a new power station. The new James H. Reed Power Station of the Duquesne Light Company, now under construction on Brunot's Island, is keeping pace with the erection schedule mapped out by Byllesby Engineering and Management Corporation engineers.

The first unit of this power plant, to cost approximately $9,000,000, will be completed about July 1, 1930, and will have a capacity of 60,000 kilowatts. Add this capacity to that of the two plants now operated by the Duquesne Light Company, one the Colfax plant at Cheswick and the other the already established on Brunot's Island, and Pittsburgh will rate eighth among the cities of the United States having the highest electric generating capacity.

GROUND BROKEN

On October 30, 1928, the Duquesne Light Company broke ground for the new station, which will ultimately require 10 years for completion. The view in the accompanying picture shows one year's progress with the steel and brick work on the building completed.

The building is of brick, tile and concrete construction, with steel frame supported by concrete piling. The exterior of the brick wall of the building is face brick, similar to other buildings of the Duquesne Light Company on Brunot Island.

TURBINE ROOM

The main building of the new plant has room for an electrical gallery and offices, a turbine room with spaces above the roof trusses for station electrical equipment and a boiler room.

The power house will be large enough to house two 60,000-kilowatt turbine generators and six boilers. At present only one 60,000-unit and three boilers are to be installed. Ultimate plans call for building five power units with a total capacity of 300,000 kilowatts at a total cost of about $40,000,000.

Recession Shown In Business Volume

Business activity during the week ended November 9, as indicated by check payments, showed a recession from the high level of the preceding week, but was substantially greater than for the corresponding period of last year, according to the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce. Steel plant activity during the latest reported week was less than for either the previous week or a year ago. The output of crude petroleum again declined from recent high levels, but was still much larger than a year ago. The output of bituminous coal was also smaller than during either the previous week or the corresponding period of 1929.

Cotton and cattle receipts were substantially larger than for the corresponding period of last year. Freight car loadings also declined from both prior periods.

Wholesale prices continued to decline and were substantially lower than for the corresponding week of 1928. Bank loans and discounts receded somewhat from last week's high level, but were substantially larger than a year ago. Interest rates on time money were lower and those on call money the same as during the previous week, rates on both being lower than for the corresponding week of last year. Business failures, while slightly fewer than during the previous week, were larger than for the same week of 1928.

RETAIL TRADE DULL

There has been no marked change in retail trade in this section which continues only moderately active, weather conditions not being particularly favorable for the movement of seasonable merchandise, according to R. G. Dun & Co.

Jobbers of dry goods and wearing apparel generally report sales only fair and purchases averaging rather small. There is lessened activity in construction work and the demand for lumber and building materials continues rather unsatisfactory.

There is a light demand for automobiles, with used cars in more than ample supply. Hardware trade, particularly for builders' supplies, is rather quiet. While there has been a slight improvement in the demand for jewelry, trade as a whole appears to be considerably below normal in volume.

Industrial operations show a slight recession, with steel plants down to about 75 per cent of capacity on the average, while plants largely depending upon the automobile trade are at a lower levl.

Production of electrical equipment continues at a high rate and manufacturers of radiator and heating equipment are also quite active, although manufacturers of sanitary equipment are less active than last year.

WINDOW GLASS INACTIVE

The window glass industry presents an unusual situation for this time of year, according to the National Glass Budget. Of all of the months of the year, November is the one when the call for window glass is usually most urgent, and yet there is a noticeable lack of activity in both the manufacturing and distributing phases of the industry. Rarely is there a time when window glass production is lower than at the present time and still it is manufactured in sufficient quantities to take care of present requirements.

The general opinion expressed is that it is a question of under demand rather than of overproduction and the situation offers no immediate solution or brighter prospects. Some little encouragement is offered the general situation by the fairly impressive activity seen in the very thin and the extra heavy grades of this type of glass product.

In plate glass the situation is somewhat better, but not booming. The jobbing, mirror and glazing branches of the business may be regarded as near normal, which is some decline from what they have been, but which is to be expected as the season advances. The automobile demand shows the greatest recession in the plate glass industry. Manufacturing conditions have not changed during the week.

No marked change is noted in the wired and rough rolled branch of the industry.

RESERVE BANK LAUDED FOR RATE CUT

Rediscount Slash Held as Great Stabilizer After Emotional Market Slump

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, is to be lauded for its prompt and decisive second revision of its rate policy in the course of a fortnight.

In cutting its rediscount rate from 5 to 4½ per cent, the Federal Reserve Bank formally reminds an emotional citizenry that the credit supply of the country is abundant—in fact superabundant. The earlier reduction from 6 to 5 per cent a fortnight previously meant that, inasmuch as the threat of abnormal use of credit in speculation had passed, there was no longer any justification for punitive interest rates.

DOMINANT IN POWER

The sentimental effect of the second overt act within a fortnight in connection with the recent major reversal of Federal Reserve policy should be to stress for the benefit of the unthinking that America is still dominant in gold reserves and in banking power. Psychologically, the second reduction should help to sober up those who are drunk with fright, and remind them what a giant America is in the realm of finance and barter.

The Federal Reserve gesture is intended to be reassuring. Future historians, who are in possession of the data is to underlying current conditions in the United States, will be at a loss to explain the recent panic, which sprang only from a breakdown in mob psychology. The 4½ per cent rate is a further harbinger of the approach of a period of superlatively easy interest rates.

SEE FURTHER DECLINE

The full effect of the new status of the money market will not be discernible until after the turn of the year, when the seasonal peak demand for loans and for currency has been passed. Further declines in the rediscount rates here and abroad would not be unexpected. Accordingly, this is still a good time for investors to sell money, or, in other words, to buy sound bonds. The bond market has been partially ignoring fundamentals during the speculative collapse, because speculators threw overboard bonds to save their marginal commitments. That is a passing phase. Sound bonds, even at this time, still offer an unusually good yield, safety of principal and the prospects of short term appreciation.

As a matter of fact, underlying gold conditions never warranted tight money. The tightness was largely artificial, reflecting the experiment of the Federal Reserve in a managed currency, which means an attempt to substitute banking discretion for the automatic working of the gold standard. Such contribution as the Federal Reserve made to the dear money program was predicated on dissatisfaction with the abnormally rapid flow of funds into the stock market. That flow has of course in the recent mad weeks of undiscriminating liquidation not only been ruthlessly checked, but also reversed in spectacular manner.

CURE WORSE THAN DISEASE

The stock market has been disgorging itself of borrowed funds at an unprecedentedly rapid rate. The "correction" has been worse than the disease. The market has been releasing funds at a dangerously rapid rate. The sensational deflation in brokers' loans not only reflects the downward course of stock prices, but also the transference of stocks on a large scale from weak, marginal holders to strong outright buyers.

The reduction in loans this week was larger than ever before except in the corresponding period a fortnight before. Loans made to brokers through the New York banks declined since the October 2 peak from $6,804,000,000 to $4,172,000,000. In the last week alone, the reduction amounted to $710,000,000. More than half of the last week's reduction was in loans by the New York banks for their own account, so that the New York banks have already gone most of the way in withdrawing from the market the extra credit which they put in a fortnight ago to relace withdrawels by the bootleg lenders and out of town banks.

NEW YORK TO FORE

After the hysteria, it will be apparent that the credit situation has been reversed, and that New York will once more be in position to resume its role as a world banking center. Not only will foreign loans be stimulated, but domestic activities, including public works and the activities of the Federal farm land system, and the building industry, which are dependent on a good bond market, will be heightened. After speculative stabilization has been attained and consolidated, the forward looking will begin to discount the significance of the new easy money policy of central banks throughout the world. The policy of stabilizing gold by the Federal Reserve will doubtless be abandoned, and the Bank of France, which also has been sitting on gold, is carefully studying means of encouraging an export of French capital.

HINT TO PUBLIC

Are any stocks really cheap, a jolted public wonders. Even now there are of course stocks and stocks, but a dollar, selling for 85 cents is the type of offer that is not held out indefinitely.

The thoughtful are wondering how much the speculative collapse will hurt business. The adverse effect can be reduced if the large public will co-operate. Now is the time to live normally and to buy goods as wanted in normal quantities. America has the technique for stabilized prosperity, and it will retain it if the public remains cheerful in the face of the speculative collapse.

Report G. M. in French Deal

PARIS, Nov. 16.—(INS.)—Rumors that General Motors had acquired the plants of two of the largest French motor car companies, Citroen and Peugeot, were credited in many quarters as being authentic.

No official statements concerning the reported acquisitions could be secured, however, from either General Motors officials here or officials of the French companies.

The rumors followed the removal of the European headquarters of General Motors from London to this city and other acquisitions and contemplated acquisitions of General Motors on the European continent reported recently.

General Motors recently absorbed the Opel automobile works in Germany and is reported to be negotiating for control of the Fiat company's plant in Italy.

Flint Glass Trade Has Season Orders

The week has given no evidence of a change in the flint glass industry. Manufacturers are operating at normal capacity and selling is in quantities sufficient to prevent a large accumulation of stocks. Holiday ware, specially priced sets and individual pieces keep the volume of sales at a fair amount.

Colored ware and richly decorated glass continue to lead in popularity. Where a firm has hit on a new design or an unusual combination of colors, it has found its new product appealing to buyers. As a general statement the volume of business transacted is normal, both as to manufacture and distribution.

HER BABY IS SAFE

MRS. MAMIE DOLSON AND HER BABY

Mrs. Dolson, 21, holds her baby a little tighter today when she reflects that Gladys May Parks, held in the death of Camden (N. J.) babies, had invited her and the child to live in the Parks house as soon as the baby recovered from the whooping cough.

Bethlehem Steel Gets Large Order

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railroad has ordered 10,000 tons of steel rails from the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, Railway Age reported today.

Other new equipment ordered includes oil-electric locomotives for the Michigan Central to be built by the American Locomotive, Ingersoll-Rand and General Electric companies.

The North American Car Company has ordered five tank cars from the American Car and Foundry Company, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has placed an order with the Pullman Company for 50 passenger coaches. The Texas Company was reported as being in the market for 600 tank cars.

Sharon Steel Hoop Plants to Close

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 16.—Following an almost capacity run for two years, the Sharon Steel Hoop Company will next week suspend its sheet mill plant at Hazleton, in Youngstown, and its open hearth furnaces at Lowellville, Mahoning County. Its strip mills at Sharon will be in partial operation. This curtailment is due to depressed buying of flat rolled steels by the automotive industry. This week, the company operated five sheet mills at its Hazleton plant.

In the Mahoning Valley, sheet and strip mills have operated irregularly since September, and at Niles, where a number of nonintegrated plants are located, suspensions have been frequent.

National Stores Expands System

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—First National Stores, Inc., New England chain system, has acquired Davey Bros., of Bridgeport, Conn., and the Modern Grocery Company, of South Norwalk, Conn., it was announced. These acquisitions will bring the First National chain up to 2,800 grocery stores and 180 meat markets with an annual business of about $110,000,000.

The Davey chain consists of 117 stores with an annual gross business of about $4,000,000, and the Modern chain of 60 stores, doing a gross business of about $2,000,000.

Bulova Watch Co. Sales Show Gain

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Plants of Bulova Watch Company, in Providence, R. I., and New York, are working in double shifts in order to take care of orders on hand and no let-down is anticipated, according to Ira Guilden, vice president.

Net sales billed and shipped up to present show an increase of 39 per cent over same period of 1928, he said, adding that he anticipated that the increase will be maintained during remainder of 1929.

2 Women, Armed With Razor, Rob Man of $33

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 16.—When John Bersdelli, of 2 Division street, stepped from his home, he was attacked by two women, he told the police, who held him up, one threatening him with a razor, while the other took his pocketbook containing $33. They were traveling, he said, in a red roadster bearing an Ohio license.

TAX CUT HELPS U. S. STEEL

The reduction from 12 per cent to 11 per cent in the levy of taxes on incomes of corporations will bring savings to many of the leading industries of the country, particularly as it will be effective on results of the current year, which, in most instances, were peace-time records. The plan to cut taxes is, therefore, viewed as one of the most constructive steps taken from a business standpoint.

In 1928, United States Steel Corporation paid $14,959,809 in federal income taxes on its earnings. Revenues of the current year have been considerably in excess of the results last year, and it had geen generally estimated that income taxes under the 12 per cent levy would be somewhere between $20,000,000 and $21,000,000 for the current year. A reduction of 1 per cent would, therefore, mean a saving of about $1,750,000 this year.

BUSINESS AIDS DISCUSSED

James A. Jackson, representative of the United States Department of Commerce, spoke on small business units last night at Warren Methodist Episcopal Church. Mr. Jackson is in Pittsburgh to encourage Negro merchants to seek govermental assistance in the operation of their particular business unit.

In order to give special aid and instruction, the Department of Commerce has set up a special section in the Domestic Commerce Division for the benefit of the smaller merchants. Such problems as store location and planning, budgetary control in retail store management, measuring a retail market and education of a retail sales sorce are given attention by the special department.

Seek Opening of Lake-Gulf Canal

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Chicago business leaders want the way cleared for the completion of the most northerly stretch of the rapidly progressing Gulf to the Lakes waterway. At present the big stumbling block in the area where the new canal system will link up with Lake Michigan are four bridges over the Chicago Sanitary District Canal.

While built originally as swing bridges, these causeways, carrying four of the busiest avenues in Chicago over the waterway, have never been equipped with machinery to assure their movement. As a consequence, big lake and river steamers find their progress up and down the waterway blocked.

The Chicago Association of Commerce has started a campaign to assure the completion of the bridges during 1930.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

The demand for fruit and vegetables was slow today at the wholesale produce markets in Pittsburgh. There was no changes in quotations.

The poultry markets rested firm, supply fair, demand adequate, with no changes in quotations.

The butter, egg and cheese markets remained steady, demand good, supply nominal. No changes were made in quotations.

Car lot supplies were light with 328 cars on track. Arrivals included 8 cars of apples, 6 cabbages, 2 celery, 5 grapefruits, 2 cranberries, 3 lettuce, 2 onions, 3 oranges, 1 peaches, 3 pears, 3 spinach, 1 turnips, 1 parsnips, 7 potatoes, 6 sweet potatoes, 2 tomatoes and 21 grapes.

IMPROVEMENT IN CREDIT SEEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Department of Commerce officials believe that recent widespread liquidation of securities and a consequent better credit situation will result in certain positive benefits to American industry. While wiping out of large amounts of paper profits may have some adverse effect on business particularly in luxury class, it is believed this will be offset by advantages accruing from better credit conditions. Similar views have been expressed by Secretary Lamont and Assistant Secretary Julius Klein.

Construction projects and railroad activities which may have been hampered by difficulty in floating necessary loans should be benefitted it is thought.

It is understood the Department of Commerce is making an intensive survey of the construction industry to determine to what extent it has profited from better credit and a report on this investigation is expected to be made within a few days.

Fireproofing Pays $3.50 on Preferred

Directors of the National Fireproofing Company at a special meeting today declared a dividend of $3.50 a share on the $50 par preferred stock, payable November 30 to stock of record November 25. The declaration is out of 1929 profits. The previous payments this year of $2.75 a share on the preferred were out of 1928 earnings.

Directors will meet on December 4 to consider payment of a dividend on the common.

The dividend declared today is also payable to holders of certificates of deposit for preferred stock deposited under the company's recently announced plan of capital reorganization.

Sidelights on Mitchell, Young, Mott, Parson

By B. C. FORBES

HUMOR was not unmixed with tragedy when Wall street was at its worst. A friend stopped a banker on the street and asked him, "what's the best thing to buy?"

"Your winter's coal," the banker shot back as he hurried along.

Another Wall street man, who had lost almost everything but what he stood in, urged everybody to buy Western Union. Asked why, he replied:

"Because they must have got rich from margin calls sent me and boobs like me."

Thursday's and yesterday's market effectively stopped margin calls.

WHEN things first began to collapse in Wall street, Charlie Mitchell appeared worried. Later when bears circulated rumors that he was going to quit the National City bank, he promptly donned his fighting togs, cast all traces of worry to the winds, and went at his daily duties hammer-and-tongs. Mitchell could probably lick in the prize ring an other bank head in New York. He not only is a noted boxer, but makes it his business to keep constantly in the pink of physical condition by athletics and other exercises.

From the time he took command of the National City Company when it was a mere infant, Mitchell inspired extraordinary enthusiasm and loyalty among his force. They know that he works harder than any of them. They admire both his physical and mental strength, his aggressiveness his progressiveness his faith in them and the institution.

ONE man who has played a leading role during these recent troublous days in the financial world is Owen D. Young; but he has functioned so unobtrusively that he figured little in the limelight.

J. P. Morgan and Thomas W. Lamont got to know Young's caliber during the Paris conference which drew up what is now known as the Young reparations plan. After the stock market crisis befell, Young was called into counsel by the house of Morgan. Young is also a tremendously influential director of the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

I understand that far-reaching plans are quietly under way to induce employers throughout the country not to throw workers out of employment, cancel or reduce orders, or otherwise act in a way calculated to foster depression. Mr. Young's influence is being and will be felt potently in this direction. He is a calm, mild-mannered gentleman who doesn't become excited, who doesn't lose his patience, but always tries to "see things through the other fellow's eyes," which he long ago told me was one essential in the art of handling other men and achieving the equitable solution of knotty problems.

Should Owen D. Young ever change his job, my guess is that it will be to join the Morgan firm or to enter the White House. He is a Democrat.

"ALREADY he has deposited in the bank $3,592,000," records a press dispatch from Flint, Mich., dealing with the colossal looting of a bank there by a clique of junior officers.

The man who has made good this staggering sum is known to relatively few of the American public. He is Charles S. Mott, often called the largest individual holder of General Motors stock.

A graduate mechanical engineer, he was manufacturing wire wheels and rims for bicycles, carriages, etc., at Utica, N. Y., when motor makers began swamping him with orders. He moved (in 1906) to Flint, where his Weston-Mott Company was acquired by General Motors in exchange for General Motorst stock. And he had sense enough not to let go.

In the course of a long talk, this highly successful General Motors executive once said to me:

"To achieve success in business, first see to it that you produce something for which there is a demand. Make the thing right and make the price right. Vigilantly watch overhead. Get facts. Never guess. Keep statistical records. Then study them, analyze them, draw deductions from them for your future planning. Investigate things to the bottom. Think things through."

Mr. Mott has devoted much time to public service.

H. T. PARSON, president of Woolworth's, remarked to me this week:

"I wonder if you have ever figured the accumulated value of Woolworth from its date of issue in January, 1912? One hundred shares cost $6,000. With the stock dividends, split-ups and cash dividends, the original $6,000 investment is worth today $222,000 at a market value of $58 per share—a pretty good investment, I would say."

There is doubtless more than one stock available at low price today which will do equally as well in the next 17 years as Woolworth has done in the last 17. If one only knew which!

AFTER the storm, calm.

Claude Neon Gets Contract From Fox

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Fox Metropolitan Playhouses, Inc., which owns and operates approximately 150 theaters in New York State, has contracted with Claude Neon Lights, Inc., for the installation of one or more specially designed Neon electric displays on each theater. This is one of the largest orders written by a chain theater organization for electric advertising display.

M. H. CAHILL

President Cahill, Plaza Trust Company of New York, who suggested that commercial banks of the country co-operate to check stock market speculation on borrowed capital. He proposes a uniform policy of limiting collateral loans to 75 per cent of security valuations as determined by actual earnings instead of by inflated prices.

SCOUT RUMORS ON WARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The report that control of Montgomery Ward & Co. has passed from J. P. Morgan & Co. to a Chicago group was characterized as "absurd" by interests in close touch with the company's affairs.

The largest known single holding is that of the Donnelly estate, estimated at 80,000 shares out of over 4,600,000 now outstanding.

While there are probably some larger holdings in brokers' names, indications are that control of "Ward" has been in the open market for some time and that no dominant stock interest exists at present.

Administrative control has rested definitely in Chicago since T. F. Merseles retired from the presidency of the company.

Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the board states: "There is no basis for the report that control of Montgomery Ward has passed from J. P. Morgan & Co. to a Chicago group. As far as I know Morgan & Co. still retain their holdings in the stock. There is no dominant interest in the company. I do not think anyone wants absolute control of it."

R. C. Sharp Heads Independent Oil Co.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Robert C. Sharp, formerly president of Oklahoma Natural Gas Company and a director in a number of large corporations, has been elected president of Independent Oil and Gas Company, succeeding E. H. Moore, who has been planning to give up executive activities for some time, due to poor health. Mr. Moore, however, remains a member of the directorate.

Holland Bank Rate Reduced to 4½%

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 16.—Bank of Netherlands has reduced its discount rate from 5 per cent to 4½ per cent. The 5 per cent rate had been in effect since September 30, last.

NEW YORK PRODUCE EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Prices advanced on the securities market of the New York produce exchange today, with bank shares taking the lead. Manufacturers Trust rose 17 points and Bank of United States units soared 14.

In the industrial and miscellaneous group, Chatham Phenix Allied advanced 2, Chemical Associates 2¼, Associated Gas & Electric 2 and Public Utility Holding 1.

Expect Radio Corporation To Show Higher Profits For Quarter.

THE Street was expecting the quarterly report of the Radio Corporation would be made public late in the day. A relatively better showing was being anticipated for the third quarter than in either of the two previous quarters. In fact, it was expected the report for the September quarter would show earnings just about double those reported for the first six months of the year. Estimates placed the probable net at the equivalent of around 97 cents a share, which would compare with 1 cent a share shown for the second quarter and with a balance of 48 cents a share reported for the half year. Such a showing would bring net for the nine months to around $1.50 a share.

Definite easing of the basic credit situation acted as a strong stimulant for the bond market. The investment list was responsive to brisk demand, particularly in the case of government issues, and the better grade of corporate loans. Domestic government loans were sharply higher, advancing from 9-32s to around half a point, with almost all the treasury issues reaching new high ground for the year. Foreign governments, with few exceptions also were inclined to do better. Convertible corporation issues naturally responded to the further improvement in the stock market, advances in some of these descriptions being rather spirited.

DOWNWARD revision of the bank rate to 4½ per cent, announced late yesterday took the street by surprise. Such action had not been anticipated especially in view of the fact that the rate had hitherto been cut from 6 per cent to 5 per cent only a fortnight ago. The present charge for the privilege of rediscounting is the lowest since July 13 last year when the rate incidentally was raised to 5 per cent. The move was unquestionably dictated by the desire to maintain business confidence against any kick-back from the market's break, but the way for the action was paved by the further spectacular curtailment of brokers' borrowings, which are now down $2,632,000,000 from the peak of October 2 last, and approximately at the level of the middle of June last year.

Another flood of increased and extra dividends, together with the announcements of a proposed tax cut, reductions in rediscount and bankers' acceptances rates and a further tremendous drop in brokers' loans, resulted in the financial news of the day being the most favorable seen for some time. Companies declaring extras or increasing regular rates included General Motors, Prairie Oil and Gas, Prairie Pipe Line, Underwood Elliott Fisher, Schiff and Company, and Standard Oil of Kansas. October foreign trade statistics indicate that merchandise exports fell below same period of 1928 for the second month this year, the May total also showing a decrease. Exports totaled $530,000,000 against $550,866,000 in 1928. Imports of $392,000,000 on other hand were about $37,000,000 above a year ago. Indicated merchandise balance for the United States was $138,000,000 for the month. October is usually the peak export month of the year as it includes large shipments of grain and other food products.

THERE has been no change in the long range view that stability will come only after there has been a sharp drop in the volume of trading and irregularity in prices is confined within much narrower limits. Leading observers are urging customers to take advantage of the more favorable quotations to reduce long commitments and strengthen their accounts by reducing debit balances.

Evidence of inside accumulation in certain stocks has not been lacking in recent sessions. There has been scale buying but it has not been large enough to absorb the heavy liquidation. However, the fact remains that some of the leading stocks have been steadily finding their way from weak into stronger hands and in the long run this must be reflected marketwise.

Burns Given Penitentiary Sentence for Robbery At Factory

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Mary Patricia Dawn, pert, young, demi-brunette, sees her little brother, Dickie, fail to rise after a dive in the lake. Pat brings up the apparently lifeless body. All hope seems gone when suddenly an airplane sweeps down out of the sky. Pat's father arrives with Guy Elliott, a tall, handsome youth as pilot. Quick action follows and Dickie recovers. Later Elliott kisses and takes Pat for an air ride. Happy days follow, with Pat and Guy in love. Then comes Barbara Bryce with the seductive lure of shadowy eyes. She is the widow of young William Bryce, whose father owns the airplane factory where Guy works. While trying out her new plane, Barbara has an accident but is saved. In the excitement, Guy forgets an appointment with Pat. Later, while airplaining with Guy, Pat has a glimpse of Barbara in another plane. Pat marvels at Barbara's beauty and wonders if Guy is moved by it. Later Guy receives a visit from Barbara and her young son, upon whom old Bryce squanders a fortune. Tom Burns, a workman, rages about the unfairness of wealth. His invalid son is dying for want of necessities. When Bryce refuses a loan, Burns leaves swearing revenge. The next night, in the factory, Guy hears a stealthy footstep. It is Burns who has robbed the safe. He is captured by the watchman and arrested.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER X.

WILLIAM BRYCE refused to intercede for Burns. This heightened the unfortunate impression that Burns made. He defied pity. He admitted that he planned the crime for days. He was stubborn, hostile, unrepented.

"It's all a pose," said Guy. "You can get him off if you ask probation and offer to reinstate him here."

Bryce went white with contempt. "And open the safe and tell him to help himself! Probation! I'll NOT ask it. I don't want the fellow on the same planet. Did you get the way he looked when I took the stand? Why, he's got murder in his heart. He's raging with it. I'd as soon take a panther into my bed as Tom Burns back into this plant.

"And you steer clear of him. You don't know what you're breeding for yourself. Mark my words and let him alone."

But Guy refused to state that Burns shot at him. He did not see any pistol in the man's hands. He swore to this. Yes, he was treated for a scratch on his neck, but he didn't know how he got it. He had not felt the bullet.

"But you heard shots, didn't you? You can be sure of that? And you saw him crawl, as the watchmen have testified, after his pistol when they were closing on him? And he cursed you, didn't he? Got up on his elbow and cursed you?"

The prosecution wanted a conviction. Tom Burns was just a case to them. They wanted to win. Get a conviction and send him across—

The case was going as the prosecution wished. It looked like a long term, possibly life, when a newspaper went out and got a picture of Tommy Burns.

They told the story of that dingy crib and its wasted occupant. Tom's wife, against his bitter protest, was brought into court.

Mrs. Burns crossed her hands. A wisp of yellow hair fell against her cheek. After a moment she brushed it patiently aside. Her mild blue eyes wandered over the room helplessly—like an animal's that is tied up and beaten. And the animal looks about in pitiful astonishment, wondering where its master can be.

Finally the judge ordered that she be allowed to talk in peace.

"Well, he thought Tommy could be cured," she said, turning her large eyes gratefully to the bench. He thought if he could only get the money to send him to the sanitarium where Joey Gaynor went. He kept thinking about that until he couldn't think of anything else. He had just that one idea. He used to wake up in the night and talk and talk. After a while it got so he couldn't sleep. He'd wake up after an hour and begin to think. He was sick with it. If there was only some way we could scheme or save, if he could earn more. But there wasn't any way.

"And then he fastened on this notion of the $1,500. That's what the Gaynors said it cost to cure Joey. He used to stand over Tommy's crib during the coughing fits. He used to stand there and mumble to himself. And the more Tommy failed, the worse the father got.

"He used to go in a dozen times in the night to look at Tommy. And the day before this happened—all that Friday he kept saying: 'God—he's going to die. I haven't nerve enough to get money and he'll die.' He said this until I could hardly stand it. He was sure that we could save him if we only had the money. He was all wrapped up in him. He asks me all day now where his father is."

She was drab with that pair of hands in putty colored wash gloves, her mild, blue eyes and lank, yellow hair. But as her voice went on, pictures filed into the room. Tom Burns grew more and more rigid. Some of the women wept.

Even the judge was softened. He said: "I want to free this defendant . . ."

Burns sat up. He almost smiled. He had a look of wild gratitude—wilder relief.

"But a major crime has been commited. We are not justified in robbing, in attempting to kill because illness overtakes our children. In view of all the extenuating circumstances, however, we feel justified in giving a light sentence . . ."

Tom Burns didn't move. Only the blood left his face. It became a dark mask with two lines from his nose to his mouth. He was given one to ten years in San Quentin prison. He was allowed to go under guard and bid farewell to his child.

"Now forget it," William Bryce advised the day after the sentence was passed. "If he hadn't got into this jam, he'd get into another. His type does. And don't miss this—half an inch lower—a tenth of an inch, perhaps, and that bullet would have severed your jugular vein."

He went noisily to his desk, shoved a chair, rustled some papers. "We have lots of business more important than Burns before us . . ."

He motioned Guy to the chair next his. "Look over these. Nice figures? Well—I put over a lucky deal on that Miller apartment house. We're ready to go ahead. Think we should get the plant working to capacity by September. How do you like that? You can fly high then. Have all the opportunity you want . . ."

He reached to a vase of flowers, snipped a cornflower and put it in his buttonhole. "By the end of the year, if all goes well, and it will, of course, Luck is the fool's name for the wise man's sagacity or the brave man's daring. So by the end of the year you'll have a neat pile. You can marry that nice little girl I saw you taking into the plane."

Guy went back to his workroom, a bit dazzled by the luring prospects William Bryce outlined. He had been waiting two years for this promise to materialize.

Two years ago, shortly after the tragic death of Bryce, Jr., Guy came to the Bryce airplane factory.

The moment was opportune. The father, crushed by the loss, wanted to continue the work the boy had started. He thought it would be a fine tribute to his son—a living monument to perfect a plane—call it after him. So he entered into negotiations with Guy—put him in charge of the established plant, and glowingly promised to start on Guy's design immediately.

This was in the beginning when his grief was new, when he regarded as almost sacred the things his son had loved. Under this stress, he had moved his offices, much to the ire of Nancy Brack, out here to South San Francisco. He had intended to concentrate on plane-building.

But Bryce was too versatile for this. He liked to spread himself out to cast a dozen dazzling lines. These operations required more and more capital. The production of Guy's plane had been delayed.

Now they would really start—

He took a paper and made some figures. And then he recalled quite at random Bryce's comments on marriage. He would have money enough—without doubt.

He suddenly was feeling Pat's hand tucked in his . . . a snug little hand, a bit hard, but so warm, so quick and sweet. Right now, thinking of her, he wanted to drive up to that hillside garden; wanted to see her come running down to the gate, swinging it open with such naive joy, every look proclaiming that he was glorious and sparkling—a young god to her. He loved that, of course, and he was finding Pat perilously attractive.

About two weeks later Guy went into Bryce's office.

"He's left," said Nancy Brack. "In a storm. What do you think—those clubwomen who made such a howl when Tom Burns was sent over are working now to have his sentence definitely set at one year. . . and they're going to get him paroled. He'll be out some time in the first of the year.

"What's that to Bryce?"

"Oh—it made him sore. Besides he dropped $100,000 yesterday. Pivoting his bank stocks went a little off."

"Is Bryce playing that game heavily?"

"Is he! That's why I told you to get going strong. Good thing you did."

"Not strong enough if he starts anything like that."

Guy went back to his workroom. Presently he shoved a hand through his hair. If Bryce lost in his gambling, all this beautiful and splendid dream would vanish.

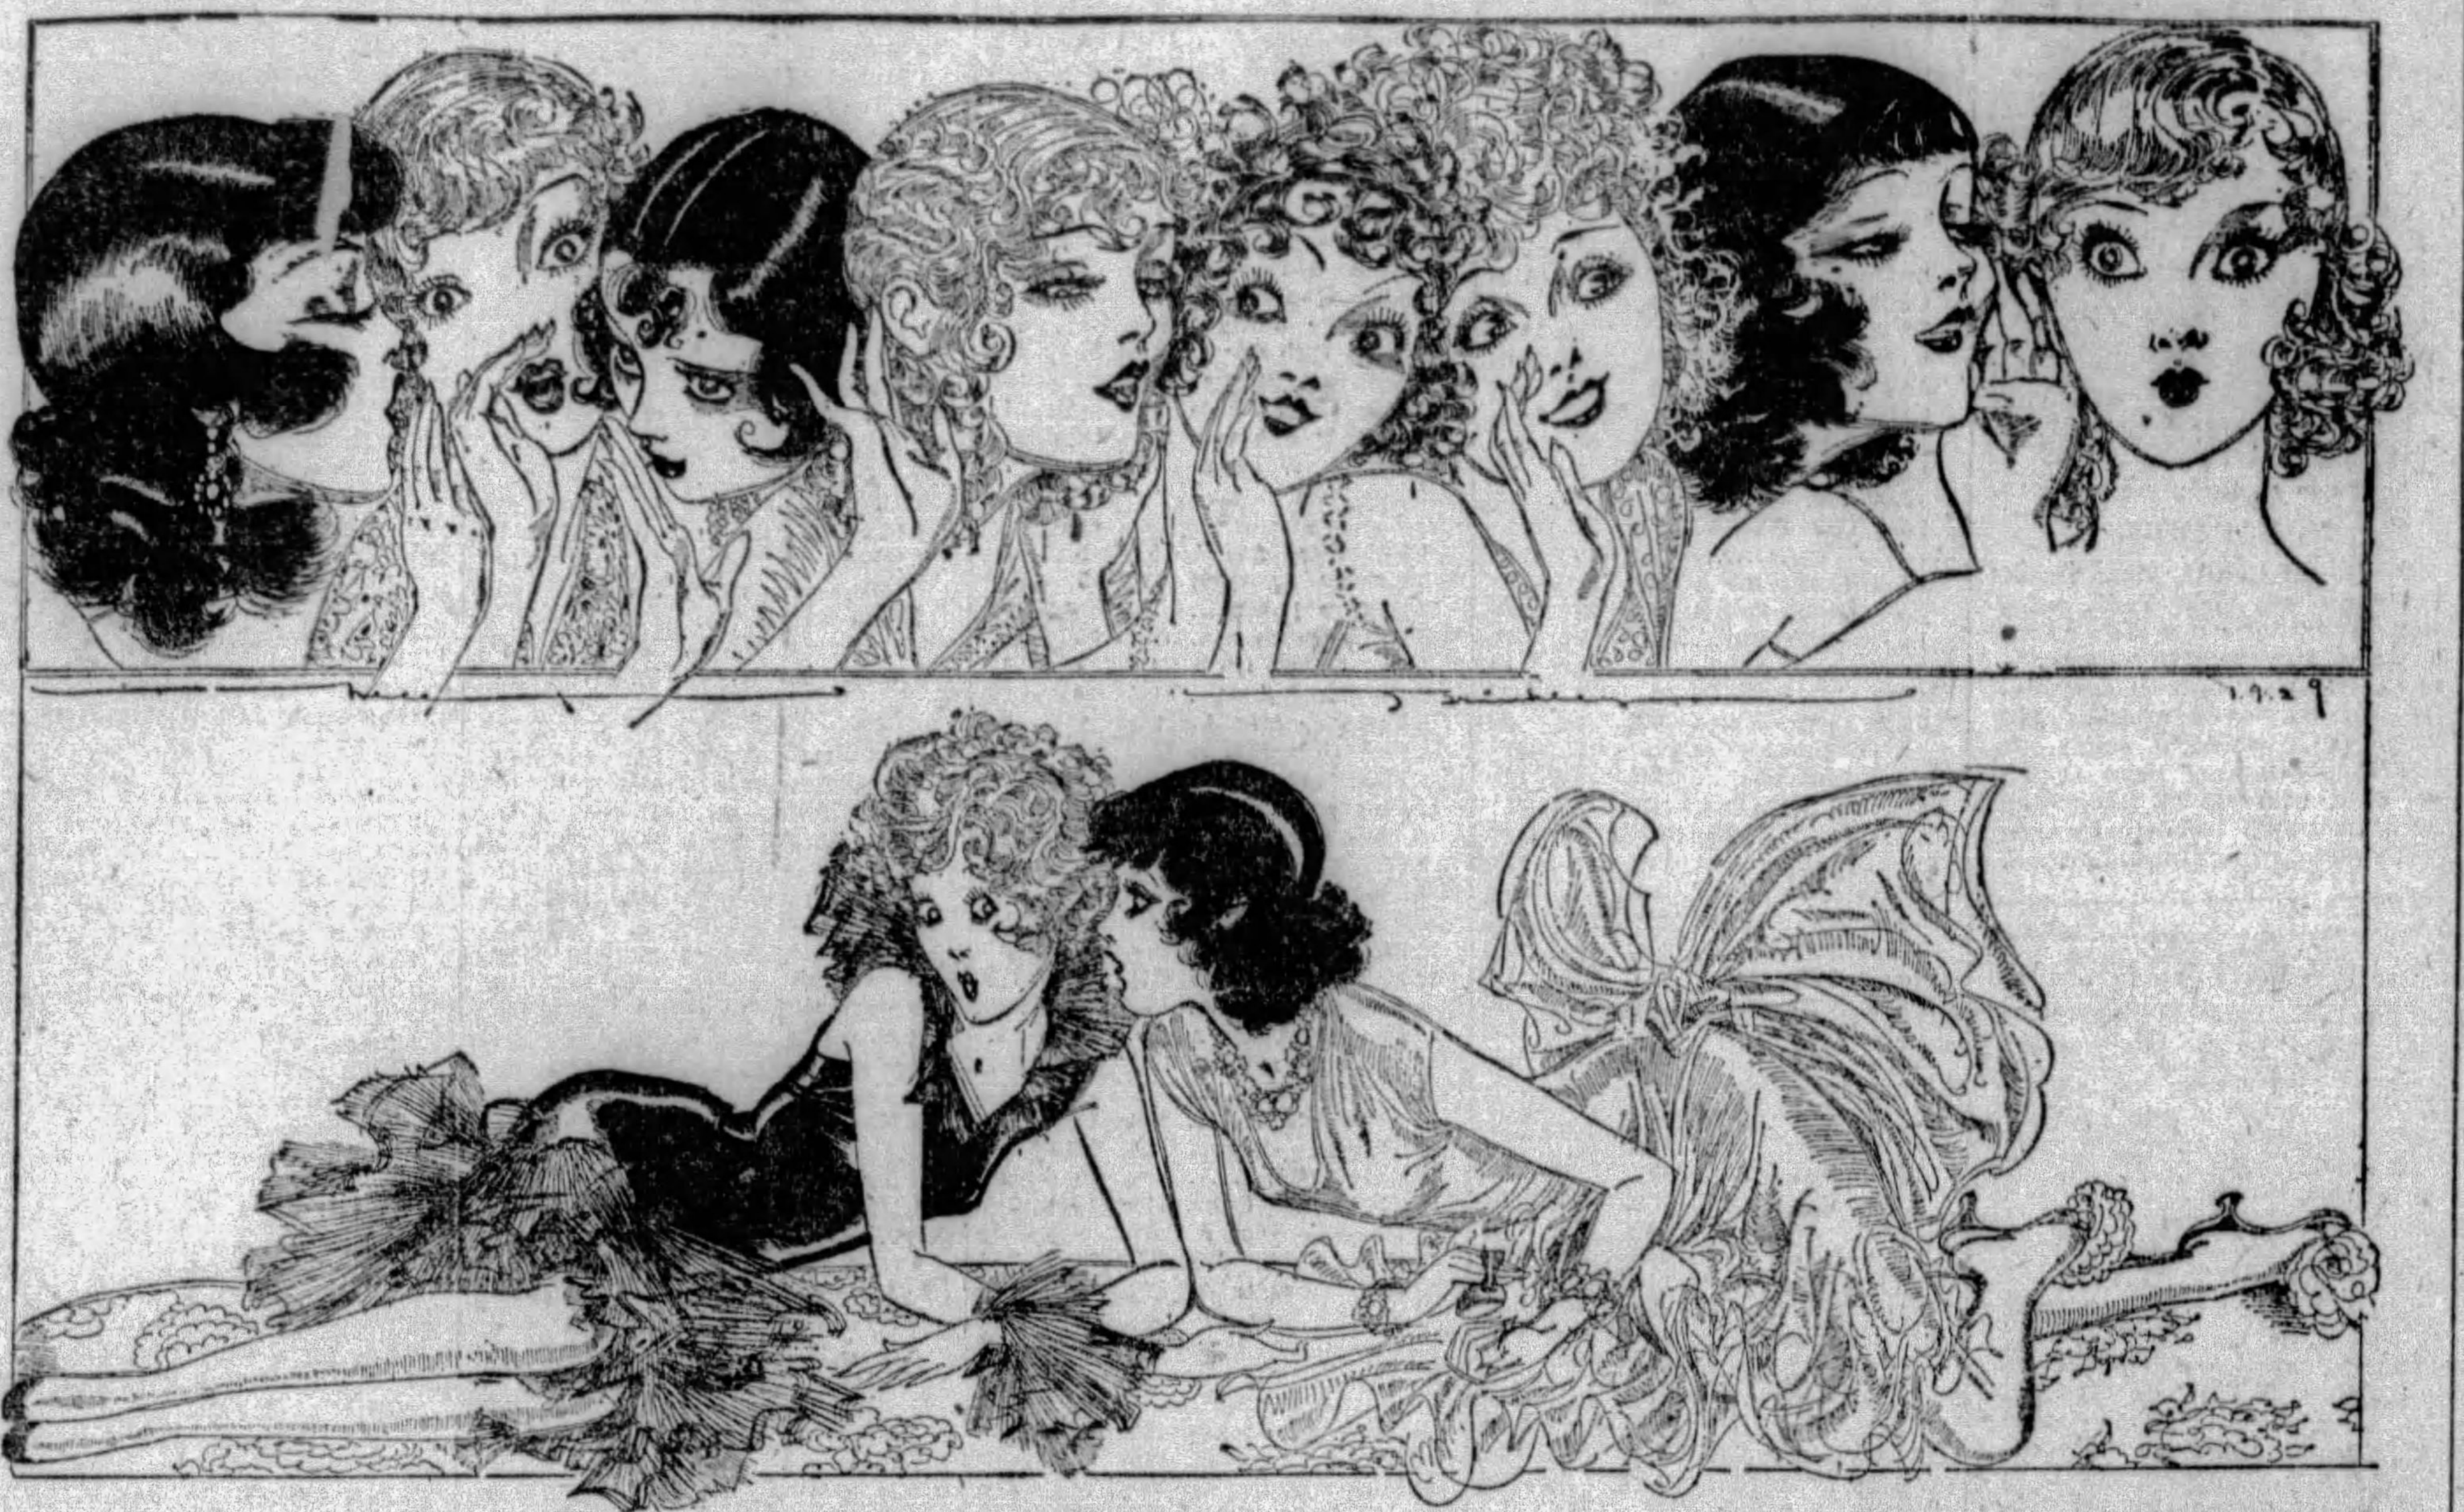
Shrink Wool

Wool which is to be used for darning should be held in the steam from a boiling kettle to shrink it.

"Don't Tell a Soul!"

Drawn by NELL BRINKLEY



WHISPERED more often, by rosy lips, than any other phase. Save, and except that one. "And he said. . . .and then I said."

"Don't tell a soul!" Even a man must admit the irresistible impulse to say to another one, when he knows he hadn't ought to: "Don't pass this on . . . .But. . . .!"

There are good little souls in the world who will not tell a secret. But scanning faces known, and not known, we can never tell just who those tight little souls are, alas! So we pick a safe-looking one, one about whom we broadcast, "Oh, SHE'D never tell." And then, alack, she does.

Good souls there are who bury a secret deep, dark, to never be raised to the surface again, unless you come around and say, "I don't mind now. . . . you can tell the world." Some who do not give a promise lightly. But these are not the usual citizens of Peacock Allee, Fashionable. There, one's word is an old glove without a mate. And you know well how useless that is!

Behind one round forehead lurks an exciting bit of dream stuff unrealized, or attained; that, or an exciting bit of news, valuable. . . .and neither one or the other to be known by the world—yet. It burns there, and tingles, crying to be told to "somebody." It is so hard to be happy or dumbfounded over something, and never confide the reason to some listening ear and see it wiggle. . . . happy and dumbfounded, TOO! So the red lips belonging to a round forehead tell the secret to their dearest friend. She has vermillion lips—and shapes them into a promise never to "tell a soul!"

But the vermillion lips pick out another dearest friend who would never tell, and whose ears she can't resist treating to a thrill and a wiggle—and the secret is on its cross-country flight! From vermillion lips to raspberry. To orange-tinted; to American Beauty red. From there to brique; to geranium. To red-black Jacqueminot! from it to rose-pink. To nasturtium; cranberry. And Chinese red. Rosey lips sure 'nough. The secret runs the gamut of vari-colored lips, dyed in this lipstick-colored age.

Youth, and beauty, and la femme, are not the only ones who open the door and let "the little birdie who told me" out.

The dear old lady stirs her tea with a thin old silver spoon, and happily tells, in a half-whisper, the news that her son told her to "never tell to a soul." And the "soul" she tells it to in turn, sets it adrift as a child does a milk-weed seed to see it shine in the sun. And pretty soon everybody knows what the dear old lady's son didn't want anybody to!

The elderly gentleman, in all other ways as true as steel and honest as a basket of New England apples. . and you find them as good at the bottom as at the top, with not a worm-hole to put the snake in Eden. . . .will sit beside the fire while you sip your hot apple-jack with him, and tell you, secretly, "knowing you'll never tell that he told you," the very thing his friend said never, never, to tell you, " 'cause it might make you feel bad to know!" My! My!

Try not to "tell a soul!" Try to keep a promise to keep a secret, even if you don't return umbrellas. But if you can't; swear to tell only the secrets that are TRUE! Manage at least to bury, as Solomon did, the bad genii in a bottle, the untrue secret, the doubtful secret, at the bottom of your mind. And leave it there. Till it's as old-fashioned, as plaid balloon-sleeves, and nobody, yourself included, gives a care about it any more. —NELL BRINKLEY.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Demands Madge to Quit Working for Veritzen

DICKY'S unexpected question was to me like a shot fired into a fort after an armistice had been declared. I knew, of course, what he meant by asking me if there were no chance of changing my mind. He was hoping that I would rescind my decision to go to the city for the winter, and would throw up my work with Philip Veritzen.

Was this always to be the result of any softened mood on my part I asked myself wearily? I felt that I had not sensed before the implacable determination which was Dicky's to separate me from the work in which I was realizing for the first time the ambitious dreams which had been mine from childhood, and which for years I hardly had dared to name even to myself. Was there to be no ease for me except in keeping up the barrier of impersonal relations which had been my defense against him ever since the awful night of Grace Draper's suicide when his suspicion of me had come near to killing all emotion in me?

Yet, curiously enough, I realized with astonishment that something in the depths of my own soul had a queer fugitive sympathy with his question. It was as if a beleaguered fortress held an unsuspected traitor among its humbler defenders, one whose treachery could do little harm unless some unusual opportunity arose. With a sudden fear of what that defection in my own soul might mean, I steeled my determination and faced Dicky steadily.

"You mean," I said purposely misunderstanding him, "that you want me to change my mind about going into the city tomorrow? How can I now? Lillian and Harry are depending on both of us—"

Dicky ripped out an angry ejaculation which made the sleeping child in his arms stir uneasily. He waited until Junior had settled into sound slumber again before answering me.

"I don't mean anything of the sort, and you know it very well," he said. "Neither one of us can get out of staying in the city until this four-ring circus breaks up for the winter. But you can get out of the work which ties you down to punching a time clock for Philip Veritzen."

There was venom in the whispered tones that uttered the name of the famous theatrical producer who was my employer, and I knew that if Junior was to remain asleep, the colloquy must be cut short.

"If you will take Junior to his room, and come directly back here," I said evenly, "I will give you an answer to that request."

He looked at me steadily for a second, then turned without a word and carried Junior into the house. I sat down upon the fallen trunk of an old apple tree, indeed my knees would not support me standing, and steeled myself for the stormy interview which I knew was in front of me when Dicky came back.

For suddenly there had come to me the answer I must give to my husband. In one sense it would be a gamble. I must risk on it the career which I was making for myself. But my experience of him told me that I was "betting on a sure thing."

It was but a few minutes before I saw him striding toward me. Grimly I shook myself free of my tremors. Then I folded my hands in my lap, forced a little smile to my face and waited until he had come close to me before I spoke in purposely solicitious maternal tones.

"Did he waken?"

"What's that?" he asked, his train of thought evidently sidetracked for the moment by my query. Patently he had expected to plunge directly into the subject we had been discussing.

"Did Junior waken?" I repeated patiently.

"Oh! No. He's good for hours."

"Where did you put him?"

"In his room, of course. Where did—"

"Was Katherine there?"

"Naturally. It's supposed to be her job, isn't it, to be around when Junior's to be seen to? Sort of substitute mother, isn't she?"

His tone was a sneer, and the small traitor in my inmost thoughts turned loyal to me. But I ignored his thrust and put another question.

"Do you know whether or not your mother is awake? I must see her if she is."

Dicky looked at me steadily, then laughed sneeringly.

"It will save time, won't it for me to give you a roster of the household?" he asked. "Or have you thought better of your promise and decided to throw me off the track this way?"

Wedged Tumblers

When tumblers get wedged pour some very cold water into the inner glass and then stand the outer one in moderately hot water. The cold makes the inside one contract, while the hot water makes the outer one expand, and thus the two are easily separated. A good plan with glass is to wash it in very soapy water, thoroughly, then rinse well in cold; dry and brighten. Some people use a little paraffin instead of soap, but there is perhaps a danger of the strong taste remaining.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Ceremony of Wedding Ring

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I attended a wedding where the minister, after blessing the ring, put it on the bride's finger. Is that considered proper? I always thought the bridegroom put the ring on the bride's finger.

L. C.

THE wedding ring is an important—and anxiety compelling—care of the best man. At the appropriate time in the ceremony he hands it to the bridegroom. The groom does not hand it directly to the clergyman, but instead, hands it to the bride, who, in turn, gives it to the clergyman. In this way it symbolizes the idea that the clergyman receives the ring from them both and that it is given the blessing of the church. The clergyman completes the cycle of the progress of the ring by returning it to the groom, who, when the clergyman indicates, by words, "With this ring, I thee wed," puts it on the bride's finger.

Before this part of the ceremony the bride has, if she wears gloves, removed her left glove. She may have removed it in the vestibule (although this is rarely done, since it means another item to be kept in mind—and in hand) or she may remove it and hand it to her maid of honor before the ceremony, or she may have slit the third finger of her glove.

Gentleman Offers His Arm

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When a gentleman offers his arm to a lady does he ask her to take it, or does he ask her if she wants it?

What is good to say when offering the arm? INTERESTED.

HE should ask her to "take" his arm. He can say something like this: "Don't you think you had better take my arm? It is not very easy walking here." Or, "Won't you take my arm? I am afraid that you will trip."

Walking With Two Men

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please tell me the proper place for a girl to walk when she is with two men?

F. J.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

HELEN ROWLAND

"ONE comfort in being a golf-widow," remarked Mrs. Divot, glancing after the receding form of her husband, "is that you know that you're only second in a man's affections—not the forty-second. He's too tired at nights to wonder if he's missing something, or if he's bored, or if he ought to be having his 'fling.'

* * *

"Yes," agreed Mrs. Green, "if John ever recovers from his grande passion for golf, I shall begin to worry about him. A man has to have SOME outlet for his superfluous energy and emotions—and golf is safer than blondes or night-clubs.

"Nowadays, I've noticed, the average man expects to have a 'fling,' like the flu, at least once, annually. And there are chronic subjects to whom life is just one long, continuous fling.

"It used to be a popular conviction that a young man had to 'have his fling,' just as a child had to have the measles or the whooping cough, but that once he got OVER it, he was immune forever. If he could get it out of his system, along with his tonsils and his adenoids, the chances of the after-effects were greatly minimized.

* * *

A mild fling at 20 was supposed to last a man a lifetime. And when he showed any symptoms of a recurrent attack, he was reminded that he had 'HAD his fling.'

'But all that is over! Marrying a man with a dark brown past no longer assures you that he will have a lily-white future, or that you will be able to sleep peacefully nights, in the sweet confidence that your husband's habits are all 'set' and that his youthful ebullitions have boiled down and thoroughly jelled."

* * *

"That's funny," said Mrs. Divot. "Once a woman has had her quota of youthful adventures and romances, and has settled down to one man, she is usually contented to stay put."

* * *

"I'm not so sure," retorted Mrs. Green. "The 'fling' is no longer an exclusively masculine malady. Lots of middle-aged women appear to be going in for a gay Indian Summer these days. So afraid they may have missed something, you know!

"But the only thing sadder and funnier than the sight of a respectable 'husband-and-fatherly-looking' man with a bald spot, trying to play the coltish Lothario to a bored flapper is the vision of a plump, motherly-looking matron being arch and kittenish with a sleek-haired young gigolo."

"That's the tragedy of this day and age!" sighed Mrs. Divot. "Nobody is willing to grow middle-aged gracefully; everybody seems bent on growing old DISgracefully!"

"Yes," admitted Mrs. Green sadly, "a youthful fling is as natural as a baby's teething, but a fling at 40 or 50, like a belated case of measles, goes hard and makes you rather ridiculous! And it's SUCH a strain on the heart!"

Horoscopes

Sunday, November 17

SUNDAY'S horoscope may not be read as a favorable one for worldly activities or avocations unless these have scientific or metaphysical expression. There is hint of friction, tumult and disruption, especially affecting those in the employment of others. Be on guard against treachery.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year calling for all their wisdom and acumen, as forces of duplicity and disruption hold sway, especially for those in employment. Calmness is enjoined.

A child born on this day may have impetuous and adventurous traits making for its undoing unless curbed.

Monday, November 18

THE lunar conjunction with the major benefic, Jupiter, should make this day one of opportunity, promise, progress and fulfilment in all avenues of endeavor. All things should thrive and should be pushed to cherished goals, in both business and private ambitions.

Those whose birthday it is should prepare to push toward the goal of their highest ambitions, since under the auspicious astral rule all things should reach happy fruition.

A child born on this day may attain high place in life through its ambition and the benefics of good fortune.

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

Use Care in Choice of Things You Eat!

DR. COPELAND

IT is possible too much space is devoted to the ill effects of meat eating. It is unfair to charge against this one ingredient of the meal a majority of the ailments that may be traced to foods. As a matter of fact, accidental contamination is just as likely to occur by taking some article that comes from the vegetable world.

Do you ever speculate on what will become of the human race? Its most formidable foes are not the great animals of sea and forest. The elements are capable of sending flood and storm and quake, but all such evils are localized. They are never widespread in their terrifying effects.

As I view it, the tiny pests, the insects, bacteria and germs, the microscopic organisms, will determine the fate of the human family. The things we cannot see are our real, our deadly enemies.

On my farm in the country are the decaying stumps of a hundred chestnut trees. Twenty years ago they were giants in the forest, supplying bushels of edible nuts. Not one tree is alive today. They were killed by invisible organisms.

Man is the ready victim of many minute agents of disease. The things that serve him as food are susceptible to contamination and destruction by similar organisms.

Unless we are most watchful the foods that are common articles of diet may became the carriers of disease. We read every day about cases of "food poisoning." Why is it?

Some of the unfriendly organisms I have mentioned may find their way into the food we are to buy. The vast majority of food poisoning comes from contamination of this sort.

By taking such a food we get either the disease producing agents themselves or the poisons they have generated in the substance. In either case the manner in which the food is held has established its poisonous effects. The temperature has been maintained at a point where the incubation of the bacteria is inevitable.

It is not meat alone that can become harmful. Indeed, since we eat more of other things than we do meat it is more than likely that some other food is the one which may produce the trouble.

Every effort must be made to guard the food supply. The public officials will take care of it outside the home, but after it passes your threshold the responsibility is yours. Good health and long life depend on vigilance in this matter.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. B. R. Q.—What can be done for cracked, sore heels, callouses and corns on the feet? My feet pain.

A.—Bathing the feet in warm water to which a little alum has been added should be soothing. Change the shoes and stockings frequently. The callouses may be relieved by soaking the feet in warm water and soap and applying warm linseed oil, before going to bed. The next morning soak the feet again and scrap away the dead tissue.

M. E. H.. Q—What should a girl of five feet four inches weigh?

2.—What do you advise for whiteheads?

A.—Since you did not state your age I cannot advise you along these lines.

2.—Proper diet and regular eliminations should keep the complexion clear and healthy.

J. C. T. Q.—How can the overnight swelling of an upper lip be reduced?

A.—Remove the cause first of all—clear up any intestinal disturbance by watching the diet and keeping the bowels active.

C. R. Q.—What should a girl of 17, 5 feet five inches tall, weigh?

2.—What will reduce the legs?

A.—She should weigh about 125 pounds.

ALTERED ICE RULES GET LOCAL TEST

PITTSBURGH will get its first taste of revolutionized hockey tonight, when Benny Leonard's Pirates inaugurate their National League season of 1929-30 with the Montreal Maroons at Duquesne Garden, playing their initial game under the new rules and also under their new manager, Frankie Frederickson.

Benny Leonard.

In view of the fact that it will be the first time local fans have had a chance to witness an exhibition of the popular ice pastime in its changed state, a summary of the alterations made in the playing code since last winter may not be amiss.

Forward passing is now permitted in the attacking zone, and offside play has been eliminated. Therefore, players are allowed to skate ahead of the puck and take forward passes in the attacking zone, so that it is permissible for a team to station a man down near the enemy's net to take a long pass from the blue line.

HOWEVER, this floater will not be wholly free from restrictions. He must not interfere with the defense men, nor can he get in front of the net and obstruct the goalkeeper's view. He must play the rubber, or be penalized for roughness or interference. It is also illegal for an attacking player to interfere with a defending player when neither has possession of the puck.

This will prevent two attacking men from body-checking the two defense players and thus enabling a third attacking icer to skate in on the goalie. Neither can a defending player body-check an attacking man who does not have the disk in his possession. Goalkeepers are not permitted to catch and hold the puck. They must clear it immediately.

SHOULD the goaler hold the puck in his hands or arms, or fall on it to hold off an attacking player, a penalty-face-off will be ordered 10 feet in front of the net. All members of the defending team except the face-off man and the goalie must line up even with the goal line 10 feet on either side of the cage.

Only three players on a defending team are allowed to be in defense zone unless the puck or an attacking player is in that zone. Another player crossing the line to pack the defense will be given a minor penalty, but crossing the line while checking an attacking player will not be considered as packing the defense.

Frankie Frederickson.

TO ELIMINATE ragging the puck or stalling for time, only one trip behind the net is permitted, and if the player who has made the circle passes to a team-mate the latter cannot make another long sweep behind the cage unless the opposing side chases him there. If a player while carrying his stick above his shoulder injures an opponent, he receives a major penalty. Players can kick the puck in any zone at any time, but no goals can be scored by kicking it into the net. No player other than the goaler can touch the puck with his hands except when he bats it down either to protect himself or to get a chance to gain possession of it.

A TEAM may have as many players in uniform on the bench as it desires, but only 12 and the goaler are eligible to play in any game. A substitute cannot go to the penalty box with a penalized player and skate into the play as soon as the penalty has been served. The penalized player must skate from the penalty box to his team's bench before he can be replaced.

The new regulations promise a more open game, more action, more scoring, fewer scoreless ties and 1-to-0 results, less loafing or stalling for time, less whistle-blowing and the elimination of disputes over the legality of goals scored on questionable offside plays. The time consumed from the opening face-off to the final bell will be shortened, but the time cut off will be a gain rather than a loss to the spectators, as action will replace the former delays. The game will not be stopped every minute or two, and there will be more continuous action than ever.

However, the program is not without intersectional features. Howard Jones' Southern California team from the Far West meets Notre Dame, representing the Middle West, and Missouri opposes New York U.

Howard Jones.

THE Notre Dame-Southern California affair is the first test between the Mid-West and the Far West. The West as a whole had a shade on the East, nine games to eight, up to today. The former's record showed victories for California over Penn, for Illinois over the Army, for Notre Dame over Carnegie Tech and the Navy, for Chicago over Princeton, for Michigan over Harvard, for Wisconsin over Colgate, for Nebraska over Syracuse and for Detroit over West Virginia.

PITT and Colgate each contributed two of the East's eight wins over the West. The Panthers defeated Nebraska and Ohio State, while Colgate downed Indiana and Michigan state. In the four others Carnegie Tech walloped Washington University, the Army beat South Dakota, West Virginia toppled the Oklahoma Aggies, and New York U. trimmed Butler.

The South has made a sorry showing in intersectional competition, with the East and West, registering only one victory and one tie against seven defeats. The lone triumph was scored by Georgia over Yale, and the tie is credited to Southern Methodist against Nebraska. Georgia Tech lost to Notre Dame, Florida to Harvard, Georgia to New York U., Mississippi to Purdue, Vanderbilt to Minnesota, North Carolina State to Michigan State, and Loyola of New Orleans to Detroit.

WHEN the annual meeting of the A. A. U. opens in St. Louis tomorrow, this district, the Allegheny Mountain Association, will be represented by W. S. Haddock, president, and John T. Taylor, secretary and treasurer. They will leave tonight for the Mound City.

The most importat business will be the awarding of next year's big National championship meets. Whether there will be any chance for Pittsburgh to get the titular track and field games for The

Pitt, Carnegie Tech Harriers Compete

The cross-country teams of Pitt and Carnegie Tech wound up their seasons this morning when they met in a dual meet over the Schenley Park course. The varsity run is to be preceded by a race between the freshman teams of the two institutions.

Eddie Roche, of the Pittsburgh A. A., who placed second in the A. M. A. championships last week, is entered in the junior national A. A. U. race at Cincinnati this afternoon.

Rosenbloom Easily Defeats Braddock

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Maxie Rosenbloom, the clown in the light heivyweight cast, turned serious last night, took over the orthodox lines of a regular ring hero, and wiped Brawny Jimmy Braddock from his path to the vacant 175-pound title.

(NOTE—Two points for a win, one point for a tie.)

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Thousands of fans who like their action fast and rough will lend a hand in centering the local sports spotlight on Duquesne Garden at 8:30 this evening when Benny Leonard's revamped and rejuvenated Pirates, sporting a new pilot, new strength and new uniforms, open the National Hockey League's new campaign.

The Montreal Maroons, postgraduates in the school of legalized assault and battery, are here to help with the curtain raising, and they are more than eager to do their share. The invaders were beaten, 2-1, by the New York Rangers in their own lid-lifter, Thursday, and they do not fancy a two-straight-defeats start.

NEW PILOT SATISFIED

Frank Frederickson, veteran center who took up the reins laid down by Odie Cleghorn, has labored untiringly for the last month in an effort to replace worn parts and build the local club into a prospective winner. He has tested six minor leaguers regarded as ripe for the big show, he has acquainted his men with the new rules and perfected formations calculated to get the most out of the revised laws, and he has strictly enforced exceptionally severe training rules, the observance of which he deems necessary to top condition.

The new pilot of the Bucs is well satisfied with his work, and both he and Leonard are confident that the 1929-30 model Pirates will win the approval of local fandom and a place in the Stanley Cup play-offs.

Because he is to serve as player-manager, Pittsburgh success is absolutely essential to Frederickson's peace of mind. Instead of being able to seek the comparative seclusion of the players' box when things are not going right, Frank will be compelled to stand in the center of the arena and "take it" from the fans.

EAGER TO WIN

Jerry LaFlamme, once a great player and more recently a National League referee, is the new manager of the Maroons. Both he and Fredericksen are determined to make a good showing in their debuts as pilots in the major circuit, and both realize that the way to make a good showing is to win. There is not a chance that the play tonight will be other than torrid.

Of the six new men tested by the Pirates in the training grind, only three have succeeded in making the grade. They are Bud Jarvis, flashy left wing; Cliff Barton, sturdy right wing, and Archie Briden, who can play on the front line and at defense. Jarvis and Barton played together last season on the Port Arthur team that won the Canadian amateur championship, and Briden captained the Philadelphia Arrows in the 1928-29 campaign.

Because two of the Pirate mainstays are nursing injuries, the newcomers probably will see considerable action tonight. Harold Darragh, who has been starting at right wing for the last seven years, is suffering from a cracked rib. He expects to have his side taped up and start tonight, and Barton, Briden and Tex White will be on hand to relieve him should he falter.

Jerry Lowrey, spare left wing, is nursing a sprained ankle. Jarvis is primed to do his stuff should the injured member fail to hold up.

VISITORS WELL KNOWN

Frederickson and Herb Drury, centers, and Hib Milks, starting left wing, are in fine form, as are the defense quartet of Roger Smith, Johnny MacKinnon, Bert McCaffrey and Goalie Joe Miller. Indications are that MacKinnon and Smith will be the defense starters.

The players who will wear the Maroon uniforms here tonight need

TOMORROW—THE MAN TURNED CHINESE

DUKES DEFEAT WESTMINSTER BY 31-7 SCORE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

POWERFUL ATTACK

The exhibition offered by the Red and Blue flying squadron was most convincing. Westminster, schooled in the puzzling and intricate Steffen type of the pastime, flashed both strength and determination, but appeared totally unable to compete effectively with the power and spectacular dash of a Hill Top running attack that was well nigh irresistible in itself and boasted double dynamite, coupled as it was with constant threat of an aerial barrage. There were two excellent reasons for the existence of this state of affairs; first, the Bluff regulars were good enough to win without outside help, and second, such a procession of accomplished Hill substitutes kept pouring from the bench that the visitors, less amply endowed with reserve material, were worn down and further overwhelmed by sheer force of hostile numbers.

44 PLAYERS USED

Forty-four players—exactly four elevens—were employed by Layden in the course of the skirmish, every members of the Duke squad, save McNerny, who is on the sick list, seeing action. Whole teams, half at the start of the game with the Cornhuskers at Lincoln, Pitt has been in complete control of the situation at all times in its games. The power of the Gold and Blue attack has piled up a point total of 223. Rival elevens have punctured Pitt defenses for exactly 200 points less.

Carnegie's victims have been Bethany, Thiel, Western Reserve and Washington University. The scrappy Presidents of W. and J. held the Tartans to a scoreless deadlock, while Knute Rockne's Notre Dame Ramblers turned in a 7-0 triumph at the expense of the local Scotchmen.

Pitt's greatest strength is said to repose in a powerful offensive forward wall and a hard running and well balanced backfield, led by the line cracking Tom Parkinson and the elusive speedboy Uansa.

The Skibos have a heavy and hard fighting line, considered to be better on the defense than when in possession of the ball and, sparked at its core by Capt. Johnny Dreshar, a stellar guard. The backfield, which has not as yet found itself, consists of the bone crushing Karcis at fullback; a hefty, dependable halfback in Thayer Flanagan; speedy Dutch Eyth and Harry McCurdy, sophmore quarterback, attempting to fill the shoes of as sterling a star as Howard Harpster.

SAME LINEUPS

Unless Josh Williams, Pitt's southpaw halfback, is unable to play today, the Panthers will lineup against Tech as they have in all their major assignments so far. Joe Donchess, all-America end, and Paul Collins, will be at the terminals. Charley Tully and Jim MacMurdo, powerful tackle pair, will fill those positions. Capt. DiMeolo and Ray Montgomery, considered one of the best guards in the East, will play on either side of Ralph Daugherty, the sophmore center star.

In the backfield, Eddie Baker will be at quarter, with Parkinson at full. Uansa is a fixture at left half, and Williams at right, provided his trick knee is o. k. Otherwise, Bill Walinchus or Jim Rooney will get the call at Josh's position.

Parkinson will do the kicking as long as Rooney is not in the lineup, but when the elongated North Side Irishman is in the milling, he'll be depended upon for the punting work. Parkinson, Baker and Uansa can, and do, pass.

No definite word has been given out regarding the starting appearance of the Skibo line, but the chances are that it will line up about as follows:

Rosenzweig and Pete Flanagan, ends; Highberger and Bob Schmidt, tackles; Captain Dreshar and Fletcher, guards and Ducanis, center. Last minute shifts may find Andy Yerina at Fletcher's position at guard and Len Schnupp in at tackle in the stead of Schmidt, with the latter finding another job on the line, likely at one of the guards.

McCURDY TO START

McCurdy is almost certain to start at quarterback, flanked by Flanagan and Eyth at the halves and with Johnny Karcis at full. Kerr, Carlson, Kennedy and Armentrout are others who may be used at halfbacks. Morbito will be Karcis' alternate at full and Eyth McCurdy's at quarter. McCurdy will be called on for the kicking and most of the passing.

I have been told that no Carnegie Tech football squad was ever keyed to the pitch this one is to-

SOUTH HILLS VICTOR OVER LANGLEY

Schenley High School captured the topnotch honors in Section I of the City League yesterday when it set down the champion Westinghouse eleven, by a 12-to-0 score on the Bellefielders' home gridiron.

It was a final half rally on the part of the victors that vanquished the Silver Lakers. Jack Powell, Mihm and Douglass were the stars.

Jones scored a pair of touchdowns as South Hills High walloped Langley by a 13-6 score. He crossed the goal line for touchdowns in the second and fourth periods.

Oliver High nosed out Allegheny High, 7 to 6, in their battle in Section II. Rankin came through to upset East Washington by 13 to 6; Dormont set down Ben Avon, 13 to 7; Carnegie shut out Stowe Township, 6 to 0, while Aspinwall tripped Coraopolis, 14 to 2.

DUKES DEFEAT WESTMINSTER

teams and individual reinforcements kept racing into the combat in such profusion that the crowd was dizzy trying to figure who was who and even the eagle-eyed lads who called the plays in the press box were frequently at a loss as to the local personnel of the moment. What wonder that Westminster was a bit groggy at the wind-up!

Duquesne wasted no time in stepping off to a lead that was not to be relinquished. Lou Skender, veteran Bluffit left tackle, gathered in the inaugural kick-off to plough nine yards forward from his own 30 mark and to initiate a parade that was to terminate in the opening touchdown. Kass Kovalcheck and Ganzy Benedict collaborated in three line plays that netted first down precisely in mid-field. Benedict followed up with eight on a delayed thrust at left tackle and "Bootin' Buff" Donnelli cracked the opposite side for three and first down on the Westminster 39.

PASS BRINGS GAIN

Two thumps by Kovalcheck and Donnelli netted but three yards, whereupon Buff took to the air and arched a pass over right wing to the agile Devinney for eight yards and first down on the Blue and White 28. Devinney slipped out of bounds on the right with a yard's deficit, but Donnelli worked the delayed slash to the short side of the line for eight at right guard, and Kovalcheck smashed center for six and first down 15 yards shy of the goal.

Westminster took time out. Donnelli skirted left terminal for four and Benedict, on the delayed buck, eked a yard at left guard. Donnelli added two at midline, at which juncture the redoubtable Kovalcheck saved a tough fourth-down situation by knifing center for four and first down on the four-yard line. The rest was comparatively simple. Benedict hurtled off right tackle to within a foot of the tally and Kovalcheck pulled a swan dive over the writhing line for the six-pointer. Donnelli's placement for the extra marker was askew to the right, but Steel City adherents cared not, for it was obvious then and there that unless a miracle intervened, Hill victory loomed in the immediate offing.

The second Bluff touchdown likewise topped off a protracted march, the excursion commencing in period one and continuing well into stanza two. Bud Devinney was the hero of this divertissement, the diminutive quarterback snaring a high Haldy punt on the Duke four-yard parallel, dodging two enemy tacklers despite the uncertain footing to be had on the soggy turf, reversing his field, and streaking away up the left for a jaunt of 58 yards to the Westminster 38, where he was overhauled and nailed by Haldy and Cleland.

DUKES LOSE BALL

Four line plays left the Dukes a yard short of the first-down distance, and Westminster took the oval on her own 29 as frame two got under way. But Bob Deacle, sturdy upstate fullback, fumbled, and "Red" Murphy, rangy Duke terminal, recovered on the Lawrence Countians' 34.

Donnelli celebrated tht entrance of the newcomers by crashing right guard for four and first down on the 12-strip. Benedict bored left guard for seven and Donnelli repeated at the same spot for two. Benedict, whose pigskin-bearing was as remarkable a feature of the contest as was his tossing, thereupon whirled off right tackle for three yards and the touchdown. Donnelli's placement attempt was blocked resoundingly by the behemothic form of Gerry Sweet, and for the remainder of the half the Duke spares were given opportunity to flash their wares, which they did, though without effect upon the score.

CHACKO SCORES

"Red" Sullivan, former Westinghouse High star and all-scholastic quarterback, set the scene for the third Laydenite marker. A Haldy punt descended in the Homewood lad's paws on the Westminster 48 as canto three waned and the sorrel-topped one sped 23 yards to the 25 parallel where Campbell rode him to earth. Cristina and Chacko were halted suddenly, violently, and fruitlessly on successive line tries. Then, with the Blue and White defense drawn close, Cristina swiped the apple, drew back with consummate coolness, and threw high and a trifle to starboard to Chacko, who, unmolested, bagged the spheroid a yard from the goal and eased across for the touchdown. Sullivan made good his placement for the extra clicker, Trambley planting the ball. It was the lone successful after-touchdown stunt of the fracas for the Dukes.

Scarcely had the roar over the Cristina-to-Chacko sketch died away when once more Bluffite shrieks split the chilly ozone. Westminster had received the kick-off, Campbell carrying 22 yards from the Lawrence County 10 to the 32. Johnny Hall picked up three at left guard. Here Harry Michaels, clever Turtle Creek product, elected to propel a lengthy pass over port wing in the general direction of Brownlee. The pigskin was wide of its objective, but not too wide for Val Trambley, far-ranging Hill fullback reserve from Erie East High. In a flash, the lake port boy had speared the oval in full flight and was away up the right from the Westminster 47 as rival huskies strove in vain to pierce the cordon of interference that seemed to leap from nowhere to escort him over the line for the sudden touchdown. Sullivan's placement boasted direction, but lacked elevation and looped beneath the cross-bar.

MANY SUBSTITUTIONS

Substitutions rained thick and fast as the final quarter got well under way. Westminster was beginning to hold nicely on the defense and appeared correspondingly to perk up upon the assault. Ten minutes or more had ticked by without special incident when of a sudden various visitors blasted through to smack Pawlina, Hill fullback for the nonce, on the Duquesne 34 for an eight yard loss on an attempted pass. Rose dropped back to punt, but Joe Dombrowski, giant tackle, was in upon his boot to smother the kick and recover for Westminster upon the Hill 24.

A prettily executed triple pass, Haldy to Deacle to Michaels, was worth seven around left flank. Deacle slid out on the left without advance. Campbell pried off two at center. On a quick spinner, Deacle was loose through midline for 12 and first down on the three-yard mark. At this point, Layden figured the situation to be too serious for the incumbent outfit to handle and re-injected his top-flight combine which had languished on the sidelines since early in session two. But the move came too late to avert the touchdown for which the Blue and White had striven so earnestly. Twice projecting himself into the heart of the mighty Hill Top forward defense, he gleaned the requisite yardage amid applause from both friend and foe. A bullet pass, Haldy to Michaels, negotiated the seventh point as the ex-Union High luminary seized the pellet in the end zone beyond right wing.

STAGE LONG DRIVE

And then and there the Dukes flashed indication of the potentialities that lurk in their onslaught. Stung by the turn of events that had allowed a beaten enemy to inflict disconcerting wounds, the Hillmen received the kickoff, Kovalcheck juggling a low catch, but clinging to the oval from his own 10 strip for 24 yards to the 34. Dazzling Doggo Burns, staging his first appearance of the night, fumbled on a quick getaway, but gargantuan Ray Kemp retrieved for the Dukes on their own 35.

A lineup, and in a trice Donnelli had crashed free at left tackle, reversed the field, and whirled away for 30 yards and first down on the Westminster 35. Burns polished off the performance on the ensuing face-off. Streaking wildly toward left end, the fleet North Sider cut neatly near the sideline, shook off or out-ran half a dozen frantic opponents, and tight-roped sensationally the 35 yards that lay between him and the goal. That was Doggo's contribution to the entertainment and, having made it, he was withdrawn lest injury befall him and keep him from the all-important Haskell joust a week hence. Donnelli's placement for the point rebounded from the left upright, and the tussles reached conclusion a moment later with Westminster hurling passes desperately and Duquesne seeking valiantly to intercept.

The real feature of the evening was the serene power manifested by a Duke array that has copped seven and tied one in nine starts. The issue of the skirmish was never in slightest doubt, the Pittsburghers commanding the battlements on both attack and defense throughout the entire engagement, save for a short interval in the concluding frame. But Westminster filed from the gridiron by no means devoid of glory. Fighting through without hope of relief, the Blue and White first-string array acquitted itself right gallantly. Capt Russell Boone proved a real defensive hero, while Michaels, Haldy, Deacle and Dombreski also merited laurels aplenty.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Bellefonte Academy put up a championship brand of football at Ohio Field yes- York University Freshmen, 7-0. The game was hard-fought throughout, but the Pennsylvania boys held the edge all through the game. Matesick's long run in the first quarter, followed by Temple's line plunge, caused the score. Harding kicked the goal.

The passing of Bellefonte threw two big scares into the New York University Freshmen in the second quarter. The lineup:

Bellefont Acad.		N. Y. U. Fresh.
Harding	L.E.	Walker
Meredith	L.T.	Vavra
Harnich	L.G.	Bethill
Joynt	C.	M. McNamara
Sullivan	R.G.	Pomeray
Marchi	R.T.	Learned
Stevens	R.E.	Hugret
Temple	L.H.	Tanguay
Matesick	R.H.	McDonald
Abee	Q.	Ryan
Dyson	F.	J. Lamark

Score by periods:

Bellefont Academy	7	0	0	0—7

Substitutions: N. Y. U. Freshmen — Klatz, Lynch, Diamond, Sabloff, Schiff, McDonald, Cervone, Fuchs, Purdy, R. McDonald. Bellefonte Academy — Zanarini, Zaremba, Martak, Heydrick, Dreshu, Hundertmark, Mensch. Touchdowns—Temple. Goal—Harding. Referee—Bowman. Umpire—Smith. Head linesman—Walsh. Time of quarters—11 minutes.

Long's Sport Comment

Stadium will depend upon developments. The prospect does not look very encouraging on the surface, but with Los Angeles and Cleveland out of the bidding, there may be a possibility of the meet's coming to this part of the country unless Lincoln makes a determined effort to land it. There is a fair chance that the Homestead L. A. C. will get the women's outdoor swimming championships for the Kennywood Park pool.

Ira Flagstead.

MANAGER JEWEL ENS, of the Pittsburgh baseball club, did not come here today to see the Panther-Skibo football game, as he originally planned. In a letter from St. Louis to Pirate headquarters he said he had changed his mind about making a trip to Pittsburgh at this time and would defer his proposed conference with the other club officials in connection with a Cardinal trade and some other matters. On the subject of signing another coach in addition to Oscar Stanage, Manager Ens says that there is only one man whom he fancies for the post, and that if this man cannot be landed he will stick to his first plan and depend upon Ira Flagstead for coaching duty at first base.

IN ANNOUNCING receipt of Ens' letter, Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss also made it known that the Pirates have a theological student on their roster. He is Martin Lang, left-hand pitcher, purchased from Omaha in the Western League.

Lang, who hurled for Wichita last season, has been studying for the ministry for two years at Concordia College, the same institution at which Max Carey was a student before he took up professional baseball in 1909.

ANOTHER big turnout of 12,000 fans to see the Duquesne-Westminster game at Forbes Field last night again attested the popularity of night football here.

An even larger crowd is likely to be in attendance if the Duquesne-Waynesburg game scheduled for Thanksgiving Day is moved forward to the preceding night, as probably will be done, and there is every prospect that the moonlight sport will be a fixture here by the time another season arrives.

THOUGH victory had been anticipated, the Dukes' 31-to-7 win over Westminster last night was none the less a source of satisfaction to their followers. Elmer Layden probably set a new local record by using so many as 44 players in one game, sending in every man on his squad except Guard McNerny, who was not in uniform owing to illness. The Bluff coach showed the strength of his reserves, gave them some schooling and at the same time nursed his regulars for the hard games to come with Haskell and Waynesburg. The Dukes are still undefeated for the season, with seven victories and a tie with West Virginia to their credit. In their eight games they have scored 135 points against 46 for their opponents.

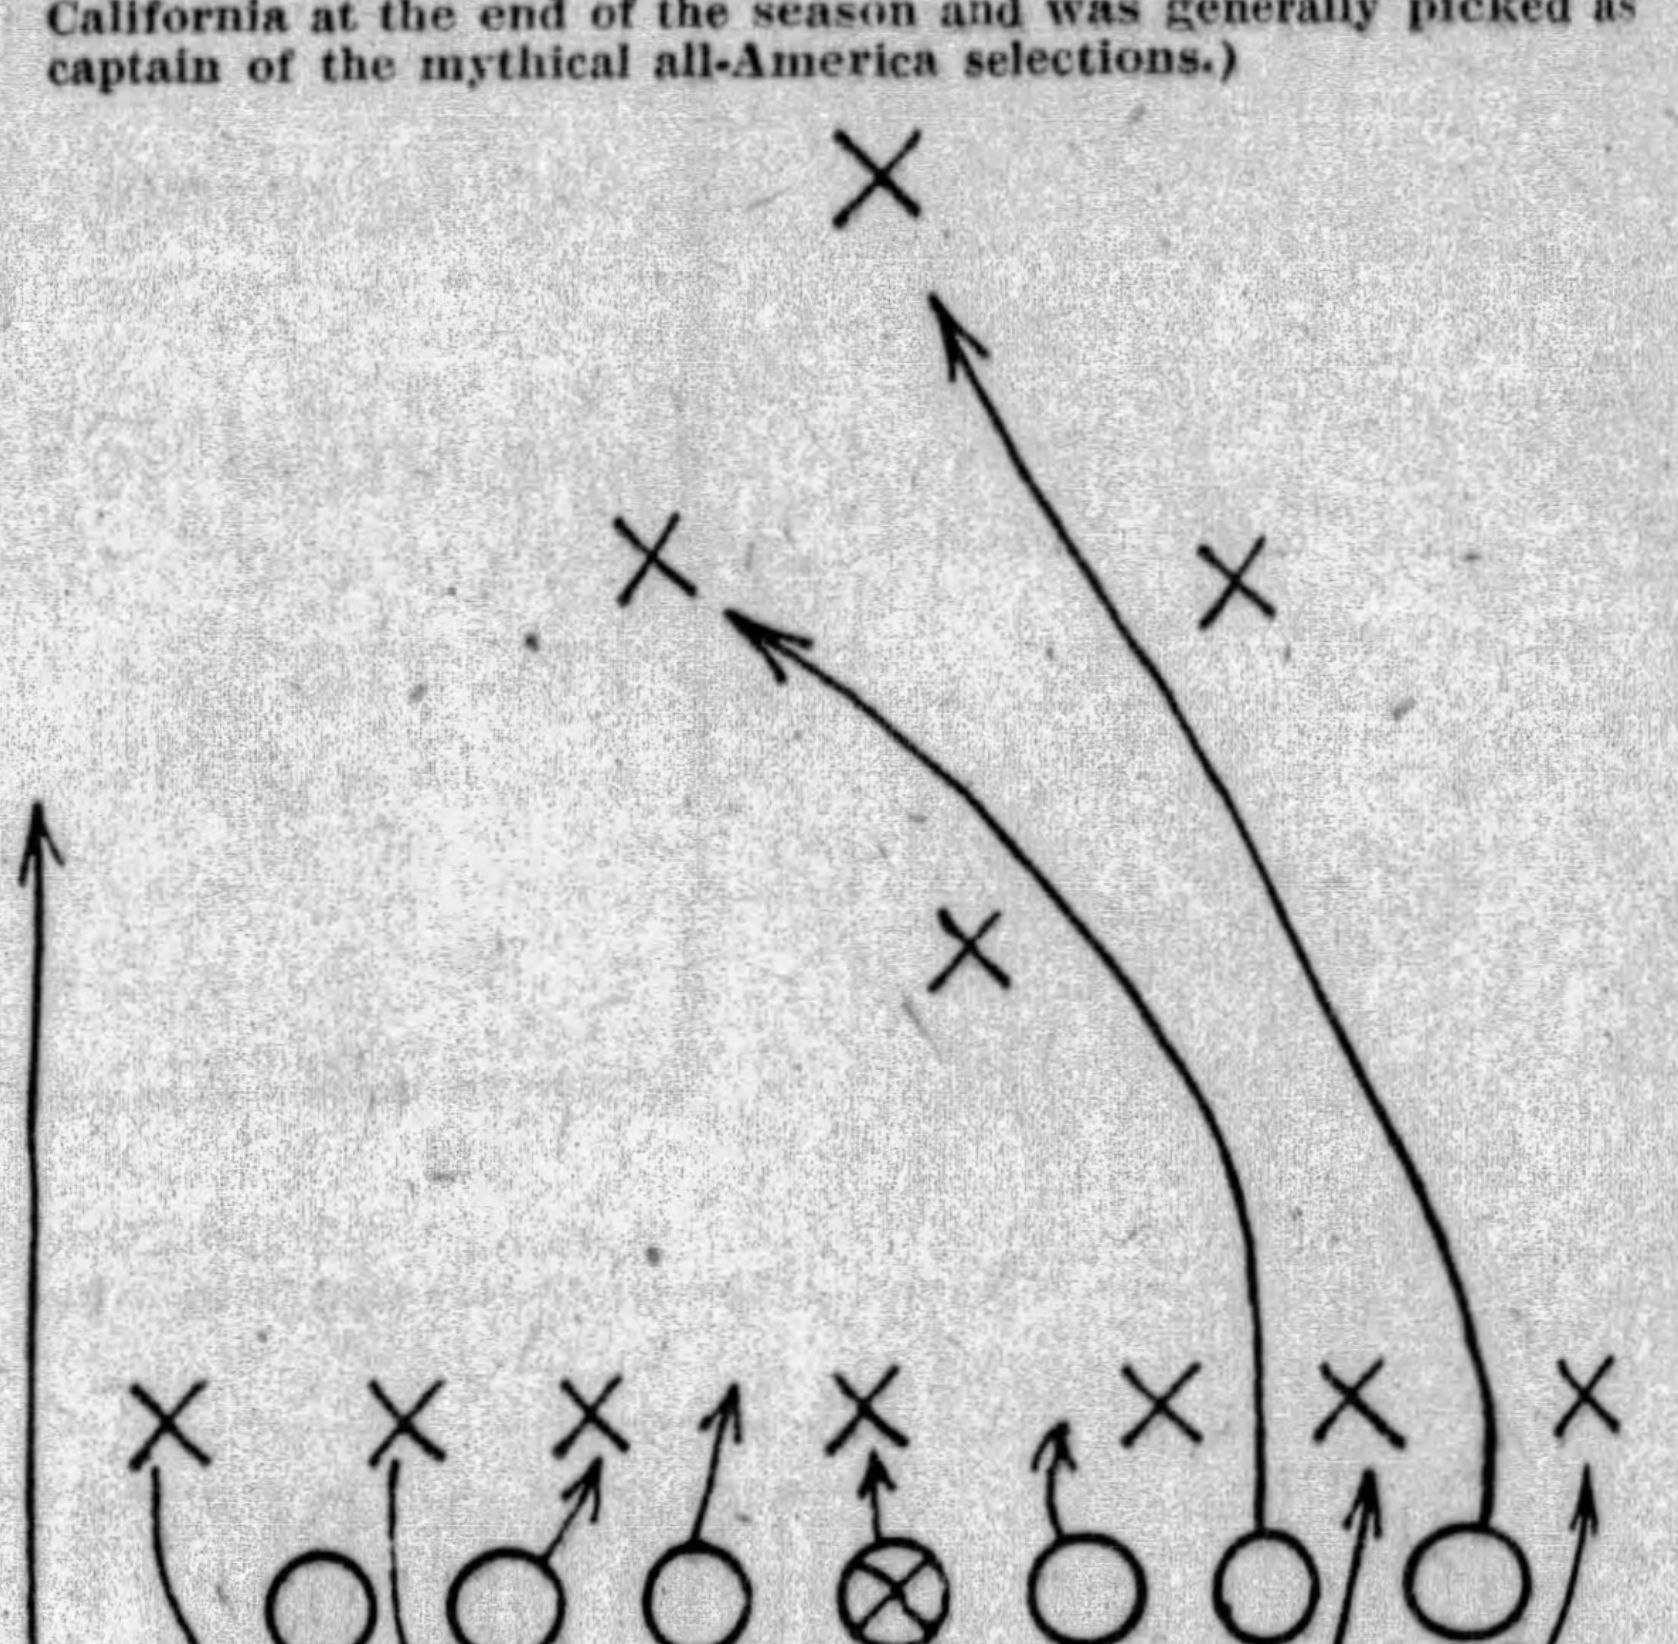
Football Strategy

By Howard Harpster

All-America Quarterback, 1928
Now Coach at Shady Side Academy

(Note.—Harpster, as the quarterback of the Carnegie Tech eleven last fall, gained national recognition as one of the most brilliant leaders of all time in the football realm. Experts hailed him as "the player with the mind of a coach." He captained the All-East team that defeated the All-West team in California at the end of the season and was generally picked as captain of the mythical all-America selections.)



NO. 21—MICHIGAN'S FAMOUS 83 PLAY

THIS is the famous University of Michigan 83 play, which has been the talk of football fans for many years. The quarterback takes the ball from center and pivots around, faking to give it to the end coming around. The defensive tackle and end invariably follow the end around, and, after they are sufficiently far in, the quarterback turns and throws a lateral pass over their heads to the back man. In order to assure the success of the play, the three center men must hold and protect the quarterback. Right end and right tackle go down the field to take care of the secondary defense.

Allegheny Sport Chiefs Asked To Resign

MEADVILLE, Pa., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Students of Allegheny College at a mass meeting yesterday adopted a resolution demanding the resignation of the members of the school's athletic board of control, which they blame for the poor showing of the football team this season. Speakers at the session and the resolution expressed confidence in the players.

The Allegheny football team has not won a game this season, but has engaged in two ties. The 40-7 victory of Grove City over the Methodists last Saturday brought the matter to a head, and since that time there has been agitation among the students. The Campus, college journal, also has taken a part in the expression of dissatisfaction with the board of control.

American Cage League Lid Off

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The American Professional Basketball League opens its 1929-30 season tonight with a clash between the New York Celtics and the Rochester Centrals at Madison Square Garden. Tomorrow night Rochester will play Brooklyn at Prospect Hall, Brooklyn, and Paterson will meet New York at the Jamaica Arena.

The league personnel is unchanged from last year with the exception that Trenton's franchise has been transferred to Syracuse.

GAME ON AIR

Station KDKA will be in a nation-wide hookup today for the Notre Dame-Southern California game in Chicago. Graham McNamee will be at the microphone.

A. M. A. DELEGATES LEAVE

Vince Dundee Wins From My Sullivan

CHICAGO, Nov. 16. — (AP.) — Vince Dundee, Baltimore welterweight, checked the sensational winning streak of My Sullivan, St. Paul contender last night by defeating him in their 10-round battle.

In another 10-round bout, Bud Taylor, the Terre Haute terrier, defeated Santiago Zorilla, the San Blas Indian.

Martin Is Victor Over Fay Kosky

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Andy Martin, Boston featherweight, evened his score with Fay Kosky, of Chicago, by giving the visitor a decisive 10-round beating here last night. Martin was the aggressor throughout and had a commanding lead at the final bell. Kosky weighed 130 and Martin 127.

no introduction, for the Montreal starting lineup is the same as last season. Big Nels Stewart, at center, has won more hoots and catcalls than any other skater ever to appear here, and Babe Siebert and Hooley Smith, who flank him, need no introduction as wings. Benedict, in the nets, looks upon Red Dutton and George Boucher, defense men who know how to hand out a neat bruise. Last season Dutton spent more time in the penalty box than any other player in the league, and if he has reformed it is not generally known.

The Pirates lost 2, won 1 and tied 1 in four games with Montreal last season. In three of the four games the scoring was heavy, and with the new forward-passing-in-all-zones rule in effect, the goalies are certain to be busy tonight.

Benny Leonard, owner of the Pirates, is here to participate in the opening-game ceremonies, and a capacity crowd is expected to attend. The probable lineup:

PIRATES.		MAROONS.
Miller	G.	Benedict
MacKinnon	R.D.	Dutton
R. Smith	L.D.	G. Boucher
Frederickson	C.	Stewart
Darragh	R.W.	H. Smith
Milks	L.W.	Siebert

BIG SOCCER CARD TODAY

TODAY'S GAMES

West Penn Cup

Crucible Steel at National Tube (Hulet.)

Gallatin at Pierpoint Motors (O'Conner.)

District League.

Celtics at Crafton (Corns.)

Union Switch at Pittsburgh Rovers (Brannigan.)

Lewis S. C. at Clan Douglas (Simpson.)

Headed by two West Penn cup tie replays and three district league games, soccer fans in the district will have quite a few well balanced games to become enthused over for their afternoon's sport.

Naturally, the cup ties will hold the crowds, and officials of the Pierpoint club are looking for a record crowd at Homewood playgrounds when Gallatin comes on the field.

Gallatin is a typical cup tie team. It excels in this type of soccer where pattern weaving does not cut any ice, and the only thing that counts is getting goals.

McKeesport soccer fans will have a new attraction this afternoon when the Midland club shows its stuff in this district for the first time. At Swissvale, Clan Douglas will start its drive for the District League title, and seeing that it has passed from the West Penn Cup, the league can have its undivided attention. The defeat of Douglas last Saturday at the hands of the Pittsburgh Celtics shows just how soccer games can go. Maybe the Douglas team took the opposition too lightly, and when the Celtics got going they were never headed.

The Union Switch and Signal team, hoping to catch up with Douglas, will invade the Lawrenceville section, meeting the Rovers. Seeing that the Rovers have been unable to get into a winning stride the Switch boys should not have any trouble winning. The Rovers, with plenty of real talent on the club, is one of the season's surprises and it should win games.

SHADY SIDE FETE TONGHT

CHAMP WINS

BELMONT HANDS REED BAD BEATING

BY HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Raw courage stalked the ring at the Moose Temple last night as three beaten gladiators stuck to their guns in face of bad lacings to hear the final clang of the gong. A small-sized crowd turned out for the affair, but it included Benny Leonard, retired lightweight champion; Hans Roberts, the German star, who was getting a line on Jimmy Belmont in the main bout, and a number of other fistic notables.

Gene Reed, of Charleroi, gave a gritty exhibition in sticking it out for 10 rounds against Belmont. Weighing only 141¼ pounds against Belmont's 146½, and lacking a punch while his opponent hit with trip-hammer force, Reed never backed up, but kept walking like a soldier into the glove-fire. In fact, he forced the fighting most of the way, but had nothing with which to hurt Belmont and the latter was able to maneuver as he pleased and pick his spots for booming lefts and rights.

REED BADLY CUT UP

At the finish the gore from Reed's badly gashed mouth was all over his face, his opponent and the ring. Besides, his nose was bleeding and one of his eyes was damaged, while he also was bleeding from one ear. Belmont was unmarked.

The first round was about even, with both warming up, and Reed forced his way to a shade in the sixth. All the others belonged to Belmont by large or small margins.

Johnny Brown, of Lawrenceville, 149¼, subbing on short notice for Tommy Ward, of the South Side, against Georgie Bretsch, of the North Side, 148, in the second bout, survived three knockdowns for counts of nine and one for three to finish on his feet. He was outclassed in height, reach and hitting power, but put up a game losing fight.

Al Alfano, of McKees Rocks, 126¼, making his first appearance in a professional ring, was the other boxer to make a heroic stand. Boxing Paul Balint, of the North Side, 123¾, in the opening bout, he withstood a terrific beating in every round to ward off a knockout.

RODGERS STOPS MAZZEO

The best bout of the card the semi-final, was short and sensational, with Jackie Rodgers, local Negro bantamweight, who last week knocked out Carl Cavelli, of Canton, O., in the third round in the same ring, adding Pete Mazzeo, of Cleveland, Olympic star, to his list in the same session. Mazzeo outboxed Jackie in the first round, but Jackie began winging away with both fists in the second round and scored knockdowns for counts of four and nine, Mazzeo just getting up in time on the second flooring.

In the third round, Rodgers forced his man into a neutral corner and planted a hard right into the pit of the stomach. Mazzeo gasped, turned around and fell face downward, holding the stricken spot. As the referee completed the count, Mazzeo's manager entered a claim of foul, which was disallowed. The finishing punch was plainly above the belt line, although previously, even as early as the first round, Rodgers had been guilty of belting the visitor low. Mazzeo did not protest these punches and it was assumed he was not hurt by them.

Al Grayber refereed all bouts The judges were Frank (Bull) Brown and Jim McLaughlin and the announcer was Ray Eberle.

RESIN DUST

Young Jack Thompson and Billy White wind up their training today for their 10-round bout in the Motor Square ring Monday night. Both have been here since last Monday and many of the fans have watched them go through their gym paces.

Young Angelo, of Swissvale, and Tony Leone, of Dover, O., have been matched to box the semi-final to the Al Wolgast-Young Rudy bout at McKeesport next Thursday night.

Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, will meet Jack Schoendort, of Jamestown, N. Y., in the semi-final to a battle between Harry Fuller and Jack McKenna at Oil City next Monday night a week.

Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, has had his injured eye examined and reconsidered his decision to retire from the ring on account of it. He has gone back into training and will be ready soon, boxing as a 140-142-pounder.

Farmer Joe Cooper, who was awarded the decision over Buck McTierman here last Monday night, boxes Tommy Freeman in Cleveland next Tuesday night.

PITT PRIMED FOR TECH

day. If that is true, Pitt had better look sharp. ...not that the Panthers won't any way, but they are up against a potentially good football team today, easily their most difficult assignment of the year.

West Virginia and Washington and Jefferson, the other members of the Big Four, are also in action this afternoon; the Presidents in their own ballwick against Wittenberg and the Mountaineers in Washington D. C., against Georgetown.

Geneva, finding the 1929 road long and rough, will also strive to uphold the honor of the district in the East, meeting Boston University at Boston. Thiel is the fourth section team to play along the seaboard, the Lutherans tackling Fordham in New York.

Waynesburg, riding along at a furious pace, with consecutive triumphs over Grove City, Bethany and Geneva to its credit, tackles Allegheny at Meadville. Bethany moves on West Virginia Wesleyan at Buckhannon and Grove City plays Marshall College of West Virginia at Huntington.

St. Francis and the Fairmont Teachers swing into action at Cresson, Pa., and St. Vincents meets the Indiana Teachers at Latrobe.

FOUR AFTER BUC BERTH

SANKEY MAY GET CALL AT SHORTSTOP

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Manager Jewel Ens of the Pirates plans to open the next spring training season with four boy candidates for the important shortstop position. Ens is quite confident that one of the four will be able to fill the bill, and there is a chance that in solving the Wagnerian role he may work out the answer to the second base job.

The four shortfield nominees are Dick Bartell, Stuart Clarke, Charley Engle and Ben Sankey. The last-named, the most obscure of the four, stands well to steal the role, provided he can hit major league pitching.

STRANGER TO FANS

Sankey and Engle are strangers to Pirate fans, although the former spent a few days with the Pirates this year, he playing shortstop against the Cubs in Chicago in the season's finale, as Larry French turned back the National League champions. Engle will not report until next spring.

Only 22, Sankey already has the finesse that makes him stand out. He picks up bad bounders like a master and he displays a good arm in his accurate throws to first. He starred for the Selma, Ala., club of the Southeastern League during the past season. The circuit comes under the Class B rating.

Charlie Engle has had more experience than Sankey, he having enjoyed a good season with Memphis, of the Southern Association before being purchased by the Pittsburgh club. Both Sankey and Engle bat righthanded.

DOUBLE PLAYS MISS FIRE

Pirate fans already have more or less definite opinions regarding Bartell and Clarke. Some followers of the club think that either Dick or Stewie would be able to hold up his end well if a veteran were stationed at one of the posts. The failure of this pair to get together on double-play attempts has led many to believe an infielder of more experience is needed in one of the mid-field spots.

Bartell has proved that he can play short or second in a major-league manner, and he is a hustler. On offense he is only fair, yet good enough to hold up his end, it would appear.

Clarke has won many admirers by his shortfield play; yet this popular recruit appears to be even more effective at third base, a position he has played only rarely. Donie Bush found it almost necessary to put Clarke on third base on top of Pie Traynor's injuries, and the rookie astonished his mates by his sterling play. And his bat seemed to be more effective when he tended the hot corner.

ENS IS HOPEFUL

Clarke's chance of performing at third, however, are remote, with the Pirates having the best in the game for that spot. Unfortunately, Pie Traynor's bad hip bothered him when he essayed the shortfield role last spring. In any previous attempt Pie could have held the job down; in fact there are those who think Traynor would have been another Wagner at the difficult spot on the first defense.

Naturally Ens faces the situation in a doubtful, yet optimistic frame of mind. Jewel and his bosses are working on a deal or two with a view of strengthening the infield.

One player who seems to be quite eagerly sought is Mickey Finn, second baseman of the Mission club of the Pacific Coast League. Finn had a fine season and perhaps is wanted by other teams. Scout Joe Devine of the Coast League division thinks that Mickey is one of the few players in that league who are ready to advance.

Mozdy Gets Verdict Over Hap Atherton

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Leo Mozdy, Erie, won a referee's decision here last night after 10 rounds with Happy Atherton, Indianapolis. The verdict was unpopular with the fans.

Johnny Dunn, New Kensington, outpointed Johnny Willis, Erie, in six rounds. Young Hardtack, Erie, and Frank Borjorski, Erie, fought a six-round draw. Carl Scaline, Erie, and Joe Boler, Erie, drew in four rounds.

Fight Results

At New York—Maxie Rosenbloom defeated Jimmy Braddock, 10 rounds; Don Volante and Harry Carlton drew, 10 rounds; Dominick Petrone and Young Zazzarino drew, 10 rounds.

At Erie, Pa.—Leo Mozdy defeated Happy Atherton, 10 rounds; Johnny Dunn defeated Johnny Willis, 6 rounds; Young Hardtack and Frank Borjorski drew, 6 rounds; Carl Scaline and Joe Boler drew, 4 rounds.

At St. Joseph, Mo.—Al Kline and Joe Trabon drew, 10 rounds.

At Detroit—Charley Belanger defeated Leo Lomski, 10 rounds; Joe Calderin defeated Red Allen, 4 rounds; Johnny Roberts defeated Jimmy Moore, 6 rounds; Tony Falcrico defeated Gene Stantob, 6 rounds; Tommy Cello and Joey Goodman, no contest, 7 rounds.

Gridders Hurt In Bus Crash In South

BELZONI, Miss., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Four members of the Sunflowers College football team were seriously injured and 14 others scratched and bruised yesterday when a bus overturned near here. The team was on the way to Wesson for a game today.

Ellis Alias, of Yazoo City; Floyd Methvin, James Sides and Otto Graham were the four students of the junior college, located at Moorhead, seriously injured. Alias received a broken collar bone, Methvin a severe gash over one eye and cheek, Sides a crushed leg and Graham severe cuts about the nose and mouth.

The bus was driven by Vance Crook, member of the team, who was only bruised when the machine crashed into a ditch after developing steering trouble. Others injured: Coach Martin, bruises; Oddie Aust, head injuries; Harry Lee, bruises; J. H. Arnold, knee bruises; Herman Major, hand bruises; Jess Russell, leg bruises.

CALIFORNIA VICTOR

CALIFORNIA, Pa., Nov. 16.—With the field laden with a cluster of mud, the strong California Teachers' College closed their football season with a 53-to-0 victory over the Johnstown Junior College before a crowd of 1,800 fans. The visitors were outclassed throughout the game and were unable to get within the locals' 40-yard line except once, this in the third quarter, when Basile, their outstanding star, circled right end for 40 yards, placing the ball on the 10-yard line. On the next play Johnstown threw a forward pass which was intercepted by Diskin on the two-yard line, and he ran the entire 98 yards for touchdown. The lineup:

C. T. C.		J. J. C.
Kurpenski	L. E.	Roberts
Underwood	L. T.	Abdalla
Boncaroski	L. G.	Black
Bielski		Fulmer
Mannon (C.)	R. G.	Lynn

LOCALS LOSE IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Nov. 16.—A questionable decision gave Cleveland a 4 to 3 edge in an inter-city amateur boxing tournament with Pittsburgh novices here last night.

Tony Marino, flashy little flyweight, gave Joey Kushner, Cleveland champion, a neat lacing in three rounds, but the judges disagreed and ordered an extra round. Kushner had an advantage in the fourth canto and the referee awarded him the decision.

Two local stars were outclassed by the invaders, Louis Jallos taking a trimming from Don Asto and Don Gonzales being trounced by Joe Goudy.

Summary:

118 pounds—Frankie Wallace (C) defeated Johnny Warner (P), three rounds.
175 pounds—Jack Weinert (C) defeated Tony Bazzone (P), three rounds.

Grand Opera Song Birds Radio Treat Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

TWO operas, one by the newly organized NBC cast of high-salaried artists and the other by the Chicago Civic Opera Company, will bring to listeners tonight the golden voices of such famous singers as Frances Alda, Merle Alcock, Rosa Raisa, Charles Marshall, Pasquale Amato and Alfred O'Shea.

Efforts to do Puccini on the air have been rewarded at last with the presentation of "Madame Butterfly" through WCAE at 7 o'clock. Five other Puccini works will follow, one each month on the WEAF network until next May.

AMERICAN TASTE

In choosing "Madame Butterfly" for the premiere, the sponsors picked what has been an eternal favorite. It has a great deal of American flavor about it, even though it is always called "A Japanese Tragedy." It should provoke a thrill even to the most jaded radio appetite.

RAISA IN "NORMA"

Parts of the second and third acts of "Norma," with Rosa Raisa in the title role, will be broadcast over the WJZ network, including KDKA, at 10 p. m. The time limit will afford little more than a few arias but in these the radio audience will be well rewarded for Rosa Raisa's personality is particularly suited to the role of "Norma."

RED CROSS STORY

At a time when all Pittsburgh has its shoulder to the wheel in the Welfare Fund campaign we might appreciate a bit more the wonderful work being accomplished if we tune to WCAE at 8 p. m. to hear the Challengers' story of Florence Nightingale. The experiences of this English girl led directly to the formation of our American Red Cross.

Something we've always wanted to listen to has been a school for radio announcers—and we shall have it by Bradford Browne and his Nit Wits through WJAS at 6:30.

BYRD TO HEAR MOTHER

On the eve of the climax of his great adventure to the Antarctic, Commander Richard Byrd will hear the voice of his mother via radio through the short wave station of WGY during a special program at 11 o'clock.

From Richmond, Va., Mrs. Byrd will speak words of encouragement to the son who is now preparing for the hazardous flight to the South Pole. Gov. Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, brother of the explorer, and Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce, will send greetings.

"Madame Butterfly."

Mme. Frances Alda will be "Cho-Cho-San," Miss Merle Alcock will be "Suzuki," Pasquale Amato will be "Sharpless," Alfred O'Shea will be "Lieut. B. F. Pinkerton." Gennaro Papi will conduct; Deems Taylor will do the operalogue.

The story has always been a favorite. Its main characters are the Japanese girl named Cho-Cho-San and called Butterfly; an American naval lieutenant stationed in her home town; the American consul named Sharpless and Suzuki, who is Butterfly's servant. The lieutenant marries Butterfly, though both are warned by their own compatriots that it is foolish and dangerous.

The naval officer is recalled to the U. S., leaving Butterfly. He is away three years and does not know a child has been born. Meanwhile, he having taken the alliance lightly, marries an American girl and she accompanies him to Japan. Butterfly is told he is coming and is entranced. She does not know he has a new wife. When they meet—Butterfly radiantly happy at the thought of seeing her husband—and the truth becomes known, the tragedy is borne in on her. Holding her dignity, she wishes the new wife happiness, bids her child farewell, and causes her own end. The opera is filled with lovely arias, all of which will be heard tonight.

Florence Nightingale.

During the Boer War in Africa the English were suffering heavy losses, not so much from casualties as from a fever and sickness that was raging and threatened to spread to all the troops. This condition was due to the fact that the wounded were being inadequately cared for and that unsanitary living conditions spread the sickness that resulted.

Things looked dark and the cause seemed lost when Florence Nightingale came to the rescue. She realized that at last woman was being challenged to take her place on the battle field and help as only a woman can. She accepted that challenge, organized a small force of 28 women and went to Africa. There the first woman to go on a field of battle, she carried on her mission of mercy. She and her little corp of helpers, the first Red Cross workers in the world, labored until they successfully checked the disease. From that day there have always been women willing to follow the example of Florence Nightingale. Consequently, the Red Cross, started so modestly, has grown into a world-wide organization always ready to serve humanity.

Rosa Raisa in "Norma."

Rosa Raisa will once more be heard in the title role of "Norma," a role which critics unanimously agreed last year was particularly adapted to her soprano voice and stage personality. She will be supported by Charles Marshall as Pollione, Norma's lover, and Chase Baromeo as Oroveso, chief of the Druids. Coe Glade as Adalgise, a priestess; Alice D'Hermanoy as Clotilde, a confidante of Norma, and Lodovico Oliviero as Flavius, a friend of Pollione, will complete the cast, which is considered unusually well balanced and whose voices are particularly well blended. Parts of the second and third acts of the opera will be heard in the broadcast.

The scene of the action is laid in ancient Gaul, at the time of the invasion of the Romans, and the story is of the love, estrangement and tragic death of Norma, high priestess of the Druid cult, and Pollione, a Roman officer. In violation of her sacred vows, Norma has been the secret mistress of Pollione and has borne two of his children. As the opera opens, however, Pollione is attracted by the charms of Adalgisa, a virgin of the Druid temple. His affection is returned and Adalgisa, not knowing of the love of Norma and Pollione, asks the priestess to release her from her virginal vows.

When Norma learns of her lover's infidelity, her soul is filled with a passionate desire for vengeance, and thinks to kill her husband and her children, and expiate her own sin upon the funeral pyre. Her heart fails her in this project, however, and in despair she confides the care of her children to her rival Adalgisa and prepares to take her own life. The maid, who has had no knowledge until now of the relations of Pollione and Norma, is overcome with compassion, and asks Pollione to return to his former love, which he refuses to do. Pollione is captured by the Druids, who have risen against the Romans, and Norma offers him his life if he will forget Adalgise and return to her. Again he refuses, and, despairing of recapturing his love, Norma summons the Druids and publicly confesses her guilt, at the same time shielding Adalgise. This last heroic gesture on the part of the priestess reawakens Pollione's love for her, and as she prepares to mount the funeral pyre in expiation of her guilt, he mounts beside her. The opera ends as the reunited lovers are consumed in the flames.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

BRITON'S DEATH REVIVES TUT SUPERSTITION

Talk of Pharaoh's Curse Revived When Aid to Carter Is Found Dead

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(INS.)—The Hon. Richard Bethell, who assisted the famous archaeologist, Howard Carter, in the opening of the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen at Luxor, Egypt, was found dead today in his bedroom at the Bath Club.

Bethell apparently died in his sleep. the cause of death is not yet known.

The death of Bethell, formerly a captain in the Scots Guards and the son and heir of the third Baron Westbury, recalls the susperstition which surrounded the opening of Pharaoh's tomb some years ago.

In the mausoleum, now world famed because of the beauty of the ancient Egyptian relics found there, was discovered a papyrus on which was written a curse, threatening death to any who disturbed the mummy of the king or the contents of his tomb.

Not long after the discovery, Lord Carnavon, who was associated with Carter in the excavations which led to its finding. died suddenly. The superstitious Egyptians were convinced that the ancient curse had been borne out, and freely predicted that all others concerned in the excavations would suffer a similar fate.

CHURCHES GIVE PLAYLET

Churches and Sunday schools of Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin last night presented an elaborate entertainment in the Scott High School auditorium, North Braddock. The Scott High Band, the Braddock Rotary Club Quartet and the Calvary Concert Company took prominent parts in the program. A playlet called "A Tempest in a Hat Shop" was staged by Mrs. Yon's Sunday school class.

The evening's proceeds will go toward the tri-borough church and Sunday school picnic to be held next summer at Idlewild Park.

Watrous, suspended customs border patrolmen, pleaded not guilty before City Judge D. H. Corcorian. They were held for the action of the county grand jury and were paroled temporarily in custody of J. C. Tulloch, customs collector, until the amount of bail is fixed.

Gas Inspector Saves Life of Fume Victim

Adolph A. Goerlich, 60, of 1494 Fairlawn avenue, Dormont, had a narrow escape from death late yesterday when he was overcome by carbon monoxide fumes while working in his garage. William P. McKenna, an inspector for the Equitable Gas Company, who was passing his home, applied resuscitation measures and had the victim partly revived by the time Dr. John E. Madden, of 3130 West Liberty avenue, and Dormont firemen with an oxygen inhalator, arrived. Dr. Madden said he would recover.

Wife Says Alarm Clock Poison To Spouse

Alarm clocks were poison to Leon M. Moraney, according to the testimony of his wife, Mrs. Annabelle Moraney, of Carnegie avenue, Lawrenceville, at the hearing of her divorce suit before Judge James R. Macfarlane in Common Pleas Court. He refused to work and she frequently placed an alarm clock to his ear and called him so that he would seek employment, she said.

On one occasion he threw the clock at her, on another he struck her and knocked her through the door and the ringing of the alarm was the occasion of profanity and abuse, she testified.

They were married in June, 1924, and lived on Home street, Lawrenceville.

ASK RECOUNT FOR BURGESS

The contest for election of burgess of Dravosburg was continued yesterday in Common Pleas Court, when a petition was filed on behalf of Thomas D. Watkins for the opening and recount of the ballots in the box of the second district of the borough, which was ordered by Judge George V. Moore.

Returns of the general election showed that Watkins, Republican, was elected over Charles J. Carlson in the borough by a majority of one vote. On a petition in behalf of Carlson, the box of the fourth district of the borough was opened and he gained seven votes on the recount, giving him a majority of six votes for the office. Clerks of the official returning board for the general election, instead of the special recount board, are entrusted with the recount to avoid delay.

BEGIN TERMS IN SHOPLIFTING

Miss Marie Edwards, stylishly-dressed 26-year-old Seattle woman, today began serving a sentence of two to four years in the Allegheny County Workhouse, imposed by Judge Frank P. Patterson, after he had refused her a new trial following her recent conviction for shoplifting in three Pittsburgh department stores. Her companion, Edith Cook, 25, also of Seattle, was given one to two years. Neither is to be allowed parole, the judge ruled.

Detectives produced records showing that Miss Edwards had been arrested in many cities, but had always managed to escape conviction. The two were alleged to be members of a nation-wide shoplifting gang. They came here from Chicago and stopped at a Squirrel Hill hotel. Three days later they were arrested, and $1,500 of dresses and coats were found in their room.

National Corn Husking Champion Retains Title

PLATTE CITY, Mo., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—All honor to the rural Swedish community of Rio and Woodhull, Ill.! It breeds muscled men and real farmers and the proof lies for all the world to see in two neighbor farm boys, who walked away yesterday with all honors of the National Corn Husking championship.

Fighting down interminable rows of matted 10-foot corn, with heavy mud under foot, these representatives of a single community bested the champions of six other corn belt states and when a cannon boomed the signal to halt, the national champion, Walter Olson, was but a scant half bushel ahead of his neighbor, Harold Holmes.

It was Olson's second national—or world—championship. Last year he shucked 26.6 bushels in Benton County, Ill., to take first honors. Yesterday he picked only 25.27 bushels in the hour and 20 minutes.

Real Estate

On the North Side, Edward F. Pertman has sold to Harold F. Burnworth 100x150 feet with five brick houses in South avenue, Manchester district, for $42,000. The deal was closed through E. H. Gilg.

The Stetson Company has leased from Loew's, Inc., two storerooms in the Penn Theater Building, Sixth street and Penn avenue, for a long term of years at a total rental of $500,000. The lessee will open shoe stores for men and for women. The deal was made through E. U. Snaman & Co. The same broker leased the entire second floor of the Woolworth Building, 319 Fifth avenue, for the F. W. Woolworth Company to the East Liberty Bowling Association.

A brick house at 2843-45 Shady avenue, Fourteenth Ward, has been sold by Benjamin Rosenshine to Leo Ferber. The lote is 50x150 feet.

A house in Berwin avenue, South Hills, lot 30x120 feet, has been sold by J. C. Newcomer to Raymond J. Soracco for $7,000.

Margaret Orr Lockard has sold to Michael J. Quinn a six-acre tract in the former McCully farm along the William Penn highway east of Wilkinsburg for $7,200. Mr Quinn is having plans prepared for a stone house to cost approximately $40,000. The same broker sold to Frank A. Janda one and one-half acres in McCully drive, and to William M. Wilson two acres in McCully drive.

The Steel City Acceptance Corporation has conveyed to R. T. Mackey, Roy E. Brady and Paul J. Hooton homes on 37x120 feet each in Seif avenue, Lincoln place.

A house in Tenth street, Sharpsburg, lot 17x45 feet, has been sold by Adelaide C. Keller to Walter Szymanski for $4,500.

Nineteenth Ward—J. W. Raible, brick and tile dwelling, 541-43 Fordham street, $10,000.

Eleventh Ward—M. K. McGreevy, brick and shingle dwelling, 5635 Kirkwood street, $8,500.

Twentieth Ward — H. McMullen, brick dwelling, 2210 McMonagle street, $5,000.

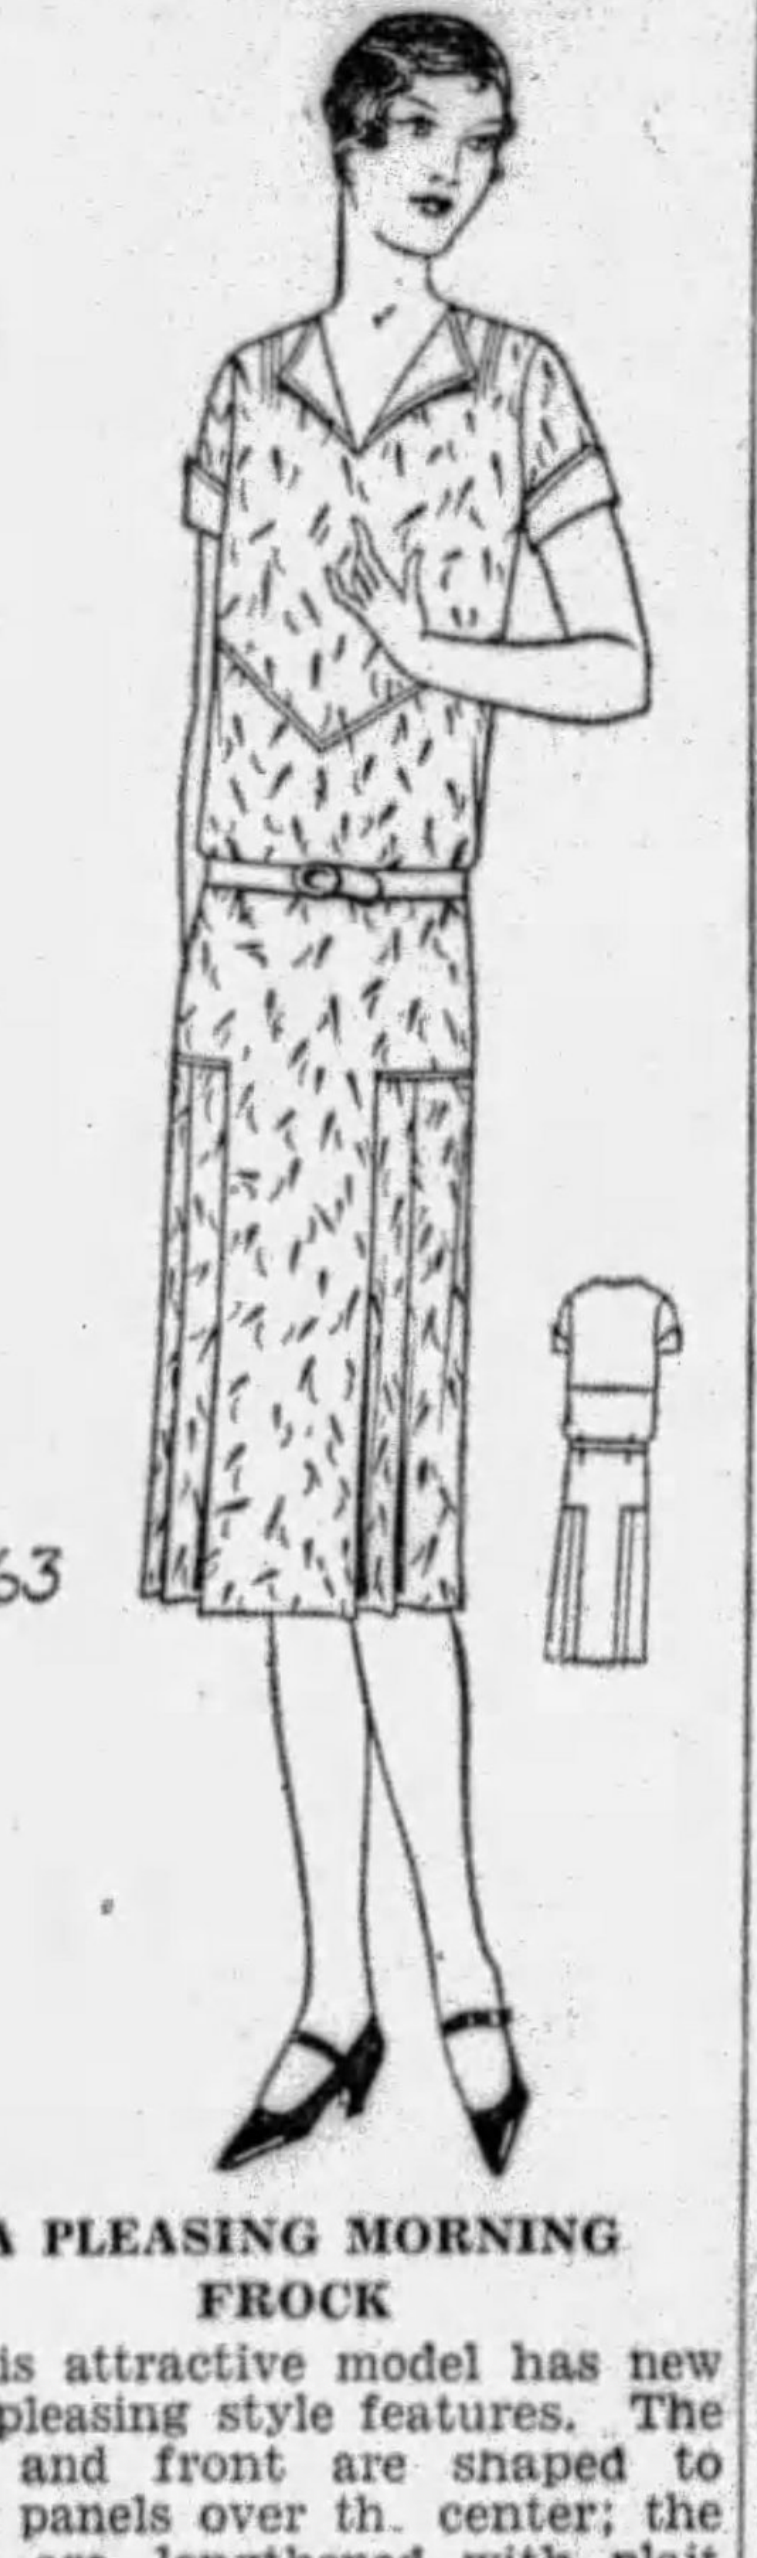
Staucaret was on his way to work at the McArthur Construction Company, Riverton. He was taken to the McKeesport Hospital, where it was found his skull and both legs were fractured.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern



A PLEASING MORNING FROCK

This attractive model has new and pleasing style features. The back and front are shaped to form panels over the center; the sides are lengthened with plait portions. The V neck is outlined with pointed revers facings. A short and comfortable sleeve is finished with a shaped cuff. A narrow belt holds the fulness of the dress at slight blousing. Printed linen, cotton broadcloth or tub silk is suggested for this style. As pictured printed voile in black and white was used, with facings of white organdy.

The pattern is cut in five sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. To make the dress for a 38-inch size will require 4½ yards of 35-inch material. To face revers, cuffs and belt with contrasting material will require ¼ yard 35 inches wide, cut crosswise. To finish with bias binding as shown in the large view, will require 4¼ yards 1½ inches wide. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plait fulness extended is 2 1-3 yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

COST OF CRIME ANALYZED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The tremendous cost of crime to the nation was analyzed yesterday by a committee of the National Law Enforcement Commission.

The study ranged from cost of police courts and prisons of Federal, state and local governments to "racketeering," issuance of fraudulent stock and bank defalcations.

Chairman Wickersham, of the committee; Judge Kenneth Mackintosh, of Seattle, Wash., and Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, Va., attended the meeting, together with the commission's expert, Goldthwaite Dorr, of New York. Another meeting of the committee with its third member, Judge Paul J. McCormick, of Los Angeles, Cal., who was absent, will be held here in December.

The cost of crime study will include the direct cost incurred by government agencies for the prevention of crime, and the indirect and private costs, the latter phase comprising the expenditures of corporations and individuals in the maintenance of private guards and armored automobiles for the transportation of valuables.

St. James Delays Recital by Chimes

Edward G. Lang, Director Department of Public Works.

NOTICE is hereby given that Ordinance, copy of which is published herewith, was introduced in the Council of the City of Pittsburgh on November 4, 1929, pursuant to the provisions of the several Acts of Assembly, authorizing said City, without any petition of property owners, to open, widen, straighten, extend, vacate, grade, pave, curb, macadamize and otherwise improve streets and alleys, or parts thereof, within its limits, viz:

BILL NO. 6514.

AN ORDINANCE—Opening Parkfield street in the Twenty-ninth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, from Copperfield street to Fairland street and providing that the costs, damages and expenses occasioned thereby be assessed against and collected from properties benefited thereby.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That Parkfield street in the Twenty-ninth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, from Copperfield avenue to Fairland street, be and the same is hereby opened to a general width of 40.0 feet so that the street as opened shall lie between the following described lines, to-wit:

The southerly line shall begin on the northerly line of Copperfield avenue at a point of curve distant south 84° 18' 00" east 484.78 feet along the northerly line of Copperfield avenue from the easterly line of Fairland street; thence shall extend eastwardly and northwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the left with a radius of 12.0 feet and a central angle of 143° 10' 00" for a distance of 29.98 feet to a point of tangent; thence by the tangent north 47° 28' 00" west 225.14 feet, coinciding with the southerly line of Parkfield street (formerly Park way) as located to a width of 40.0 feet by Ordinance No. 74 of the Borough of Carrick ordained and enacted into a law June 11, 1906, to a point of curve; thence westwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the left with a radius of 200.0 feet and a central angle of 36° 50' 00" for a distance of 128.57 feet to a point of tangent; thence by the tangent north 84° 18' 00" west 191.02 feet, coinciding with the southerly line of Parkfield street as located by the above mentioned Ordinance of the Borough of Carrick, to the easterly line of Fairland street.

SECTION 2. The Department of Public Works is hereby authorized and directed to cause said Parkfield street in the Twenty-ninth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, from Copperfield avenue to Fairland street to be opened in conformity with the provisions of Section 1 of this Ordinance.

SECTION 3. The costs, damages and expenses occasioned thereby and the benefits to pay the same shall be assessed against and collected from properties benefited thereby in accordance with the provisions of the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same.

SECTION 4. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

NOTICE is hereby given that Ordinance, copy of which is published herewith, was introduced in the Council of the City of Pittsburgh on November 4, 1929, pursuant to the provisions of the several Acts of Assembly, authorizing said City, without any petition of property owners, to open, widen, straighten, extend, vacate, grade, pave, curb, macadamize and otherwise improve streets and alleys or parts thereof, within its limits, viz:

BILL NO. 6515

AN ORDINANCE authorizing and directing the grading, paving, curbing and otherwise improving of Zulema street, from Halket street to Bates street; letting a contract therefor, and providing that the costs, damages and expenses of the same be assessed against and collected from property specially benefited thereby.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That Zulema street, from Halket street to Bates street, be graded, paved, curbed and otherwise improved.

SECTION 2. The Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works are hereby authorized and directed to advertise, in accordance with the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and the Ordinances of the said City of Pittsburgh relating thereto and regulating the same, for proposals for the grading, paving, curbing and otherwise improving said street between said points; the contract or contracts therefor to be let in the manner directed by the said Acts of Assembly and Ordinances; and the contract price or contract prices, if let in separate contracts, not to exceed the total sum of Thirty Thousand ($30,000.00) Dollars, which is the estimate of the whole cost as furnished by the Department of Public Works.

SECTION 3. The costs, damages and expenses of the same shall be assessed against and collected from properties specially benefited thereby, in accordance with the provisions of the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same, and the City's share of said work to be chargeable to and payable from Bond Fund No. 293, Street Bonds, 1928.

SECTION 4. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

NOTICE is hereby given that Ordinance, copy of which is published herewith, was introduced in the Council of the City of Pittsburgh on October 28, 1929, pursuant to the provisions of the several Acts of Assembly, authorizing said City, without any petition of property owners to open, widen, straighten, extend, vacate, grade, pave curb, macadamize and otherwise improve streets and alleys or parts thereof, within its limits, viz:

BILL NO. 6,413.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.

"NOW I am through with love," said I,
"Through with folly and through with tears,
Lads are silly to rant and sigh.
Wasting part of the precious years;
Eyes ahead is my battle cry,
Pipe and books and an easy chair—
(Why did you make my words a lie Cunning mite with the golden hair?)"

"Girls are ever the same," said I,
"Foolish, fickle and insincere,
Nothing left but to pass them by,
Wisdom comes with the dying year.
Proud and cool I will go my way,
Done with laughter and done with lies;
(Why did you set my plans astray—Shy young thing with the sky-blue eyes?)"

GAG

EDDIE CANTOR'S latest joke concerns Meyer Petruffsky, who dreamed that an angel came to him and said: "Meester Petruffsky, I vuss han hengel. I geev you one wish, anyting you wish you will get right away, but honly one wish, do you hear?"

"Ull right," said Mr. Petruffsky, "I veesh I could have a copy of de New Yukk Times dated Novamber Seexteent' Nineteen Toity!"

The angel immediately brought forth a copy of the N. Y. Times dated Nov. 16, 1930!

Petruffsky breathlessly turned to the stock market columns and beamed when he saw Montgomery-Ward listed at 3070¼; Goldman-Sachs at 2350½; General Electric at 2576 and Radio at 950¾.

Then he turned to the obituary department and read: "In Memoriam of Meyer Petruffsky, who died November 16, 1929."

MERCILESS TRUTH

It is beginning to look, says S. Kaufman, that the McManus-Rothstein trial is being produced by Vincent ("Great Day") Youmans.

IN FEWER WORDS

WHERE THE WEST BEGINS

The N. Y. World of November 13 reports: "Hiawatha, Kansas, Goes Whoopie!"

WHY WRITERS DIE YOUNG

The story about Dorothy Parker's "Big Blonde," which gathered dust and rejection slips for over three years, and then copped the O. Henry Memorial blue ribbon, reminds Ward ("Cora Potts") Greene of Ernest Hemingway's "Fifty Grand." The Hemingway yarn came out in the Atlantic Monthly to be hailed by Harry Hansen for a full col'm, and it kicked up plenty of literary excitement, both then and after its inclusion in "Men Without Women."

The day it appeared in the Atlantic Monthly a well-known writer took it home to his squaw Kate and cried: "I want you to read the greatest story ever written."

He had read about half a page aloud when she interrupted: "But, darling, I've read it before."

"Impossible!" he cried. "It just came out today!"

Finally her memory served her. "Do you remember when I was reading manuscripts for the Shrine Magazine a year ago?" she said. "Well, I was the one who rejected it!"

O SIDNEY HOWARD!!!

A RECENT column contained the report that Wilson Follette, the actual winner of the O. Henry Memorial second prize ($250) could not be reached and that others accused him of being high-hat. It was also stated that Mr. Folette was not being snooty but was ill at the time and still needs the $250. The N. Y. World (or was it Harry Hansen?) picked up the lead and devoted almost a column to the story, for which thanks.

We trust Sidney Howard, who was the alternate winner of the second award and who doesn't need the money, has his attention summoned to this paragraph and that he will do what would be an appropriate and decent gesture, if he turned that coin over to Follette, who is plenty miserable.

Not long ago one of his daughters (who has had two tomes published) attempted suicide in California. Follette is there straightening out matters. His other gifted daughter is struggling to remain in college.

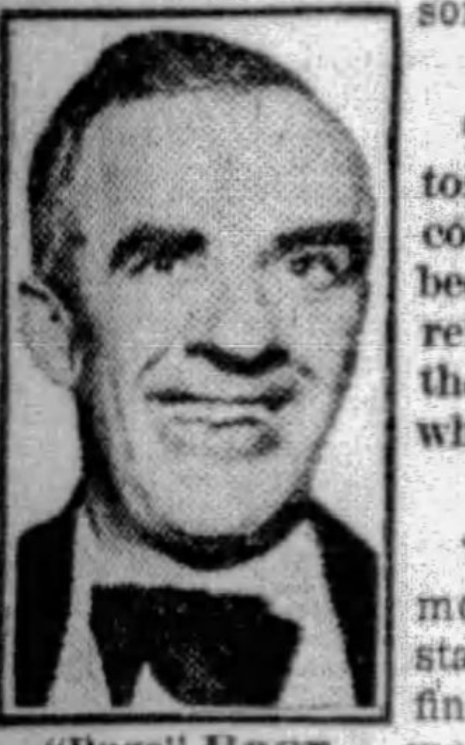
Your Nose in the Glass
By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

THOSE three Washington newspapermen can certainly give some elected snoopers a few lessons in etiquette



"Bugs" Baer

They were tossed into the covered wagon because they refused to tell the grand jury where to buy it.

We admit that most bone-dry states are still finding a little marrow fat in the bone.

But when a man invites us to his home we hold that trust sacred. After breaking bread with your host don't be one of the crumbs.

Whether you attend a dinner in an official capacity or whether you stay sober, we see no reason why you should turn your pie plate into a heliograph.

If you have ever tasted the stuff they serve now you would realize that it is more difficult to be a guest than a host.

What is a man to do when a toast is proposed in clear, sparkling shellac?

We must sip it gently as a mark of respect to those who have preceded us on the great adventure under the table.

When the host raises a brimming tankard of embalming syrup to the flag, can we refuse to see less than 48 stars?

We have had some very fine, thinking headaches since 1920. Not because we wanted the stuff but because courtesy is the harbinger of the stomach pump.

It seems certain that there was a Wall street dinner in 1926 and that some distinguished guests bent that jolly, old derrick, the elbow.

But when a guest starts squawking three years later it indicates it took him a long time to get his voice back

Man's five senses now seem to be snooping, tasting, touching not, smelling and whispering.

It is a delightful moment after the cigars have been borrowed and the host arises and says, "The ladies will step into the music room while the gentlemen go into the grand jury and talk."

The three wise monkeys of Japan are Seeno, Hearno and Speakno. We are a long ways from Japan but we seem to have imported Oriental courtesy and improved it with a spy glass and six-tube ears.

When a guest swears that he can tell liquor by the odor he is boasting. You can't even tell it by the taste nowadays.

The very act of putting your interrogative nose in the glass makes you an accessory before the fact. Even smelling the stuff will coat you with three gorgeous layers of enamel.

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES
DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

YES SIR, YOU COULD HAVE KNOCKED ME OVER WITH A FEATHER WHEN FLORENCE SO CALMLY ADMITTED SHE AND AUGUST WERE SEPARATED. WELL SHE NEVER WORRIED MUCH ABOUT ANYTHING. WHAT DO YOU THINK OF HER?
OH SHE'S ALL RIGHT SHE SURE WAS VERY JOLLY ABOUT ME MISTAKING THAT STOUT WOMAN AT THE DEPOT FOR FLORENCE HERSELF.
I WISH I HAD HER DISPOSITION. IT SORT OF GIVES YOU THE CREEPS WHEN YOU SEE A PERSON YOU KNOW IS OLDER THAN YOU ARE LOOK SO YOUNG. I WONDER IF SHE CAN HEAR US FROM THAT FRONT BEDROOM? DID SHE TELL YOU ANYTHING ON THE WAY HOME ABOUT WHY SHE COULDN'T GET ALONG WITH AUGUST?
NO. SHE JUST LAUGHED AND KIDDED ME ABOUT THAT DEPOT AFFAIR
HER HAIR IS THE SAME COLOR AS MINE, NATURALLY. NOW SHE'S A BLONDE. WELL I DON'T BLAME ANYONE FOR FIXING UP. I KNOW I'D LOOK A LOT YOUNGER IF I HAD TIME TO TAKE CARE OF MYSELF. I LOOK AT LEAST FIVE YEARS OLDER THAN FLORENCE. DON'T I?
FIVE YEARS? OH I WOULDN'T SAY THAT. HER HAIR. AND ALL THAT BEING FIXED UP MAKES A DIFFERENCE
HER HANDS ARE AS WHITE AS MILK AND HER FINGER NAILS ARE JUST PERFECT. WELL IT'S MIGHTY EASY TO KEEP THEM THAT WAY IF YOU DON'T HAVE TO SHOVEL COAL INTO A FURNACE AND SPEND FROM MORNING UNTIL NIGHT KEEPING A HOUSE IN ORDER. YES SIR, I'LL SAY IT IS.
WELL SO THERE'S TWO SIDES TO EVERYTHING. YOU WORRY ABOUT YOUR HOUSE BUT SHE WORRIES ABOUT OTHER THINGS. MUSIC, ART - STUFF LIKE THAT.

rior avenue to the traffic circle near the intersection of Wortman and Florida streets, including the locating, relocating, opening and widening, establishing and re-establishing the grades, and fixing the lines of the said Ohio River boulevard, and providing for the payment of the City's share of the costs, damages and expenses thereof, said Agreement to be in the following form:

AGREEMENT

MADE THIS.......day of...... A. D., 1929, between the County of Allegheny, a quasi-municipal corporation of Pennsylvania, hereinafter called "County," party of the first part, and the City of Pittsburgh, a municipal corporation of the State of Pennsylvania, within the limits of said County, hereinafter called the "City," party of the second part.

WHEREAS — The Ohio River Boulevard in the City of Pittsburgh, beginning at the western property line of Superior avenue and extending in a westerly direction to the eastern terminus of the McKees Rocks Bridge Traffic Circle near the intersection of Wortman and Florida streets, as located by Ordinance of the City, is to be a principal thoroughfare and a part of the Ohio River Boulevard on the northerly side of the Ohio River, and

WHEREAS, The County Commissioners of Allegheny County deem it advisable and necessary to improve said Ohio River Boulevard is said City, between the points mentioned, and are of the opinion that the County should bear a portion of the cost, and the corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh believe it will be greatly to the interest and advantage of said City and a great saving of expense thereto, if said improvement of said Boulevard within its corporate limits be made, and the cost and expense thereof be paid jointly by the City and County as hereinafter specified.

NOW, THEREFORE, THIS AGREEMENT WITNESSETH, That for the consideration hereinafter mentioned, the parties hereto do covenant and agree, to and with each other as follows:

FIRST. The parties hereto agree that the Ohio River Boulevard within the limits of said City, for a distance of approximately 5,374 feet, shall be improved between the following terminal points:

BEGINNING at the western property line of Superior avenue and extending in a westerly direction to the eastern terminus of the McKees Rocks Bridge Traffic Circle near the intersection of Wortman and Florida streets. The consent of the City of Pittsburgh is hereby given to the County of Allegheny to carry out the provisions herein set forth.

SECOND. Said Ohio River Boulevard between the terminal points shall be improved by the County to a width of forty (40') feet and graded to a width of sixty (60') feet, exclusive of slopes. The work shall be done to lines and grades established by the City and in conformity with plans prepared by the Department of Public Works of Allegheny County and approved by the Commissioners of said Allegheny County and the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, to the limits shown on said plans, which plans are indentified as Ohio River Boulevard, Contract No. 3, Plan 1256, Sheets Nos.1 to —, and made a part hereof by reference thereto and filed in the office of the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City and County.

THIRD. The improvement of said Ohio River boulevard as set forth in the first and second paragraphs under this agreement, shall be done by contract or contracts, awarded therefor, by the County of Allegheny, after approval of plans by the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, pursuant to Acts of Assembly relating to same. Said contract or contracts shall include the replacement of existing sidewalks where same are destroyed by reason of the relocation or change of grade on existing City streets necessitated by this improvement. The County shall have charge of the work, and the City may, at its own cost and expense, furnish whatever engineering and inspection service it so desires. Any complaint which the City may have as to the manner of construction or the materials or methods used shall be made in writing to the Director of the Department of Public Works of Allegheny County, within three (3) days, otherwise all work and materials shall be considered by the County as being done and furnished, placed or erected, satisfactory to the City.

FOURTH. The City agrees at its own cost and expense to construct all sanitary and combined sewers, including house or other connections required within the limits of this improvement, prior to or during the construction work to be done by the County under this agreement, exclusive, however, of the storm drains shown on the boulevard plans as approved. The City also agrees to require the construction of any water lines with the necessary house or other connections, fire hydrants, gate boxes, etc., within the limits of this improvement, at the cost or expense of the City, individuals or public utility companies, prior to or during the construction work to be done by the County under this agreement. All work on sanitary and combined sewers and water lines shall be done by the City or Utility Companies in such a manner that there shall be as little interference or delay as possible to the County's contractor on this work. The altering, resetting or reconstructing of existing catch basins or storm inlets within the limits of this improvement shall be included in the construction work to be performed by the County under the terms of this agreement.

FIFTH. The City agrees to enact any ordinances which may be necessary to vacate, locate, relocate, open or widen, establish or re-establish the grade and curb lines of said Ohio River boulevard, as shown on the plans as approved, as well as any existing streets or ways affected by this improvement and to condemn or otherwise secure all private or public property necessary for this purpose.

SIXTH. The City agrees to assume and become liable for all damages occasioned by reason of this improvement by the vacation, opening, locating, relocaing, widening, establishing of re-establishing of grades required for the aforesaid improvement of the Ohio River Boulevard and the existing streets and ways affected, as shown on the plans as approved, between the terminal points hereinbefore mentioned. The City agrees that it will assume and become liable for all damages to property, including surface and subsurface structures, caused by said improvement of the Ohio River Boulevard, including damages to persons or property occasioned from any obstruction on said roadway or part thereof, not due to the negligence of the said County or its contractor or contractors.

SEVENTH. The City further agrees to petition for Viewers to award damages to property affected by this improvement, and to proceed before the Viewers the same as if the improvement was entirely a City project. The County agrees to furnish any legal or engineering assistance which the City may desire in the preparations of "Viewers' Plans" and in the defense or prosecution of any claims for damages to property. The County further agrees to reimburse the City of Pittsburgh for all damages assessed against the City, exclusive of damages for the realignment of California avenue, from Superior avenue to Romig street. Payment for damages shall be made by the County to the City within ninety (90) days after the report of the Viewers to the Court of Common Pleas of the County has been filed, but appeal from any award of damages which seems excessive or unjust to the County, shall be taken by the City at the request of the County.

EIGHTH. The City has condemned, at its own sole cost and expense, all property necessary for the realignment of California avenue from Superior avenue to Romig street, to a width of sixty (60) feet and to petition for Viewers to award damage to property affected by said realignment. The City shall proceed before the Board of Viewers on these condemnations as if the Ohio River Boulevard was not to affect property in this vicinity and settle at its own cost and expense, all awards of damages occasioned by said realignment.

NINTH. The County agrees to include in the contract or contracts for the work outlined in this agreement, the construction of the realigned section of California avenue between Superior avenue and Romig street. Said construction to include grading, curbing and paving to a width of forty (40) feet between curbs, including the street railway area.

TENTH. The City agrees to have the tracks of the Pittsburgh Railways Company removed from the present location of California avenue, from Superior avenue to Romig street, and have same relocated upon the realignment of California avenue between said terminal points. The repaving of the section of California avenue from which the railway tracks are removed, shall be done by the City in accordance with agreements now in force between the City and the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

ELEVENTH. The City agrees to reimburse the County for work done on the realignment of California avenue, in the amount of $25,000.00 for street improvement and in the amount of $8,000.00 for concrete base and surface paving in the street railway area. The County shall be relieved of the responsibility for the relocation of the street railway tracks, including the subgrading for tracks, ballast, ties and rails, on the realignment and the repaving of the area of California avenue from which the tracks are removed.

TWELFTH. The City shall have installed the necessary Boulevard lighting system. Plans of the poles, fixtures, etc., approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City, shall be furnished by the Department of Public Works of Allegheny County. It is further agreed that after the completion of the improvement aforesaid, the City shall light the Ohio River Boulevard, between the terminal points hereinbefore described, and the County shall be forever afterwards relieved of any responsibility for the maintenance or repair of the lighting system.

THIRTEENTH. It is agreed that after the completion of the improvement aforesaid, the County shall maintain and keep the Ohio River Boulevard, including bridge structures, between the terminal points herein described, in good repair, except curb and sidewalks constructed by the County, City or others, on the boulevard, and the paving, curb and sidewalk of the realignment of California avenue, between Superior avenue and Romig street. The City shall be forever afterwards relieved of any responsibility for the maintenance or repair of the Boulevard, except the curbs, sidewalks and lighting system of the boulevard and the paving, curbs and sidewalks of the realignment of California avenue. The County shall be forever afterwards relieved of any responsibility for the maintenance or repair of the curbs, sidewalks or lighting system of the boulevard and the paving, curbs and sidewalks of the realignment of California avenue.

FOURTEENTH. The City agrees to give all notices necessary to fully advise all parties concerned of the proposed improvement, and to require all service companies and private parties to make the necessary adjustments, repairs and connections to existing utilities and to install any new utilities with their house or other connections to points outside the limits of this improvements, prior to or during the construction of the boulevard.

FIFTEENTH. In case the City constructs water lines, sanitary sewers or combined sewers within the lines of this improvement after the signing of this agreement, the City agrees at its own cost and expense, to backfill the trench or trenches in a workmanlike manner and place any concrete over the same that may be required by the County, to reinforce the sub-grade to insure the stability of the Boulevard pavement. Where public service companies or individuals open such trenches, either at their own request or by order of the City, the City shall require said companies or individuals to backfill the trench or trenches in a workmanlike manner and place any concrete that may be required by the County to reinforce the sub-grade and insure the stability of the Boulevard pavement. The City may require said companies or individuals to pay for said backfill and concrete work. The City agrees to relieve the County of the responsibility for the failure of any part of the pavement of this improvement or any structures connected therewith, occasioned by the subsidence of any trenches opened by the City, public service companies or individuals, whether said trenches are opened before or after the improvement of this Boulevard by a contract or contracts let by Allegheny County.

SIXTEENTH. The City agrees to pay to the County the additional cost of backfilling any trenches with slag and the cost of removing and replacing concrete slabs or pavement over said trenches, when trenches opened by either the City or others are found in such condition as to endanger the strength or stability of the work to be done by the County. In case such trenches are found, their condition shall be brought to the attention of the Director of Public Works of the City by letter, and if the condition is not corrected by the City within three (3) days after the delivery of such letter, the County shall correct the condition and bill the City for the actual construction cost of same.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, The County has caused its common and corporate seal to be affixed hereto, duly attested by the Chief Clerk of the County Commissioners, and this agreement to be signed by its County Commissioners, and this agreement is signed and executed in the name of the City of Pittsburgh, and for the City of Pittsburgh, by the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works, and the seal of the City is by its proper officers hereto affixed, they being duly authorized so to do by Ordinance of said City, all done this day and year aforesaid.

Two motion picture actors are indignant because income tax officials won't let them list their liquor expenses under entertainment, advertising and publicity.

And the idea that liquor will get you any publicity in Hollywood is open to dispute.

But still, the government should realize that movie actors have to keep down appearances.

"I am sure that not only do we not oppose but we heartily welcome as a wholesome thing the investigation of lobbyists. The more thoroughly it is done the better it will be for organizations like ours which represent in a proper, unashamed way a distinct body of opinion on public questions which have a right and ought to be known to the powers of government."—John E. Snapshots of High Old Times in Washington.

"PARTY after party was attended by myself, but no sign did I see of Mrs. Middle or her daughter, Clara. Consequently my curiosity kept growing until I began to wonder if I was actually in love with her, or was I losing my mind?

"Finally, while being entertained by the popular Mrs. 'Bigmont,' as I called her, from the State of Illinois, I chanced to come out with an inquiry concerning Miss Clara Middle, so I asked what had become of Miss Clara, stating that I had not seen her for some time.

"At once, both young and old 'tittered' behind their fans, trying to impress me that they were so modest they could not even look at a man who would ask such a question.

"I, of course, had sense enough to let the matter 'drop,' but this 'tittering' sharpened my curiosity, and I determined tot find out what became of Clara Middle at all hazards, if I had to ask 'point blank' where she was at, and so. . . ."

Lobbyist Declares the Two Leaders of the Republican Party Are Contact Men Between the Party and the Special Interests

Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, and Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, are two of the most important men in the United States Senate.

They are two of the most eminent leaders of the Republican party in the Senate.

They and their actions and their opinions may fairly and truthfully be said to typify the Old Guard leadership of the Republican party.

SENATOR DAVID A. REED, OF PENNSYLVANIA

And this Old Guard leadership dominates the Republican party and expresses the party's principles and policies as far as its elected representatives are concerned.

The element of the Republican party which disagrees with this leadership and which professes and practices policies more in accord with those of Abraham Lincoln, the great founder of the party, are now regarded as insurgents, called the sons of wild jackasses, and threatened with expulsion from the party.

In other words, the line is clearly drawn between the Old Guard and the so-called insurgents in the Republican party, with the singular situation clearly in evidence that the so-called insurgents represent the principles of the illustrious founder of the party, and the so-called regular Republicans or Old Guard represent the interests of the privileged and predatory classes.

No better example and illustration of this clear and uncontrovertible fact can be found than the statements of Lobbyist J. A. Arnold, representative of the Southern Tariff Association, when he was under oath before the Caraway Senatorial Committee investigating the evil activities of lobbyists with regard to Congress.

Mr. Arnold definitely declared that these leaders of the Old Guard element of the Republican party, Senator James E. Watson and Senator David A. Reed, were the "contact men" between the Republican party in the Senate and the special interests which Mr. Arnold, as a lobbyist, represented.

In a letter to E. W. Brugieres, New Orleans sugar man, Arnold says:

> "Following your suggestion that our association get in touch with someone to take the place of Senator Gooding, I took occasion to discuss the subject with a group of important senators, including Smoot, Watson and others, AND WAS AGREEABLY SURPRISED TO LEARN THAT THEY HAD DESIGNATED SENATOR WATSON, OF INDIANA, TO CONTACT WITH US IN SO FAR AS THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN THE SENATE IS CONCERNED."

In this contact work, Arnold went on, Senator Watson was to associate himself with Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania.

Arnold in another letter reported seeing Senator Watson and telling him to get in touch with the Florida senators regarding certain rates affecting the Southern industrial interests. A later communication to Arnold from a Jacksonville manufacturer informed him that Senator Fletcher, of Florida, would vote for the tariff bill if the Florida rates were adopted.

Senator Blaine on the committee asked Arnold: "Did you convey that information to Senator Watson?" The answer was: "I should have and probably did."

To Senator Reed, Arnold writes on October 10, TIPPING HIM OFF AS TO A PRIVATE MEETING OF THE FARM GROUP who were in opposition to the sky-high tariff rates of the Pennsylvania industrials. Said Lobbyist Arnold to Senator Reed:

> "At a conference of the farm group yesterday it developed that Senators Brookhart and Frazier said the insurgents had an agreement with the Democrats that if the insurgents would stand with the Democrats on the flexible and administrative features, the Democrats would permit the insurgents to write the rates. WE ARE MERELY WRITING YOU AS A MATTER OF INFORMATION."

Clearly, then, according to Lobbyist Arnold, testifying under oath before the investigating committee, the very distinguished Senators, James E. Watson of Indiana, David A. Reed of Pennsylvania—these important leaders of the Republican party in the United States Senate, were, and were recognized as, the official contact men in the Senate between the Old Guard of plutocratic republicanism and the special interests which the lobbyists represent.

These distinguished senators, in taking this attitude, and pursuing these policies, were not betraying the principles of their party, as those principles are recognized today by the Old Guard element of the party, but were merely carrying out the principles of friendship and favoritism for the special interests upon which the Old Guard leadership of the present day Republican party is based.

No wonder, however, that the Republicans in public life who believe in the principles of Lincoln and the original policies of the Republican party are "insurgents" against the present day policies of the Republican Old Guard!

No wonder that the sincere mass of the Republican party voters feel with alarm that the party is being delivered by its most distinguished leaders to the privileged and predatory interests!

CONTACT MEN.

Why not call them "CONTRACT MEN" and be done with it? It is their job to deal with lobbyists who are paid to see that the Republican party performs its part of a "CONTRACT." The first half of the contract was fulfilled when special interests stuffed the Republican campaign chest. The understanding calls for Congress now to render those favors for which the money was paid in advance.

This particular tariff steal looks dead. But contact men of special interests, in the Senate and out of it, will stay right on their contact job unless the people rise in righteous indignation and put an end to the infamy of the lobby and all those associated with it and contaminated by it.

After Fifty Years

Prison Keeper Optimistic About Human Nature.

Fifty years ago this month Alfred Coynes became a keeper at Sing Sing. He has seen 20 wardens come and go—has observed as many different attitudes toward prisoners. You would expect him to have a rather hard-boiled attitude toward human nature. It is, therefore, encouraging to report his conclusions after half a century within the shadows of misery—

1. He is optimistic about human nature.
2. Prison reform, as carried on by Warden Lawes, is the best method of dealing with imprisoned men.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE WAY out of the stomach, the opening to the duodenum, is called pylorus (the gateway). It is guarded by a powerful ring of muscle which normally keeps the exit closed. The pyloric muscle is a sentinel, and will not allow food to enter the intestine before it has been adequately treated in the stomach.

H. G. Wells.

The small intestine is a tube about an inch across and some 20 feet long, which forms an intricate coiling mass in the abdomen. The whole tube is very uniform in its minute structure, but physiologically it is possible to distinguish between the first half where the digestive process is completed, and the second half where food is absorbed into the blood.

Some four inches from the pyloric opening there opens into the intestine a narrow tube; this tube has two branches coming from important digestive glands, the liver and the pancreas, to carry the juices made by these glands into the intestine. Each has essentially the same structure as a salivary gland, but they are larger and more complicated.

The liver is by far the larger of the two organs. Everyone knows its shape and position. It secretes a greenish fluid called bile, which trickles slowly down a tube, the bile duct, into the small intestine.

If a meal is being digested, the bile runs straight down to the intestine; if not, it is stored until required in a hallow sac, the gall bladder, which lies at the end of a side-branch of the bile duct.

The pancreas (the sweetbread properly so called of domestic animals, though other glandular matter is frequently dished up under this name) is a smaller gland, pink, about eight inches long, having an irregularly elongated shape, and lying in a horizontal plane behind the stomach. It secretes a colorless pancreatic juice which flows directly along the pancreatic duct to the intestine.

There is yet another supply of ferments. The intestine, like the stomach, has in its wall an enormous number of minute, simple glands, whose tubules open into the intestinal canal. These glands make the intestinal juice, or succus entericus, a fluid which plays a part of the utmost importance in the digestive process.

These various juices act, not only on the food, but also on one another. The presence of bile makes the enzymes in the pancreatic juice more active and the succus entericus converts inactive "enzymeprecursors" in that juice into active enzymes.

It is quite possible for a man to adapt himself to live without a stomach, but his small intestine is essential. Proteins, or rather the shattered results of the gastric digestion of these substances, are attacked by two enzymes, trysin and erepsin, contributed by the pancreas and intestinal wall.

Trypsin specializes more in the earlier and middle stages of protein dissection, while erepsin is concerned with the splitting of the penultimate products.

Between the two, the protein molecules are completely taken apart into their constituent amino-acids. Carbohydrates also have all been reduced to assimilable glucose.

Fats are fallen upon by certain substances present in bile, the so-called bile salts, which overcome their stubborn tendency to form large droplets and disperse them into a state of minute division, called an emulsion. (In physical language, the bile salts lower the fat's surface tension).

When this has been done, the fats are readily assailed by steapsin, an enzyme made by the pancreas, which splits them up into their last stage, of fatty acids and glycerine. Thus for all the main classes of organic foodstuffs is the process of digestion completed.

But besides the various enzymes there is another important substance in this region, contributed by the pancreas. The enzymes just mentioned will not work in an acid medium; therefore, the acidity of the chyme has to be neutralized before their operations can be performed. This is done by the alkaline carbonate of soda.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY -:- By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Chinatown is only a shell of former opulence, but remains the most carefully policed section in New York. Time after time when Chinatown's tong fires seemed extinguished, they were found to be only smouldering.

Hatchet men and their allies with sawed-off shot guns would suddenly swarm from mysterious passageway and the crooked gray streets would run red. Then the carnage would dry up and disappear like a rain drop on a parched desert.

Even the most adroit "stool pigeons" have never been able to tip off an impending battle. One minute Chinatown seemed to nod in a dreamy escape from reality and the next it would ring with crescendo shouts of victors mingled with the groans of vanquished.

Before the reserves arrived from the Elizabeth Street Station around the corner, Chinatown is revealing its sullen indifference and sleepy blink. Nine patrolmen and six plain clothes men are roaming the streets of the quarter every hour of day and night.

In addition there are 16 special detectives, changed frequently, and a squad of narcotic sleuths detailed there at all times. The Chinese Merchants' Association, which actually governs the district, also has a quota of carefully selected informers.

Nearly all the gambling houses, opium dens and brothels which were a part of old Chinatown have moved to New Jersey. On Sunday former residents return to their native land. What is left of Chinatown is supported by yap wagon tourists.

There are professional cicerones who give sing song lectures in the joss house and there are underground passages where "prop" drug addicts lie in bunks feigning poppy addiction. But only when a tong war blazes, is there excitement in Mott, Doyers or Pell street any more.

Tong men are not considered outlaws by the Chinese. A tong is a commercial organization. Business enterprises are dominated by them and a Chinaman must be identified with a tong or he cannot get a job.

An explanation of why so many business men are always "in conference" may be gleaned from the fact there are more than 30,000 acres of ground in the New York area given over to golf clubs.

* * *

Theatrical folk are writing to newspapers and otherwise resenting the Broadway manner of referring to performers as "hams." It is only a passing term that will wear itself out and is not applied venomously but slangily.

Some of the touchy should open newspaper columnists morning mail and see what they are called. Yet they continue merry, bright and full of red ants.

A high kick dancing academy for ladies on Eighth avenue has this sign in a street window: "Gentlemen Will Not Look In Here." And I'll be dogged if I didn't have to climb upon a fire plug to see over the crowd.

From an anonymous correspondent: "We hear much about incomes of syndicate writers. You, for instance, are reported receiving several different amounts. Come on, now, what's the low down?"

What's the use? We have all lied so much nobody will believe us anyway.

WINDMILL TILTERS

TIPSTERS, at the moment, are without honor in ANY country. But it's perfectly safe to advise dispassionate judgment to SELL SHORT President Hoover's plan for the abolition of food blockades.

Europe's preliminary response to his millennial suggestion forecasts an international repudiation.

The last weapon war will likely relinquish, is starvation of the enemy.

No other device so quickly and penetratively reduces civilian and military morale.

Campaigns are won and lost on bread. "Caesar's Commentaries," and Napoleon's curt aphorism, that "an army travels on its belly," stress the importance of controlling the opposition's rations—of keeping non-combatant effectives engaged at agricultural and animal husbandry, and devitalizing the greatest possible number of potential recruits.

DEFICITS of wheat, fats and oils defeated Germany. Just as malnutrition conspired with Grant's better-fed troops to overwhelm the Confederacy.

French, Italian and British press comments are straws which already indicate the veer of allied opinion on the President's proposition.

The exalted spirit of humanity, which permeates his Armistice Day speech, leaves hard-boiled expediency without an emotion but cynicism.

The hour is not yet arrived when women and children come first in diplomatic calculations.

Dr. H. F. Clark, professor of economics at Columbia University, is another windmill tilter who will vainly wait for the thunders of indorsement.

HE strikes at tradition with the theory that thrift is a delusion, an economic mirage and an unjustifiable practice.

PEOPLE shouldn't save their money, but spend as they go and let the rainy days take care of themselves. He deplores the teachings of Poor Richard and his school of nimble sixpence salvagers.

It's the dime banks that cause overproduction. If folk would cease hoarding, finance wouldn't have the surplus funds to promote expansion and speed output ahead of consumption.

Now we know why Steel common broke below 160, and securities yielding 10 per cent and better, are drugs on the market.

Any ray of light on the mystery of present exchange movements will be welcomed by the several million bewildered ticker-tyros, whose bullish enthusiasms were engulfed in a fourteen billion value collapse.

For further discussion of the Professor's virgin doctrine, please turn to the comic-columnists. They NEED a theme like that, to help distract general sentiment from the gloomier aspects of Wall street news.

NOT that one can't find plenty of subjects to inspire optimism and engross imagination.

Manufacturers and retailers continue to evince confidence in the country's fundamental prosperity, and employment figures sound no warning of imminent declines.

The flying robot has enlisted in the Army Air Corps. "Macaviator," the mechanical aviator, whose gyroscopic skill promises to lower overhead risks to a minimum, is proving again that there are no insuperable difficulties.

Take your mind out of your pocket, send it back to work, and give it a bone to gnaw. The wires are full of 'em.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

ARE you one of those at-loose-ends individuals? The kind that never closes a door, or a drawer or puts the top back on the tooth paste?

Perhaps you have always had someone to run around after you and see that things were put in order for you. But you cannot expect service of that sort all your life. Sometime you may want a position—perhaps need it badly. The more desirable the position the more careful attention is paid to the personal traits of the person in mind for it.

It is just as easy to learn to be careful as it is to be slovenly.

It's going to save you a lot of work hunting for things to be able to put things in their places as you use them.

Carelessness does not show that you are accustomed to a luxurious life and way of living—quite the reverse.
